

INVICIBLES, ATTEND!

The Harrisburg Republican Invincibles will meet at the MOUNT VERNON TRUCK HOUSE, Locust street, THIS EVENING at seven o'clock, to perfect their organization. Young men of the city wishing to join the club are requested to be present. The club will be organized on the same principles as the Invincibles of Philadelphia are formed.

There was a very heavy frost in this vicinity this morning.

The next term of Cumberland County Court will commence on Thursday, November 14th.

Henry Huber, of Lancaster city, fell dead on the road on Thursday evening. He was returning from the country.

Time for receiving proposals for the erection of the extension of the Capitol, will close at noon on Tuesday next.

The light of an extensive fire was seen from here last night. It is supposed that there was a conflagration in the neighborhood of Lebanon.

We have had several days of good weather. The mud on the streets has dried up and given place to dust. The sprinkler is again at duty.

Mrs. Carr, of Lancaster, had her pocket picked at market, this morning. Her loss amounted to $23, in greenbacks. Mrs. C. was visiting in this city, and went to market to see the sights.

The house-cleaning season is at hand. Housekeepers have commenced overhauling their furniture, and applying the whitewash brush. The supply of lime is said to be unequal to the demand.

A boy employed in the Patriot and Union office had one of his hands crushed, yesterday, while feeding the press. We are informed that a number of the fingers were broken, and the centre of the hand badly cut and torn.

Gen. Binney is now lying at his residence in Philadelphia, suffering from malarious fever. His physicians prohibit any one from seeing him. It is said that nothing but perfect tranquility can restore him.

Young Men, Anouse!—We commend the notice of the Invincible Club. The young men of the city of Philadelphia contributed a great deal to the large majority given in Philadelphia, and by active exertion they can do the same in this country.

N. C. R. R.—On Monday next an additional train will be placed on the Northern Central Railroad. It is named the Erie Express. It will pass Harrisburg about midnight, leaving here for the North at 12:35 A. M. Going South it will pass here about the same hour. See change in time table.

Persons wanting shade and ornamental trees, vines, &c., are informed that Mr. Mish, of the Keystone Nursery, is prepared to supply all orders, and is ready to commence planting. The assortment is extensive and varied, and comprises the most beautiful, as well as the best.

CANTERBURY MUSIC HALL.—The Canterbury will be re-opened on Monday evening, with an entire new company of first class male and female performers. The managers intend giving a new and attractive entertainment, which shall be worthy of the patronage of our citizens.

MARKET.—This institution presented the usual animated appearance this morning. The assortment of articles offered for sale was varied and extensive. A slight advance was perceptible in the prices of produce generally. There was an abundant supply of late vegetables, fruits, nuts, &c.

FIRE.—On Friday the barn of Wm. Seiders two miles from this city, near the Jonestown road, was entirely destroyed by fire. All the contents of the building—hay, grain, farming implements, &c.—were consumed. A valuable stallion perished in the flames. Mr. Seiders' loss is very heavy. We have not learned how the fire originated.

ANOTHER POCKET CUT.—At two o'clock this morning, Robert Simpson, of Carlisle, who arrived here on one of the night trains, had his wallet stolen by some one of the pocket-snatching fraternity. We were unable to ascertain the precise amount of Mr. Simpson's loss, but learn that it was considerable. A burglar-proof pocket would be a valuable invention just now.

Those members of Capt. H. W. Miles' Militia Company who have muskets, are hereby notified to return them immediately to Miles' Grocery Store, on Ridge Avenue, or they will be called upon to pay for the same. The drum must also be returned immediately. By order H. W. MILES, Late Capt. Militia Company.

A magnificent bill is presented to the patrons of the theatre for to-night's entertainment—consisting of Jack Sater and Fraxon, and a Glance at Philadelphia. Neither of these pieces was ever performed in this city. Play-goers anticipate a grand performance, and there will be a full house. Go to the Theatre if you want to pass a pleasant evening.

ARRESTED FOR ENLISTING DRAFTED MEN.—James Martin, of Sprucehill township, Juniata county, was arrested yesterday, for attempting to enlist Thomas Young, of Lack township, same county. It appears that Martin persuaded Young to come down here and enlist, to secure a bounty, but after he had been examined and was ready to be sworn in, it was ascertained that he had been drafted in June last, but failed to report. He was therefore held as a drafted man, and he entered the service in a cheerful mood. Afterwards Young made an affidavit that he had been persuaded to enlist by Thomas Martin, and upon this information he has been arrested and placed in the guard house.

Martin, it appears, has made a habit of enlisting drafted men, and thus deprive the Government of their services and fill his own pockets. Whilst he was busily engaged in this nefarious business he was abusing the Government constantly, and casting odium upon the Administration. We have our eyes on several others of the same genre, some of whom have been dishonorably discharged from the service, who are now robbing the men that are willing to defend their country. These men must be banished from the city for the good of the country.

AN Oration to Victory.—Rev. John Walker Jackson at the Court House last night.—A Brilliant Audience and a Powerful Oration.—The meeting in the Court House, last evening, for the purpose of listening to an oration from Rev. John Walker Jackson, was one of the most respectable and enthusiastic assemblages convened during the campaign. The meeting a week ago, to hear Mr. Dougherty speak, was considerably large, but it is generally conceded that it was exceeded by the gathering last night, if not in respectability, brilliancy and enthusiasm, at least in numbers. The Court-room was crowded in all its parts. Every stall was packed; the aisles and entry literally overflowed, the windows were filled, while the bar, and many of the stalls contiguous, were filled with the matronly and youthful beauty of the city. Indeed, standing at the door leading from the rear entry to the Court-room, we had a favorable position to observe the audience, and from that point its splendor seemed to our gaze really incomparable. The ladies, rich in the first attire of the fall fashions—the dense crowds of men, with the military, invalids and heroes, scattered through the audience, imparted to the scene that gorgeousness and dazzling beauty which are not soon forgotten when once observed.

On motion of George Bergner, George M. Wiseman, Esq., was called to the chair by Col. R. C. Leman, moving the appointment of a committee to wait on Mr. Jackson and conduct him to the Court House.

H. C. Alleman, George Bergner, and George W. Harris, were appointed said committee, and after a short absence, presented the orator to the audience.

Rev. Jackson took the stand amid great excitement. After order had been restored, the speaker asked the indulgence of the audience, while he explained the singularity of the position he occupied before the people. He was a minister of the Gospel. He had chosen that calling when a mere boy—he desired none other while he lived. To preach the gospel was the main object of his life—but, while in the discharge of that great duty, he felt that he had time, nay that he was commanded to speak a word in defence of his country. In the days of the Revolutionary war, the colonies were engaged in a noble struggle to establish a free Government, then the ministry of the land did not deem it derogatory to their holy calling to engage with their compatriots in the work of wresting a young nation from the grasp of an old despotism. The deeds and the sacrifices of the ministry loyal to the colonies during the Revolutionary struggle for independence, now constitute a portion of the most sacred history of that glorious epoch. Why, then, remembering that the men of God assisted in creating this nation, in giving form to its institutions, shape to its Government, and potency to its freedom, have not the honest followers of the same calling, a right to step forward and enroll themselves among those who are engaged in a struggle to preserve the nation in its greatness and its glory—its freedom and its prosperity? He was certain of the performance of his duty while engaged in the service of his country. He was confident that his duty was to stand by the nation employed in the defence of his government, and therefore he was before the people of Harrisburg; believing, too, that the time had come when no man could hesitate to speak out boldly for freedom. He did not seek audiences from his fellow citizens merely to indulge in a political harangue. He appeared before the people to speak alone for his country—to point out to his countrymen the dangers by which they were surrounded, and, if possible, direct them in the proper path of escape. To do this it might be necessary for him to offer his audience a word of advice—advice which, he trusted, would be as seriously received as it would be given.

Rev. Jackson then read that resolution of the Chicago Convention which proclaimed a determination to put an end to the war for the purpose of calling a convention of all the States, to secure reconstruction "on the basis of the Federal Union." He was lurking in that resolution the cause and the argument which should control every man in casting his vote at the coming November election. It did not seek to reconstruct the Union on the basis of the Federal Constitution—it did not propose to restore the land to peace by firmly insisting on the power of the national authority and lightening the bonds of the Federal Union. It simply offered to reconstruct on the basis of the Federal Union. What kind of a basis was that? It was first completely to destroy the old Union—to leave out such States as were offensive to the men armed in rebellion—to thrust aside the New England States—to put them in the cold—and make the basis of the Federal Union, the illustration of the power of slavery, the vindication of all that is asked for by the slaveholders in rebellion. Mr. Jackson's argument of these points, was alike adroit and lucid, abounding with that logic and reason which are irresistible.

We must not attempt further to sketch this magnificent effort. Its appeals to the judgment of those present—its clear statements of the facts involved in the struggle for the Presidency—its graphic description of the results which would inevitably follow the re-election or defeat of Mr. Lincoln, did not fail, we are confident, in having a most powerful effect upon all who were present.

The meeting adjourned with three cheers for the Union, the Government and the army defending both.

LOCUST STREET M. E. CHURCH.—The Rev. Bishop E. R. Ames will preach in the Locust Street M. E. Church, to-morrow morning at 10 o'clock.

DAY GOODS have fallen as a natural consequence of the fall of gold, but at the same time, did it not affect domestic goods as much as imported goods? For the rise of domestic goods was caused by scarcity of raw material, as well as stock on hand, while foreign goods rose on account of exchange, and yet domestic goods have fallen some 25 per cent. To convince you that goods have come down, call at Brown's cheap corner, Second street, opposite Jones, who laid in a beautiful stock of goods at last week's decline, and is therefore able to sell goods 25 to 50 per cent. less than any one in this town. All wool French merinos at $1.25, worth $2.25; all wool plaids $1.15, worth $1.75; poplins 50 cents per yard, less than formerly; cloaks and circulars made to order; calicos 20 and 30 cents; very best 40 cents; Allen's 200 yard spools, 3 for 25 cents; woolen hose, half hose, and a full line of men's wear. HEADQUARTERS Co. E, 201st Regt P. V., SCRANTON, Pa., Oct. 13, 1864.

Editors of Telegraph.—I had contemplated writing to you whilst at Camp Couch, Chambersburg, giving you a description of our encampment, sending you a muster roll of our company, &c., but was unavoidably prevented from doing so, whilst there, but will attend to it now, hoping it may yet receive a place in your columns, although at this late hour. Our company (E) left the regiment at Camp Couch on Monday morning, Sept. 19th, for this place, arriving here on the following day (Tuesday) about 2 o'clock, P. M. We went into camp immediately outside of town, but removed next day (Wednesday) into the military barracks, in town, on Lackawanna Avenue, where we are at present very comfortably located. The military force, now stationed here, consists of one company of 100 days' men, (Capt. Johnson commanding,) a squad numbering 10 men, and a company of 100 days' men, (Lieut. Alfred Cowgill, 9th Illinois Infantry, a small detachment of Capt. Stroud's railroad troop, (cavalry,) of Philadelphia, and our own company E, (the "E" company of the 201st Regt P. V.) Our captain, M. McNally, is in command of the barracks. The command of our company consequently devolves, for the present, upon our 1st Lieut., James B. Wells. Our company is doing provost duty here. Quite a number of recruits, deserters, conscripts, &c., are almost daily sent from here to general rendezvous, at Philadelphia. A portion of our company have already been to the city on this mission. I would state here, for the information of our friends at Harrisburg and vicinity, that our company, with few exceptions, is enjoying excellent health, and the boys, generally speaking, in fine spirits, Scranton is a very pretty place; in fact we were all disappointed with its appearance. There is a great deal of business transacted here. The coal and iron forests alone give employment to vast numbers of men.

The following is a correct muster-roll of our company, up to this writing:

Captain M. McNally,

The following men have been detached from the company, for special duty:

Private Jasper N. Deeter, detailed at Camp Curtin, as clerk at headquarters there, (August 28, 1864,) and appointed Commissary Sergeant of the regiment, ranking as a non-commissioned staff officer. Private, Matthew B. Black, detached from company at Camp Couch, and placed in the hospital, as hospital attendant, by order of Colonel F. A. A. W. PICKET POST, NEAR GAINESVILLE, VA., Monday, Oct. 10, 1864.

Editor Telegraph.—Since I wrote you, on Friday last, I have had a most interesting experience in the direction of the Shenandoah Valley, and from the number of trains going in that direction, laden with cavalry horses, troops, &c., supply and construction trains, every day since, there remains no doubt that Mosby's rascals were driven off. From six to eight trains pass here daily, and return to rights Manassas and Alexandria the same evening. We have not been disturbed here, neither do we anticipate any danger; although we are obliged to keep a sharp look-out at night, with loaded guns near us, and our "blue-pill" boxes close at hand.

Company I pickets the distance of a mile, and is divided into nine squads of from eight to twelve men in each squad—the squads are all within halting distance of each other; companies D and K are posted still further on, in the direction of Salem, joining our right wing, or the first platoon, under Capt. Miles.

Send plain in charge of Lieut. O. S. McCurdy, a cool, gentlemanly officer, who has seen service in Virginia before, and your correspondent has the honor to be "corporal of the guard" for this squad.

The men of company I were as might naturally be supposed, rather timid, and a trifle "scarey," the first night we were placed on duty, and many a stray shot grazed the back of some inoffensive wild porker, straggling coon, or hungry opossum, in search of subsistence. Ludicrous in the extreme, (but nevertheless, true,) are some of the yarns told about the manner in which some of the men behaved, the first night we passed in this paradise.

John M.G.—The snake-man roused up his corporal with "Hist corporal, what in the d—l is that—a man crapping up the bank! shall I fire?" "Yes, py G—d, I see him too!" said "Blue Head" his companion, and bang! bang! rang out two musket reports in the wild air—and away scampered a wild hog into the thicket, frightened out of her wits, or at least a year's growth of bristles! John and Blue Head got an extra lecture from Danny M.—the sergeant, for alarming the line, and neither has since raised a false alarm.

John S.—A coal miner from the Wisconsin coal district, in Dauphin county, is a most exemplary, steady man, and a good, faithful soldier. Whatever he is told to do, he executes promptly. The other night Corporal P—n told him; "S—k, keep your eyes open to-night—let nothing pass your post unchallenged—do you hear?" All right, corporal—I'll plow the d—ll out of every poty dat bass my post." About midnight, friend S— moved up and down his beat nervously, peering from one side of the road to the other; and spying an ignis fatuus, or trifling phosphorescent light; he blazed away—rousing everybody out of their slumbers, with the inquiry: "What's the matter? What up? Any shot?" "Hello, S—k, what in the name of the w—d are you a-couting at?" S—k replied, from a mud-puddle at the foot of an embankment, (where he had tumbled from the concussion of his musket, or from sheer fright,) "Vy corporal, some person be going to light a match to shute—and I shute him first! Don't like to let a man cum up to me mit his coat off, and may pe ent me mit a sword!" "Whut where is the dead man, S—k?" "Wus among de bushes, dese!" "A-plach here, he jump into de bushes, dese!" "Inoffensive S—k, will never hear the last about 'treeseing a hog!'"

Another body individual declared he espied two cavalrymen in the pine thicket opposite to his post, and sure enough he "blazed away," requesting his comrades to do so also! On running across the road, the men discovered an old blind horse that somebody turned away as useless, no doubt—but not a hair was harmed on dobbie's back; and he gave a few snorts, straggling away with head and tail erect, still further into the thicket. "Sure enough H—y," shouted Corporal C—y; "there is a horse without the rider!" "Where is the man, corporal," asked H—y, "did I kill him?" "Yon—why, H—y, you would miss the gab-end of a barn, I judge—for you did not even touch a hair of this old hoss!" "Git out!—set down your gun, and try some smaller game!" he has not heard the last of that cavalryman since, and he will never see him again. There are, nevertheless, many "plucky," cool-headed men in our company, and they enjoy themselves as much, and appear as unconcerned and self-possessed down here in Dixie, as they would at home.

The other day, while away on a foraging tramp a mile to the north of this post, we passed over a spot of ground that was formerly occupied by a rebel cavalry force. On looking around for trophies I came across a writing-desk with this label upon it—"Lieut. Col. Manning, Orange C. H.—20 8-inch rifle-shell, with charges—23 fuses,—August, 1862." The box is of rebel make, sure enough, for it looks as if a botch-carpenter had put it together!

We feast daily, on ripe persimmons and grapes, of the finest quality. The crop of persimmons is large, the fruit ripe and sweet, maturing much earlier than in Pennsylvania. It has been cold and windy for the past two days; but the weather has moderated this evening. More anon. A. H. B. P. S.—Tell our friends to direct their letters to Co. I, 201st Regt. P. W. C. BANNART, Dec. 8th, 1864. C. A. BANNART—Dear Sir: I have used Bannart's Bronchial Troches, Wistar's Lozenges and other preparations for hoarseness and throat troubles, and in comparison with them all, can cheerfully commend your own as a most admirable specific for public speakers and singers, in cases of hoarseness, coughs and colds. I have found them serving in time of need, most effectually.

Yours truly, F. H. ROBINSON, Pastor of N. S. Presbyterian Church.

Ingrate with Mr. Robinson as to the value of Bannart's Troches.

W. C. CATTLE, Late Pastor of O. S. Presbyterian Church.

HARRISBURG, Jan., 1864. To C. A. BANNART—Dear Sir: In the habit of speaking very frequently, and in places where the vocal organs are very much taxed, I have found the need of some gentle expectorant, and that want has been supplied in your excellent Troches.

I consider them very far superior to any Lozenges that I have ever used, in rescuing speedily that huskiness of the voice arising from its too frequent use, and impairing the effectiveness of the delivery of public addresses. Yours truly, J. W. WALKER JACKSON, Pastor of the Locust St. Methodist Church.

To C. A. BANNART—Dear Sir: Having used your Troches, I am free to say they are the best I have ever tried and take great pleasure in recommending them to all persons afflicted with sore throat or business of voice arising from public speaking or singing. Yours truly, C. G. HANESKY, Pastor of Ridge Avenue Methodist Church.

DISTRICT ATTORNEY'S OFFICE, HARRISBURG, Feb. 29, 1864.
