The Home Vote.

The copperheads are again harping upon the home vote, and allege they have a majority of 467. This is a decided coming down. A few days since they claimed not less than 5,000, but the real figures on the home vote stand as follows:

For the Union Congressmen......197,392 For the Copperhead Congressmen ... 197,001

Union majority..... In order to cypher out a majority for their candidates, they willfully lie in the returns from the following counties:

In Adams county they claim 411 majority. The real majority is 365—a lie of 46 votes. In Fulton they claim 290. The official is 288-a lie of 2 votes. In Clarion they claim 986. The official is 968-a lie of 18 votes.

In Cambria they claim 1,070. The official is 1.043--a lie of 27 vetes.

In Westmoreland they claim 1,478. The official is 1,477—a lie of 1 vote,

In York they claim 2,880. The official is 2,808-a lie of 72 votes.

Several other manifest mistakes are down in their tables, but these are more than sufficient to show that the calculation is made for the whole story of the home vote is gotten up for the purpose of defrauding the men whom they induced to bet. We advise all our friends not to give up the bets. You have won them honestly, and your opponents must give up

TREASON UNMASKED!!!

Trial of the Columbia County Rebels!!

THE KNIGHTS OF THE GOLDEN CIRCLE!

A military commission has been in session in this city for some days, sitting as a court-martial for the trial of parties charged with having organized and armed themselves to resist certain measures deemed necessary for the military success of the government in the great struggle to defeat the slave-holders' rebellion. These trials were of a character likely to create new precedents and at the same time were fraught with that importance which induced us to observe a reticence during the delivery of the testimony, that we deemed necessary to the impartial judgment of the court and the meting out of full justice to those arraigned. But now that one of those thus charged has had his trial, we deem it not out of place to print some of the facts which appeared in the evidence, in order to convince our readers of the real position, objects and fell purposes of those who are now in what they naively term POLITICAL OPPOSITION TO THE ADMINISTRATION OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

The readers of the Tory Organ in this city, as well as the readers of every treason sympathizing sheet in the country, have been sought to be enlightened with the idea, that the Administation was guilty of great wrong in the proceedings instituted against the Columbia county conspirators. The opposition journals claimed that the arrest of these men was illegal and their trial informal. So far as we are concerned, we have never justified the detention of any man without a declaration of strangers, representing themselves as desert-the specific charges upon which he was held. ers, had arrived in the crowd. Kline swore In the trial which has just terminated by the conviction of one John Rantz, the evidence of notorious guilt almost justifies any informality in bringing such a wretch, coward and traitor to justice. Rantz was convicted by the testimony of his own associates. The the testimony of his own associates. The pany, but he was armed, and to the best of weapon which the government used for his his knowledge was a member of Stiles' compunishment was forged by himself at the fire of that fanaticism kindled by the Democratic were owned by the companies. The guns were owned by the citizens, and the revolvers leaders, and spread by them in organizations of oath-bound traitor to the Union.

It will be remembered that a large body of men were encamped in Columbia county, for the purpose of resisting the arrest of drafted men, and men who had deserted the flag of their country after they had been sworn into service and received large local and government bounties, and that this lawless banditti the audacity to assert that the arrest of any murdered a man engaged in the performance of his duty. The necessity for the trial before this court-martial originated in this murder.

As we have already stated, the evidence on which Rantz was convicted was derived entirely from gentlemen associated with him in his political movements. These witnesses repented, after having seen the folly of their pursuits, and the testimony of one of these is sufficient to expose the whole affair:

ton township, Columbia county; a carpenter. I know the prisoner, John Rantz; I know of the existence of a secret organization in my county, called the "Knights of the Golden Circle;" the object of that meeting was to resist the conscription act; I am a member of the association; a young man named Hadley first spoke to me concerning it; he said it was one of the best things ever introduced; they commenced the meetings in different places many citizens joined; I saw them at the meetings; when a man was initiated, those that belonged to the meeting were allowed to stay in, and those not belonging retired; they had signs; one was to pass the hand along the lap-pel of the coat; this was a sign of recognition; then one with the fingers, also of recognition; they had pass-words; one was "Wolf," or "Bear;" I would come to a house, and rap three times; they would ask, "Who is there?" I would give the pass-word, and they would repeat it; one sign was the hand on the mouth, which directed quiet; there was an oath administered on the initiation, to support the Constitution of the United States, and resist the conscription act; I was initiated in Jackson township; I saw, at Benton. William Appleman, John Rantz, Abraham M'Neil, Samuel Kline, Eli M'Henry, and others I do not remember; William Appleton was a member; I saw him initiate John Keeler; I think Rantz was a member: I saw him at two or three of the secret meetings; you could not tell who was actually a member, except to see him initiated; the meetings were public part of the time and speeches were made in the presence of visitors, on the subject of resist-

John Rantz was at one of the meetings to raise money for volunteers, at which he advised us to get ammunition to shoot or kill those individuals who would attempt to force us into the army. The majority at this meeting favored the tax, but a canvass of the township resulted in a majority against it at the next meeting. I cannot tell whether it was on the 14th or not, but it was on Sunday, about the middle of August. I got to the meeting at Rantz's barn about eleven o'clock in the forenoon; there were about 125 men there then. The object was to resist the draft. and the soldiers at Bloomsburg; half of them were armed: they put their guns away and organized into companies of twenty each; Samuel Kline was selected as Captain of one company, Jacob Shultze Captain of another, Jeremiah Stiles of another, a stranger of a fourth, and I was selected to command the last. The plan was, that one company was to mee near Stillwater, another near Charles Coleman's, another near John Keefer's, another along Greene Creek, between Joshua Savage's Keller's saw mill, the other one near Peter Appleman's sugar camp. There were men assigned to go to Bloomsburg to watch the movements of the soldiers. We were to go home and rest contented until the word was brought back from Bloomsburg. The first I saw of Kline after that was at Rohr M'Henry's. They were paying up Samuel R. Kline's expenses to Bloomsburg. I asked Rohr how much my share was, and he said ten cents, which I paid. Kline said we were to go to the mountain next morning. I met some of them at Ezekiel Coles', at Jackson. The company staid there, David Crossly and I going up to Sugar Loaf, in the mountain. Next day we met Kline's company at their encampment. Kline said they were about purpose of cheating Union men out of their the right distance from the road, when the purpose of cheating Union men out of their the right distance from the road, which they induced them to make. The soldiers came along, to fire upon them, and then we could run down a piece further and fire again. On my way to James Hess' I met Smith and John C. Karns hunting Minor Smith and Thomas Smith. They stated there was a proposal by the General that if those drafted men would report and pay the three hundred dollars it would be all right. I told Crossly we would go down to Benton and see about this. I came to J. J. Stiles, and asked for this alleged production. Benjamin Win-tersteen told me I should pay no attention to that; that in a very short time there would be another draft; and I would have plenty of help. I saw Jacob Shultze's company at Coles! that evening, and on Sunday morning we started for the mountain. Among the number.

> the way of the soldiers, because from what I could find out, they were too strong for our forces. Matthew M'Henry, Ephraim M'Henry, John Fritz, John Yonks, Jacob Yokum, Daniel Poust and Wm. Brink furnished the provisions. About twenty-four hours after I was drafted was in company with John Rantz. He said he did not want me to be baffling about any longer, but wanted me to resist the draft and act like a man. He urged me to stand firm and not go over to the Abolitionists. About a year ago, in September, Rantz told me that they had made arrangements to lay in a supply of ammunition, to be put in certain individuals' hands, and to be dealt out and strict account kept, for he (Rantz) would have to stand good for it. On the day before, Tues day, the second of August, a company was out watching a road. They needed everybody to turn out that could to watch the roads Next day Abraham Hedler said it beat every thing he had ever seen, the way they turned out last night; that even the grey-headed men were there; we went to Bantz's, and from there to Raven Creek, where we found him. Jere miah Stiles put the crowd into squads. think he placed three below the house and one above. The road was also watched. This was for the protection of Silas Karns, a drafted man, who was in the house, and we understood the soldiers were coming to search were Jacob Shultze, Jacob Krouse, Joel Albertson, Eli M'Henry, Elias M'Henry and

John Blicker. At one time there were twenty-

the house for him. The squad nearest the the house for nim. The squad nearest the house were to fire into them. But no one came to search: Just about daybreak, Rantz stated, that he did not think the soldiers would be out before the last of the week, and that we should be sure and turn out then. I was there the Saturday night following. Two them, and placed them in his company. Rantz was not there then.

The cross-examination elicited little material in addition. It was brutal that the soldiers were going to burn buildings and "destroy women and children." He did not know positively if Rantz was a member of a comwere purchased at Orangeville.

-Here we have a full expose of the manner in which treason was attempted to be organized in one of the Democratic counties of Pennsylvania. Like the organization of the great slave-holders' rebellion, the movement was entirely in the hands of the Democratic leaders, and yet the organs of these men have one of them is a high-handed act of oppression on the part of the Government. With guilt stamped upon their cheeks, they claim exemption from the penalties of the law they violate! Besides this testimony, other witnesses affirmed that prominent leading Democrats had encouraged the insurgents of Columbia county to revolt, with the declaration that New Nork had gone out of the established before the Court, that the people in the district of country where these transactions occurred, were taught that "the Lincoln Government had fallen to pieces."_ When these witnesses were interrogated as to who had thus preached to them, they delib. erately pointed to the lawyer appearing as counsel for the prisoner at the bar, and de clared THERE IS THE MAN! Such, fellowcitizens, are the plans and the men on which and whom George B. McClellan depends for his election to the Presidency. They are the oath-bound as well as the armed traitors who seek to inaugurate a civil conflict in Pennsylvania, to devastate its fields, ravage the homes of its citizens, and lay waste all that is now fruitful and presperous. It is the means by which George B. McClellan is to be elected President. It is the political machinery set in operation by the Democratic leaders to destroy the Union! Fellow-citizens, it is for you to decide whether these rascals shall succeed!

A COUNTRYMAN IN THE HANDS OF A SHARPER The Philadelphia papers contain an account of how a Franklin county man, named Joseph Briggs, was "taken in" by a sharper in the Quaker city. Briggs arrived in the city on Friday morning, early, with the purpose, as he stated, of entering the United States ser-vice. When at the foot of Walnut street wharf he was met by a man named Charles Stewart, who keeps a drinking saloon on Almond street, who offered his services to Mr. Briggs to see that he was properly enlisted. Briggs was marched through the streets by Stewart, and made to drink often. He was finally taken to Stewart's house, where a breakfast was given him. From there he was again taken to several drinking saloons, where he indulged freely in intoxicating liquors, and at last became insensible. Mr. Briggs states that he knew nothing of what transpired between the time he became in sensible until he awoke from a sleep on board of a vessel somewhere in the Delaware river. This was in the afternoon. When recovering his senses he inquired of one of the crew where the vessel was bound for, when the reply "to the West Indies" was given.

Awaiting a chance for escape, Mr. Briggs, in the evening, secured a plank and threw it overboard. Upon this he swam to the shere He made his way to a house in the neighborhood, where he was kindly taken care of of, which proved to be in the town of Billings port, N. J. Stewart, who is alleged to have had him enlisted, and furnished him with the liquors was arrested, and yesterday had a hearing a the Central Station. Mr. Briggs stated that he was told (previous to his becoming insensible) to change his name when he was abou to be enlisted, in order that he might "jump the bounty." The accused was committed to answer.

LOOSE SWEARING. -The Harrisburg Patrio the other day published a statement purport ing to come from a Mrs. Mary Ann Todd. who claimed to be a sister-in-law of President Lincoln, and made various dirty statements calculated to be little her before the people.— The TELEGRAPH the next day published an affidavit from this same Mary Ann Todd, in which she swore that all of her statements, both her own and those of the Patriot and Union, were ntterly and entirely false. The following day, however, the Patriot men called on her and got her to swear to still another affidavit declaring that the contents of the previous affi-davit had never been read to her, and that she did not know whether they were true or false. Whatever may be thought of the old lady's motives, she is certainly a very loose swearer and is not a person whose statements are likely to affect Mr. Lincoln.—Pilisburg Chronicle.

Rebel Account of Sheridan's Recent Victory.

[From the Richmond Examiner, Oct. 22. Yesterday morning it was rumored that the cannonading which occurred the previous evening along the whole length of Grant's lines was nothing more than a "shotted sa-lute" in honor of another victory of Sheridan over Early. The rumor grew as the day adover Early. The rumor grew as the day auvanced, and by noon assumed startling proportions. It was stated that a well-known citizen, who happened to be in Fort Gilmor when the cannonading commenced, had reached the city with the following statement: That when the firing was at its height, Gen Lee rode in haste to Fort Gilmor, dismount ed and ascended the parapet (a very unwise thing for General Lee to do, and very unlike him) to discover, if possible, the meaning of a bombardment so sudden and unheralded. He could make nothing of it. When the cannonading ceased, and the pickets of the opposing armies resumed their accustomed quies, Grant's pickets stated, in substance that Sheridan had whipped Early, and taker all his cannon, some thirty pieces.

Such was the story on the streets. The au thorities professed to have no information whatever on the subject, and the firing on Grant's lines was attributed to the opening of batteries which enfiladed our works in front of Fort Harrison. Still the rumor grew and gained credence by expression, until at last the evidence from many sources was too strong to admit a doubt that Grant's pickets had told the truth, in part, at least. Early has been defeated, but the disaster is not so great as the public, unenlightened by correct information from the proper sources, has been led to

It appears, from all that we can gather that on Wednesday morning Early attacked Sheridan, drove him two or three miles to a second and stronger line of works, which we assaulted, and would have carried, had not the enemy's well-trained and superior force of cavalry again repeated one of those flank movements from which we have already suffered so much. Early was compelled to re-treat with the loss of most of his artillery and artillery horses, but with comparatively small loss of prisoners. He fell back to Fisher's Hill, it is said, in grood order; but there is little hope of his holding it if it be true that the position is in itself so untenable that Jackson always avoided it, and all his artillery is

One scout represents that Early, previous to the flank movement of the enemy's cavalry, captured eighteen guns, but subsequently lost these and twelve additional pieces. It is also said that he captured 1,200 prisoners.

In the absence of official intelligence, this is the best account we can give of this affair. Before going to press we shall doubtless receive some authentic particulars-two whole days after the fight occurred, and that, too, when the telegraph reaches New Market, which is only a few miles from Fisher's Hill
