EVENING EDITION.

From the 201st Regiment.

CAMP NEAR FORT ELLISWORTH, ALEXANDRIA, VA.

Wednesday evening, Nov. 23, 1864.

Editor TELEGRAPH.—Dear Sir:—I should have written you ere this, but was interested in taking practical lessons on Geology, trying to find out the difference between "sacred soil," and the free, uncursed dirt of our own loved Pennsylvania! It stormed and rained, and rained and stormed, by turns, for the last eight and forty hours, and the nights were actually so dark the sentinels on picket saw, that they were obliged to grope their way to their respective posts, with fear and trembling. In two or three instances they fell "head over heels" and measured their lengths in the mud, and in the morning looked as if they had lodged in a mortar-bed! One of the boys remarked that he hoped Uncle Samuel was responsible for children's short-comings, for he done some of the tallest parings in Latin any "trooper" ever heard of! "Why, Sergeant," he remarked, "it seemed to me that somebody poured soft soap on my bent," for I fell like Billy Patterson, on three occasions, and for the life of me could not see who struck me! I had a great mind to lay still in the mud during my two hours' turn, but feared the corporal would take me to the guard-house, and so I managed to get on my paces again, sticking the bayonet of my gun in the ground, and held on to the breast of picket, and they call this "sacred soil." I'll tell you if I can see it! It's just the other way! You might, with the same propriety, term a wheelbarrow a soldier's knapsack! The fellow is right! Ridge Avenue, after a week's steady rain, traveled and re-traveled by a regiment of soldiers from Camp Curtin, would not be a circumstance to the mud on Duke street here in Alexandria. Last night, however, a regular frost sprang up, with such a tremendous ado, that we really thought our Sibley tents would get away from their fastenings, and carry us off in the style of Professor Wise and La Mountain's Mammoth balloon—not into Lake Ontario—but into the Potomac river!

ham's Farm, and since died. Bravo boy! He endured the hardships and fatigues of a three years' campaign, in South Carolina, escaped disease and death there in the midst of untold dangers, re-enlisted for another term, and, alas! received his death-wound at the place above named. He has, indeed,—"for his country fallen."

and we feel and know that he has—"Like a soldier died."

Poor John! You have fallen, another martyr to this cursed rebellion. Peace to your remains, and may God, in His infinite mercy and goodness, sustain the relatives and friends of the young hero, in this great affliction. Corporal Lane was a brother-in-law to George M. Groff, of company B, 201st regiment.

A cheap clothing store was suddenly opened in our camp the other day, and the boys are dressed up in Sunday style every day. They should, Aladdin like, drop into their respective homes at Harrisburg, this evening, they would create the greatest consternation, for their wives and little ones would not know them, they look so stylish.

Col. Awk's orderly, J. Edward Fought, arrived and has again resumed his duties. He looks remarkably well.

There was a report current here, a day or two ago, that a soldier was to be shot for some misdemeanor, yesterday. The report was a fair but not true, as it was, at this writing, and I trust the rumor is an idle one. All hands well and in excellent spirits. Enough for the present. I will write, again, to-morrow. General Thomas.

RUMORS OF A BATTLE.

HOOD'S DEMONSTRATIONS FRUITLESS.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 26.

The rebel army under Hood, numbering probably 40,000 men, have been concentrating south of Columbia, Tennessee. Our forces in the meantime have evacuated Paducah, Huntville and Decatur, which places are in the hands of the rebel troops. We are in Hood's front near or about Columbia.

The Federal force is commanded by General Thomas. On the 24th inst., some severe skirmishing occurred resulting in a loss to our forces of 44 men killed and wounded.

The rebel loss is estimated at 250, including an officer ranking as a Colonel. Large bodies of troops are being massed in Hood's front. Some heavy fighting may be expected in that direction.

Communication by telegraph to Columbia has been interrupted since yesterday. Rumors are in circulation of a fight having occurred yesterday, but no official information of an engagement has been received. Hood's demonstrations in that direction have thus far been fruitless, and a retrograde movement of his army is confidently predicted by those who are well informed in army matters.

The city of Nashville is filled with thieves and murderers. About twenty deaths by violence have occurred. A steady rain has fallen all day, and the river is rising.

From New York.

ATTEMPT TO BURN THE ASTOR HOUSE.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.

This morning an examination of the Astor house took place to learn if any attempt had been made to fire that building, when, on opening room No. 204, an immense volume of smoke poured out into the hall.

The fire had been smouldering during the night and the floor was burned to cinders. The bedding had been saturated with turpentine. The chairs were placed on the bed and covered with the bed clothes. These rooms had been occupied by one person since the 20th inst., and his arrest it is believed will soon be made.

The damage will amount to about $600.

NEW YORK, Nov. 26.—3 P. M.—A person in a lieutenant's uniform, named Allison, who occupied one of the rooms fired, was arrested to-day. Arrangements have been made for protection against a repetition of the incendiarism.

Sherman's Great Movement.

A correspondent writing to the Chicago Tribune from Louisville, November 18, says: "To controvert false rumors in regard to Sherman, I hasten to send you the following notes:

I left Marietta, Georgia, Saturday evening, November 12, eight hours after the last railroad train going to Chattanooga. At 2 o'clock P. M., of that day, by a simultaneous movement, the railroad was destroyed from Atlanta to Ackworth.

At the Etowah we met Gen. Sherman bringing up the rear of the column—Jeff C. Davis's 14th Corps—and as we passed, Ackworth, Cartersville and Colton were burning. On Sunday the bridges over the Etowah, and the railroad beyond, were to be destroyed. Atlanta smoldered in ashes on the 14th, and on the 15th the expedition out loose from their communications. Their destiny is unknown. The best informed say it will go via Macon and Augusta to the Atlantic coast.

Sherman has the 14th, 15th, 17th, 19th and 20th corps, besides several thousand cavalry; is penetrating the line west of the Confederacy, and sure to succeed. Hood is on hand, and fifty miles in his rear, with a large force under Thomas to watch him. Verily the termination of this accursed rebellion is fast culminating.

On the 13th our overland expedition, consisting of seventy-five persons, six guns, and the residue armed with sticks, walked from Ackworth to Calhoun, fifty miles. A Adairville we were scarcely the rebel cavalry. We were the last to leave the expedition, and know more of the condition of affairs than will rumor indicate, and here you have it.
