THE ADVERTISERS IN THE TELEGRAPH.

A GENERAL DIRECTORY FOR OUR READERS.

A Prudent Man Only Purchases from a Liberal Advertiser.

HO! FOR THE HOLIDAYS!!!

Another business year is drawing to a close—a year, in all respects, the most eventful in the history of the country—a year which has tested the valor and proved the patriotism of the American people. In obedience to long established custom, we again proceed to notice, in fitting terms, the business men who are advertisers in the TELEGRAPH, that the readers thereof may know where to seek goods and find bargains suitable for the Holidays. Before commencing these notices, however, we must first return our own thanks for the liberal patronage which a discriminating public has bestowed upon our editorial and publishing labors. We have endeavored to deserve this support in the past, and it shall be our highest pleasure, in the future, so to control our columns and conduct our business, as to deserve the confidence and support of the people.

Our Merchants and Manufacturers.

DRY GOODS AND CLOTHING.

C. L. Bowman, corner of Front and Market street, has his usual well selected stock of ladies' dress goods, cloths, cassimeres, muslins, &c. In addition, he also keeps a fine selection of trimmings, all of which he is prepared to sell very low. Mr. Bowman is adding to his stock daily, so that those in need of the latest styles, will be certain to find them at this establishment.

Cathart & Bro., No. 14 Market Square, seem determined, this season, to excel themselves in the superiority as well as the great variety of the goods they now have on their shelves. The stock was purchased with a view to supply the taste of the people during the coming holidays, and accommodate all who desire to enjoy the luxury of making handsome presents. Aside from the best fancy goods on the shelves of the Messrs. Cathart, they have also a large variety of substantial fabrics designed expressly for the people. The ladies will of course patronize this house very extensively this season.

A. F. Brandt, South-east corner of Walnut and Second streets, is determined not to be outdone in his line of dry goods and fancy trimmings for the ladies, as he has certainly selected and brought to this city a stock of dress goods equal in quality to any now on the shelves of our leading merchants. We will not enumerate the goods comprising this stock, but leave the reader, after an examination, to decide and select for him or herself.

S. Levy, corner of Market street and Market Square, offers a selection of Dry Goods, from which to make purchases for the holidays, embracing every variety now in the market. No lady or gentleman can go amiss at this establishment, in choosing alike for their richness of style and superiority of material. We commend Levy to our friends and the public.

Mrs. M. Mayer, No. 13 Market street, offers to the public a fine assortment of millinery, with a stock of cloaks and circulars such as has never been exceeded for beauty and superiority in the city. In addition, Mrs. M. has a very large collection of trimming and woolen goods, from all of which very suitable presents can be selected. Our friends will not fail to give this lady a call.

The Philadelphia Cloak and Fur store, in Gross' New Block, Market street, presents a most attractive appearance at this season. The stock of furs at this establishment was selected and purchased early in the fall, so that sales can be made lower than the same article purchased for the retail trade a month since can be sold. Those in want of a good article of furs, a cloak or mantilla, should at least give this establishment a call and examine its superior stock.

J. Bernhard, corner of Walnut and Sixth streets, has on his shelves a stock of good and cheap clothing, which those in want of winter garments should not fail to examine. His prices are certainly astonishingly low, and his willingness to warrant his goods, is the evidence that he is prepared to deal fairly and liberally with those who give him their patronage.

Sol. Brownold, corner of Second and Market streets, has a decidedly beautiful and valuable stock of dry goods on hand, consisting of ladies' dress goods in all varieties which he has reduced 20 per cent. in price. In addition to his dress goods, Mr. Brownold has other dry goods, to which we direct the attention of our readers.

Shisler & Frazer are in the market early this season, with a heavy stock in their line of business, embracing the very best selections which the great importing, packing and manufacturing houses of the east and west afford. The housekeeper can supply all her needs at this establishment. The firm have laid in an immense stock of groceries, in the sale of which they defy competition. Their meats, fruits, jellies, glass ware, wooden ware, hollow ware, and in fact their entire stock is all of the very best production. We need scarcely add that the public will liberally patronize this most enterprising and deserving firm.

William M. Gray & Co. is a new firm in the grocery line, lately established at Houser & Loehman's stand, Market Square. Our young friend William has certainly in store a well selected stock of goods, embracing every variety in his line, which he is determined to sell as advantageously to his customers as the same articles can be purchased elsewhere. His stock has the advantage of being free from "old collections," a fact which will induce many persons to purchase largely of this firm.

Boyer & Kerper, Market Square, have, in a short time, made for themselves a very fine reputation in the grocery business. At present they have on hand a large stock of groceries, meats, fruits, jellies, queensware, wooden ware, glass ware and hollow ware, which they offer on reasonable terms. The addition to their stock of groceries for the holidays, embraces everything necessary to make the occasion merry with good things. Our friends must give Boyer & Kerper a call.

John Wise, Third and Walnut streets, has a well selected stock of fruits and confectionery on hand, suitable to the holidays. Mr. Wise gets his goods delivered in such a manner as to enable him always to have a fresh supply in store, so that those pandering for the holidays at this establishment will be certain to avoid that great pest of the trade, "stale goods." Mr. Wise is deserving of all success in his business.

Samuel Wise & Bro., corner of Second and Pine streets, have as fine a selection of fruit and confectionery as can be found anywhere, and are deserving of a liberal share of patronage. Messrs. Wise have had great experience as fruiterers, and have such arrangements with distant markets, as to keep themselves constantly supplied with fruit well preserved and fruit in season.

WATCHES, JEWELRY AND SILVER WARE.

A. F. Zimmerman, No. 52 Market street, has now in his cases, ready for the inspection of the public, a most magnificent collection of watches, jewelry &c. His collection of jewelry in sets for ladies wear, is one of the finest we ever examined, and embraces a variety from which the most fastidious taste can be gratified. The great majority of these sets are of the latest style, and were purchased by Mr. Z. expressly to meet the demands of the holidays. In watches and clocks, his stock cannot be excelled anywhere, for superiority of manufacture, beauty of finish, and economy of price. Mr. Zimmerman will of course supply his usual customers, and attract a large share of the transient trade in his line of business.

George W. McCalla, No. 38 Market street, offers to his patrons and the public, a stock of fine jewelry, watches, clocks and silverware, which cannot be excelled outside of the great commercial or manufacturing cities. The jewelry in his stock was purchased solely with a view of selling a fine and genuine article, while the watches are from the best American and European manufacturers. Those in search of a really splendid article of jewelry to serve as a present, or those in want of a substantial article in silver or gold, for personal use, need only give McCalla a call to be supplied.

Brady, No. 62 Market street, is determined not to be outdone in his peculiar branch of business, and we must cordially confess that he has a stock of goods of the most valuable, beautiful and costly furnished description. Some of his specimens of jewelry are really gems of mechanical skill. His watches and clocks are of the best manufacture, and his selections of fancy articles, silver ware, canes, &c., are enough to make us doubt the pressure of the times, and whether we are not really the most prosperous people in the world. Our friends will not forget Brady about the time they start to purchase their holiday presents.

C. A. Boas, Market Square, has added largely to his already large stock of well selected jewelry, watches, clocks and silver ware, and is now prepared to accommodate all wants and defy all competition in his line. His jewelry was purchased under his own immediate examination, and his clocks and watches selected with a regard to their superiority as well as their price. We have every confidence in Boas—his reputation is high—and his deservings great. He will not be forgotten during the holidays.

Jacob Tausig, 105 1/2 Market street, has a large stock of varieties, notions and jewelry, from which suitable presents for the holidays can be selected, and which he is resolved to sell very cheap. It is worth the reader's time to give Mr. Tausig a call.

MUSICAL INSTRUMENTS, MUSIC, METEORS, FRAMES, STEREOSCOPES, PRINTS, PHOTOGRAPHS, &c.
Knoche, No. 63 Market street, has been, and still is celebrated for his success as a dealer in musical instruments and a teacher of music. Indeed, Knoche is a musician himself, of modest pretensions, but of no mean ability. His stock embraces many rare and valuable instruments, from which the most suitable and acceptable presents can be selected. He also has on hand a valuable collection of engravings, colored prints, photographs, mirrors, frames and stereoscopes, from all of which suitable articles for holiday presentations can be easily drawn. Give Knoche a call.

Silas Ward, 12 Third street, is prepared to furnish the public with the best musical instruments manufactured in the country, from a piano down to a jews-harp. He constantly keeps on hand the best musical instruments of all kinds, to which we cheerfully direct the attention of our readers. In addition, Mr. Ward is prepared to furnish frames of every description, mirrors of all sizes, colored plates, photographs, elegant lithographs, photograph albums, sheet music, &c. Ward's experience, faithfulness and success in business are his recommendation. With these firmly established, he does not need fulsome praise from us.

BOOKS AND STATIONERY.

E. S. German, 27 South Second street, deals almost exclusively in religious books, his establishment being a repository for tract and Sabbath school publications. Mr. G. has now on hand a splendid collection of bibles, hymn books, photograph albums, music books, diaries, pens, &c. In addition to this stock, German has some attractive illuminated toy books, suitable for children. Indeed, our friends will find at 27 South Second street a stock from which they cannot fail to select something pleasing as well as profitable.

T. F. Scheffer, 24 South Second street, is a gentleman of experience and taste in his peculiar line of business, and has now one of the neatest and best regulated establishments in the interior of the State. He constantly keeps on hand a well selected stock of stationery, pens, ink, &c., while he is able to supply the demand for school books and other popular publications of the day. We commend Scheffer, particularly, to our readers.

Berger's Book store now contains a stock of unrivaled beauty, value and interest, in all that relates to original publications of rare literature. All the latest and newest books received as soon as published. In addition the stock contains a splendid selection of annuals for 1865, the works of standard authors richly bound for presentation, with a most beautiful selection of photograph albums.—New books supplied by order on all the leading publishers of Philadelphia, New York and Boston. Besides the standard books, latest fictions, fancy toy books, and illustrated publications suitable for the holidays on hand in great variety.

Hess, Third between Market and Walnut streets, has on hand a fine stock of photographic albums, with many other articles suitable for Christmas presents. He offers to his stock very cheap, and is deserving of the support of the people. Our readers should not fail to give him a call.

FANCY GOODS, DRUGS AND CHEMICALS.

KUNKEL & BRO., No. 118 Market street, offer such a variety of fancy goods, that it is beyond our power to enumerate the stock in the limited space reserved to us for these brief notices. They have ornaments of all kinds, manufactured in unique style from every material capable of manipulation. They have leather goods, toilet articles, fancy goods, in such variety and styles, as to make a beholder wonder whence the genius and the taste were derived in their manufacture. Besides all this, Kunkel & Bro. have a carefully selected stock of drugs, perfumery, &c.

Keller, 91 Market street, confidently asserts, and we have every reason to believe him, that he has a stock of goods from which gifts acceptable and appropriate to all can be selected. In fancy goods, toilet articles and perfumery, he certainly cannot be excelled. An examination of Keller's stock will convince the public that he is among the most enterprising of our business men, determined to win and deserve success by his liberality, industry and fair dealing. It is impossible to go amiss at Keller's. Everybody can find something to suit their fancy and please their taste at this establishment.

D. W. Gross & Co., 19 Market street, have made a wide reputation as wholesale dealers in drugs, chemicals, paints, perfumery and fancy articles generally in their line. In connection with their wholesale, their retail trade is immense. Their new building affords them ample room, so that we may justly regard them as one of the most reliable, successful and enterprising firms in the State. Gross & Co. have in store many highly useful as well as beautiful articles, suitable for Christmas presents, which our friends would do well to examine.

C. A. Bannvart, Jones' Row, Market street, has always on his shelves and in his cases, a stock of goods in drugs, medicines, perfumery, brushes, segars, pipes, tobacco, &c., &c., of the rarest qualities and the choicest selection. He is himself a thorough pharmacist, and as such, has a splendid reputation with our leading physicians. We commend Bannvart to our friends, particularly those who love to regale themselves with a good segar or a genuine meerschaum.

W. S. Holman has taken charge of the Drug Store lately occupied by George W. Miles, where he will continue to keep a full variety of drugs, medicines and chemicals.

FANCY CAKE, CRACKER AND BISCUIT BAKERIES.

D. S. Brady, Market street, below Dewberry alley, has now all his arrangements complete for baking luxuries and substantial of all kinds. His specimens of fancy baking were never before equaled and can scarcely now be excelled in this or any other city, while the more substantial productions of his ovens are of the very best quality which superior material can insure. In addition to Brady's bakery, he has connected with his establishment a confectionery, which is supplied with Whittman's elegant manufactures. Our friends will not forget Brady.

Jacob F. Haehnel, corner of Cherry and River alleys, has now in operation the most extensive cracker and biscuit bakery, outside of Philadelphia, in the State of Pennsylvania. Few people in Harrisburg understand the extent of the establishment now controlled and managed by Mr. Haehnel. His crackers and biscuits are the most popular now baked anywhere, and are extensively used in this portion of the State. Hundreds of barrels are shipped from this bakery to distant parts of the State, while the local trade of the establishment is immense. Of course this trade will be increased as the people get to understand the superiority of this bakery.

RESTAURANTS.

Donner, Walnut between Third and Fourth streets, keeps a restaurant which now ranks among the best in the city. He has game and oysters always on hand, while his bar is ever supplied with the purest and the choicest wines, liquors and beer. Keeping a well regulated house, and having every facility for accommodating individuals or parties, Donner is worthy of a liberal share of patronage.

J. L. Batz has taken the Restaurant under the State Capitol Hotel, where he is prepared to regale his friends and the public with the choicest edibles and drinkables of the season. He has constantly on hand the best of oysters, and has employed the most experienced cooks for their preparation. The State Capitol Restaurant is in all respects a capital place to enjoy a luxury.

A. J. Warfield has re-fitted and re-furnished, in elegant style, the National House Restaurant, where he is now prepared to accommodate the epicure with every luxury in season. Game, fish and oysters—constantly on hand with the most experienced cooks for their preparation for the table. Give him a call and have the inner man regaled.

MISCELLANEOUS.

M'Fadden & Co., Walnut and Fifth streets, are prepared to do all kinds of marble work, and are deserving of a very liberal support at the hands of the people, as the firm is composed of practical masons, well qualified to undertake any job in their line. Some of the finest marble work in the city was executed by this firm, and we have no doubt they will continue to be called upon to do such work as long as they continue to labor.

James R. Boyd & Son not only deserve a fair share of patronage in their line of business, as Cabinet and Chair makers, but they are entitled to great credit for having erected one of the most substantial places of business in the city, thus contributing to the prosperity as well as to the adornment of Harrisburg. No better furniture is produced anywhere, than that now offered for sale by this firm, and we take pleasure to commend Boyd & Son to our readers.

William F. Murray has assumed the entire control of the livery stables lately owned by Murray & Adams, in Fourth street, between Market and Walnut. The stock in his stables is all of the best—the horses gentle and good, and the vehicles of the richest and most convenient construction. Careful drivers always in attendance.

J. T. Barnitz, 109 Market street, has now firmly established himself as an upholsterer, with a full stock of goods in store, and competent hands employed to undertake any work in his line. In addition, Mr. Barnitz keeps constantly on hand a great variety of fancy goods, embracing all kinds of fancy chairs, spring beds, iron bedsteads, blankets, coverlets, comforts, counterpanes, &c., &c., &c., all of which are offered for sale at the most reasonable prices. Barnitz is a practical mechanic, and a man liberal as well as prompt in all his dealings and engagements.

Henry Regan, Sixth street, between Walnut and Market, is engaged in the Steam Engine and General Machinery Manufacture, with every facility for doing any job of work in his line. He is a skillful as well as reliable mechanic. As such we cheerfully recommend him to our friends.

Shaffer & Brother, Market Square, are prepared to furnish and hang every description of wall paper. This firm deals directly with the leading paper manufacturers of the country, and has always on hand the latest and most fashionable styles. In addition, this firm is prepared to supply window shades of all sizes and qualities at the shortest notice. The Shaffer brothers are deserving a very liberal share of public patronage.

The Hotels of Harrisburg.

Hotel life in America, is becoming as great a feature of our nationality as is our love of all that is right and everything that is comfortable. In the larger cities of the country, the opulent live, as it were, in the hotels, having sleeping apartments in distant quarters of such cities, while they take their meals and do their lounging at the hotels. These hotels become the centre of fashion, the thronged marts of business and the arena of politics, where genius intrigues with craft, where barter pursues its profits, and where beauty is wooed by false or true love. But let us not allow ourselves to indulge in a homely on hotel life, because we only design to acknowledge the good qualities of the leading hotels in Harrisburg, whose proprietors are advertisers in the TELEGRAPH. We will begin down town, then, with

THE UNITED STATES HOTEL, D. H. Hutchison, Proprietor, is universally regarded as one of the best kept, well ordered and liberally conducted hotels in the Commonwealth. Mr. H. has had a long and faithful experience in the business. He is a landlord of rare good qualities, well calculated to render any house popular. The United States has been thoroughly refitted, re-furnished almost entirely, and is now capable of accommodating as many guests as any hotel in the city. We have a warm feeling, personally, for Hutchison, but aside from this, justice demands that we should speak well of his house. It is at once a home and a hotel, where the guest wants for nothing, and where comfort and good cheer are the order of the management.

THE JONES HOUSE, under the proprietorship of Mr. Charles H. Mann, is second to no hotel in the Commonwealth, both for the sumptuousness with which it is furnished and the liberality of its management. Mr. Mann is truly a man well calculated to keep a hotel, understanding fully the art of catering for the people, with that knowledge in selecting and controlling servants for a large hotel, absolutely essential to its success. The Jones House had a wide reputation before Mr. Mann assumed its control. He has now extended this, until his hotel ranks among the first class houses of the country.

THE BUEHLER HOUSE has an ancient reputation—such a reputation as clusters around good places and old homes, and in which all good people take an interest. For many years the Buehler House has been regarded as the Democratic headquarters, and while we do not assert that its gentlemanly proprietor, Mr. George J. Bolton conducts his hotel on political principles, his house is still recognized by the Democracy as their home. Yet men of all parties patronize the Buehler House, because it is well kept and liberally managed. Bolton is now the sole proprietor of this house. He has refurnished it entirely, and can safely challenge competition with the whole city.

THE STATE CAPITOL HOTEL is now fully prepared to accommodate a large number of guests, the additions lately erected having been completed, finished and ready for occupation. Mr. Thompson is determined to make his house among the most popular in the Commonwealth, and when he has fully completed all the improvements he contemplates making, he will have one of the most eligible and elegant hotels in the State. The State Capitol Hotel will be largely patronized, simply because its locality is near the public buildings, and because, too, it is conducted to the end of becoming even more popular than it now is.

TOWN AND COUNTRY.

THE managers of Canterbury Music Hall offer a fine bill for this evening's entertainment. The Canterbury is doing a flourishing business.

PROF. SIMBETT, who has been performing wonders in our city, in restoring hair, goes to York, where he will remain for a short time. We trust he may receive a liberal patronage.

JUDGE ABRAHAM S. WILSON, of Lewistown, died, yesterday, at an advanced age. He was a native of Northumberland county, but had for quite a long period been a prominent citizen of Lewistown.

ANTHEMUS WARD notifies the gentleman who left phosphorus in his bed at the St. Nicholas Hotel, that if he will leave his name with General Dix, he will hear of something to his advantage.

THEATRICAL.—Rouse's Star troupe is doing an immense business in Reading. It is indeed a star company. Frank Drew is playing in Baltimore. Miss Fanny B. Price is also in Baltimore.

GOING UP.—The price of newspapers. The penny sheets have nearly all stopped their losing game, and advanced to two cents a copy. The Philadelphia Ledger and Baltimore Sun are among the latter.

SNOW commenced falling early this morning, and continued until a late hour in the afternoon. There is every indication that there will be fine sleighing on Christmas—the delight of those who own, or are able to hire horses and sleighs.

SUPPLEMENT.—In order to accommodate the pressure of advertisements upon our columns, we have been compelled to issue a supplement with to-day's paper. It contains a large quantity of interesting reading matter, in addition to several columns of advertisements, to which the attention of our readers is directed.

Mrs. C. G. RUSSELL, the charming vocalist, pianist and composer, Franklin and Smith, of the original Continental Vocalists, and Professor G. H. Brooks, violinist and pianist, on Wednesday eve, December 21st, in combination with the distinguished dwarf, Commodore Foote and Sister and Colonel Small.

The troupe will remain here until the beginning of next week. Performances will be given every evening; also family matinees on Thursday, Saturday and Monday afternoons, at three o'clock. No doubt the hall will be filled at each exhibition, as it is worth the price of admission to hear the old Continentals, to say nothing of the Lilliputians and the famous vocalist, Mrs. Russell (formerly Miss Ellinger).

CHRISTMAS DINNER TO THE SOLDIERS IN CAMP CURTIS.—A Christmas dinner will be tendered the soldiers at Camp Curtis, on Saturday afternoon. Persons who desire to contribute can leave their donations with any member of the committee, viz: Mrs. Small, Mrs. Zollinger or Mrs. Kepple. Those who do not wish to contribute eatables can donate money, which will be faithfully applied to the object named. All articles should be sent in by eleven o'clock, A. M. of Saturday—not later.

We trust that the people of Harrisburg and the surrounding neighborhood will contribute liberally of their abundance, and give our brave soldiers a substantial evidence that they are not forgotten, and that their services in behalf of the country are fully appreciated. Let them feel that although far from home, they are among friends. There is scarcely a family in moderate circumstances, that will not have a Christmas dinner. Each of these can spare something to add to the supply for the soldiers' dinner. Every farmer can contribute, as all have enough and to spare.

SEASONABLE ADVICE.—Christmas is near at hand. Our wealthy citizens, and those in moderate circumstances, are making preparations for fine dinners, and purchasing suitable articles for presents to their friends. This is right—but while thus engaged our friends should not forget that there is in our midst another class—the poor—who cannot indulge in extra dinners nor an interchange of presents. We have in our city the wives and children of brave soldiers who are in the army; we have soldiers' widows and soldiers' orphans, whose protectors fill honored graves; we have other widows and orphans, besides whole families who are in destitute circumstances. Many of them have not sufficient food, clothing or fuel to render them comfortable. Would it not be well for those who have an abundance to visit the poor on Christmas, and contribute something to relieve their necessities? Let there be joy among the poor as well as among the rich, upon the coming anniversary of the birth of One whose blessings were bestowed upon the meek and suffering during His pilgrimage upon earth.

It will be remembered that on Friday last we noticed the detention of the Northern Central train from the north by running off the track, near this city. The following particulars are obtained from a statement of Special Agent Row. He says that when the train was some nine miles north of this city, the switch at the engine-house was turned the wrong way when the mail train came dashing along, and although the engine was reversed, the train could not be stopped until it ran into the locomotives in the engine-house. The express car crushed through and into the mail train, in which Mr. Row happened to be at the time. He was so completely engaged with broken timbers, boards, and iron, that only after the partition, boxes, and table had been torn away, (to do which the use of an ax was necessary), was he released from his horrible position. The hot stove set the mail apartment on fire, and threatened the destruction of the car. The mails were all saved. Mr. J. W. Hoffman, route agent, jumped out of the door, and got off safely, with the exception of the wrenching of an ankle.

SERIOUS RAILROAD ACCIDENT.—An accident resulting in the loss of one life and the injuring of several persons, occurred on the Northern Central Railroad, on Monday morning. It appears that two freight trains left Parkton on time, some twelve minutes apart, and just as the first reached the Blue Mount switch it was ascertained that the rear car had become detached. The conductor stopped his train and ran back for the purpose of running the car into the switch, in order to avoid a collision with the coming train. This he succeeded in accomplishing, but the train came on him before he had time to close the switch, and the engine and some half dozen freight cars ran into it, smashing the car that had just been run in, and making a capital wreck. James Reed, the conductor of the second train, was instantly killed, and the freeman and several of the brakemen were more or less injured. The body of Mr. Reed was taken to Baltimore in the Harrisburg accommodation train, as were also the injured men. The train was detained several hours, and finally exchanged passengers with the up train. A large force of workmen were quickly on hand to remove the debris from the track, and everything was cleared away by the time the afternoon train passed. The accident was one of that nature unavoidable on all railways, which no forethought could well have prevented. The unfortunate conductor who lost his life was an unmarried man, and a resident of Baltimore, where he was much respected.

WANTED—A Substitute. Apply at the DAILY TELEGRAPH OFFICE.

A Few Gents' Traveling Satchels and new style Ladies' Companions, received at Keller's to-day, will be sold at less than city prices.

APPOINTMENT.—By order of Major General Cadwalader, Major John T. Morgan, of the 201st Penna. regiment, has been assigned to duty as Commanding Officer of the Juniata District, in place of Brig. Gen. O. S. Ferry, relieved. We take pleasure in announcing this appointment. Major Morgan is deserving of the post, and he will make an excellent commanding officer.

BUSINESS ITEMS.

CAN the whole field a plant display, So rich, so noble and so gay?

No, nothing can exceed Collins' Syrup of Roots, Barks and Herbs. It cures coughs, colds, sore throat, croup, bronchitis, asthma, &c., &c. For sale at the Drug Store of J. M. Bomgardner, corner of Fourth and Market streets, Harrisburg. dec21-dlv

ON FOR 300,000 More.—Manliness means the doings and the bearings that become a man without regard either to pain or recompense. The curse of our modern life is the idleness of the comfortable. We are not vicious; we are not vigorous enough for vice; but we like to wrap ourselves up in selfishness. We delight to read of the brave dying with their feet to the foe, while our feet are pleasantly planted on the hearth rug.—We are not bad fellows, but we are monstrous cowards. We grudge trouble, but we are lavish with money. We are most admirable persons by proxy, most religious, most charitable, most patriotic, most philanthropic by proxy; that is, by putting our names down for large sums on subscription lists, as if it were not the direct, the living contact of man with man, which alone can accomplish the great objects of charity, patriotism and philanthropy. Before going too far, permit me to direct your attention to A. F. Brandt's, new cheap store, southwest corner of Walnut and Second streets, where dry goods are selling very cheap for cash. dec21-2t

FRYER AND AUCHE can be cured. Do not think because you have tried everything you could read or hear of, that you cannot get anything to cure you, for you have not taken the pure vegetable that is curing every one that takes it. It does not stop your shaking for a week or two, but it is a perfect cure.—A trial of this will convince you and your neighbors. It can be had only at No. 37, South Pine street, by Mrs. L.
