

Our Professional Men.

In the notices made yesterday, of the professional men of Harrisburg, who are advertising in the TELEGRAPH, by an oversight entirely unintentional, and which has overwhelmed us with mortification, the names of two of our most prominent young lawyers were omitted. We hasten to make the amends honorable.

Joshua M. Wiestling, offices in Walnut St., near Second, is one of the most indefatigable and successful young counsellors at the bar of this judicial district, and has earned a well established reputation for the zeal with which he devotes himself to his clients, and the fairness of his department before a court and jury.

Eugene Snyder, office in Third street, a few doors west of Market, is another of our able and able young attorneys, a man of thorough business habits, conscientious in the service of his client, and unwavering in his defence of the right when its interests are confided to his trust. Mr. Snyder is largely engaged in collecting military claims, a practice in which he has no superior for ability and success.

Finish the War.

The President states what is warranted by the facts when he declares that the country has the capacity to maintain the war indefinitely, if need be. So far from exhausting our population or wealth, the war only subtracts from the amount of their increase, leaving them still positively augmented. The nation is to-day much poorer than she would have been without the war, yet she is richer in people and property than when it began.

This view does not lessen the gigantic calamity of the strife, in its moral and political aspects, and the incalculable distress it carries to myriads of homes. But this demonstrated power of the country imposes a fresh obligation, because it shows the ability to bring the war to a speedy close. The work of re-establishing the supremacy of the Government has been retarded by apprehensions of exhausting or unduly diminishing the resources of the country, and by a greater or less want of confidence in the popular willingness to have those resources at once drawn upon to the extent necessary to make a swift end to the rebellion.

No such apprehensions, and no such lack of confidence, can now be excused. Whatever in men or money is required to finish the war can be had, and will be gladly acquiesced in, for that result. The country is abundantly able and is eager to furnish troops and means to overwhelm the military despotism of the Confederacy, and crush "the shell" without further delay. We trust that, looking at the resources of this republican empire, and at the enthusiasm and almost unanimity of the popular decision for the war, Mr. Lincoln will fearlessly recommend and the Congress adopt such measures as will place the early destruction of the rebellion among the most certain and most patent of facts.

The North American Insurance Company of Philadelphia.

During the last two or three years this old and well known company has been extending their business in the interior of the State of Pennsylvania, and have already laid a good foundation for fire and inland business throughout the Commonwealth.

Incorporated as they were in the year 1794, by the Legislature of Pennsylvania, and up to the year 1862, having agencies only in two or three prominent points in the State, their claims for business throughout the State whence their authority came, seem well founded, and hence, some three years since, they established a central State agency at the seat of Government, through which their agency business is transacted and where policies are issued.

Since the organization of this company in 1792, now over seventy years, their success has been very marked, having now a capital and surplus of over $1,600,000, and during which time they have paid losses amounting to over seventeen millions of dollars.

In Philadelphia, where the management of this company is best known, it enjoys a well deserved popularity, as the result of long tried and faithful services, and large liberality in the adjustment of losses; the officers, Arthur G. Coffin, Esq., President, and Charles Platt, Esq., Secretary, as well as the board of directors, being well and familiarly known, some of whom have given their services to the corporation for over forty years.

The School Lands of the State.

It will be remembered that Congress set apart a large portion of the public domain, to be appropriated among the several States with the object of promoting the education of farmers in a scientific as well as a practical knowledge of agriculture. Last winter a great contest was had among the representatives of the different institutions of learning as to which was entitled to a share or the whole of this land. Without referring to the merits of the arguments advanced in support of these claims, we are constrained to notice the fact that great complaint exists throughout the Commonwealth as to the manner of disposing of these lands. We deem it only fair that we should give a hearing to the most prominent journal among those alluding to this subject. The Pittsburg Gazette thus emphatically refers to this transaction:

Congress, as our readers are aware, some time since donated nearly 800,000 acres of land to this State, to be divided to the establishment of one or more Colleges for the education of the people, with an agricultural department; and the Governor, the Surveyor General and the Auditor General, by an act of the legislature, were appointed a committee, and invested with power to receive the munificent gift. A clause in this act empowered them to sell any of these land warrants, if found advantageous, and the interest of the fund so having been invested in State or United States securities, and the proceeds, the time being to the Farm School in Centre county.

Last winter, none of the land having been sold, and there being a great many projects before the legislature for the permanent distribution of the fund—which, if the land were sold, would amount to near a million of dollars—a bill was introduced into the Senate, and passed there in Committee of the Whole, ordering that none of the land should be disposed of until further legislation. The bill, owing to factious opposition at the close of the session, did not pass; but all the votes indicated unmistakably the desire that no sudden distribution or sale should be made of the land, but that it should all remain in situ quia until the meeting of this winter.

Notwithstanding this, advertisements were obsciously inserted a few weeks since, in one or two papers only, stating that bids would be received for the lands, and that they were barely three or four bids were put in, the expectation among the knowing ones being that they would have been opened and the whole awarded on the 2d instant. Fortunately, the sickness of the Auditor General prevented the accomplishment of the object evidently intended—the sale of these lands at a low figure to harpies who fancied they had chanced on a good thing.

An effort is now making among the members of the legislature to prevent the sale of the lands until the legislative needs and time to act on the subject. The sale ought to be not at less than $1,000,000 to the Agricultural College, and if the proper public notice is given of the sale, there can be no doubt that sum will be realized. We trust that no further attempt will be made to dispose of the lands clandestinely.

The Provost Marshal of the XIVth Congressional District.

The Junata Register, a fierce and intemperate copperhead organ, thus handsomely and justly refers to Captain William H. Patterson, the lately appointed Provost Marshal of the XIVth Congressional District: APPOINTED.—On Friday last, Captain Wm. H. Patterson, of this county, was appointed Provost Marshal for this (the 14th) Congressional District. We congratulate the Captain on his good luck. There is no man in the Republican party in this county more justly entitled to that position than Captain Patterson. As besides, he has had large business experience for a man of his age; he will manage the affairs of the office with system, and see that the business is fairly and honestly transacted. In future drafts the citizens of this county will have at the head of the enrollment board a man raised among them, and one who will act fairly and impartially, irrespective of party. Captain Patterson is also sociable and agreeable in his manners, and persons having business in the Provost Marshal's office need have no fears of being turned away without a hearing, or as frequently occurs, grossly insulted.

HERCULEAN LABOR.—The Tory Organ, yesterday, to its own full satisfaction, demolished the Attorney General of Pennsylvania, the President of the United States, the Secretary of War and the Harrisburg TELEGRAPH.

OUR FLEET AT WILMINGTON, N. C.

Accounts from Richmond Papers. New York, Dec. 23. A special dispatch to the Tribune says: WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. General Grant telegraphs that Richmond papers just state that an official dispatch from Wilmington, N. C., dated yesterday (Wednesday), at 10 A. M., reports that the advance of the enemy's fleet arrived off that port during the night. Over thirty steamers are now assembling, and more following.

From Tennessee.

Hood's Flight from Franklin.

Railroads and Telegraph Lines, but slightly damaged.

Hood's Loss 17,000 Men, 51 Cannon and 18 Generals.

UNION LOSS NOT OVER 7,000.

New York, Dec. 23. The Times has received a special dispatch from Franklin, Tenn., dated yesterday, which says: The rebel retreat from Franklin to Duck River beggars all description. Hood told his corps commanders to get off the best way they could with their commands. The rebel army is now beyond Columbia. The railroad is but little impaired, and trains run to Spring Hill. The telegraphic communication is all right in all directions. Johnsonville was not destroyed. The rebel loss during the campaign was 17,000 men, 51 cannon and 18 general officers. Killed at Franklin 1,400, wounded 3,800, and 1,000 prisoners. Before Nashville, and in the retreat to Columbia, 3,500 killed and wounded, and 8,000 prisoners. The Union loss at Franklin was 2,000, and before Nashville less than 4,000. The total Union loss will not exceed 7,000, with 2 generals slightly wounded. Hood has retreated seven miles above the station on the Tennessee river, where our gunboats cannot reach them. Hood marched on Franklin with 40,000 men and 85 pieces of artillery. He will have lost nearly half his men.

Kentucky and Tennessee.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 22. The Government has received dispatches from General Bledsoe, dated 21st Nashville, Tenn., December 21st, announcing that he has received reports that General Cook overtook the rebel General Lyon on the 17th, at a place called Ashleyville, in Meigs county, Kentucky, and after a sharp battle, succeeded in defeating the rebel raider, killing a considerable number of his men, and capturing one piece of artillery.

Gen. Thomas also announces that a portion of Lyon's forces were attacked, defeated and routed at Hopkinsville, in Kentucky, on the 18th inst.

CINCINNATI, Dec. 22.—The Commercial's Nashville dispatch of the 21st says Thomas' headquarters are near Columbia. Hood is across Duck river. His loss, since coming into the State, is estimated at 20,000. His force is now believed to be about 12,000 infantry and 8,000 cavalry. The woods are full of deserters. It is snowing, and the roads are very bad.

GENERAL THOMAS AT COLUMBIA.—PART OF THE REBEL FORCE GOING SOUTH.—DEPLORABLE CONDITION OF HOOD'S ARMY. NASHVILLE, Dec. 22.—No official report from the army has been received. At the last accounts Thomas was at Columbia. A portion of the rebel force had crossed the river, and were proceeding southward. The entire country about Nashville is filled with deserters from the rebel army, many of whom are constantly coming in, voluntarily or otherwise.

The report that Hood had crossed Duck river with 62 guns, is untrue. His artillery was mostly lost at Franklin, and in the battle before Nashville, and the number of pieces left him on his retreat must have been few. Hood's army is represented by deserters and prisoners in a deplorable condition, and its utter extermination probable.

The weather has become very cold since last night.

The river is 17 feet, and rising.

Porter's Expedition.

THE IRONCLAD COASTING AT BEAUFORT, N. C. DECEMBER 15.—THE MONITOR MAHOEPA IN A GALE.—THE FLEET BOUNDED DOWN THE COAST. NEW YORK, Dec. 22. Letters received in this city state that the van of Porter's great armada arrived at Beaufort, N. C., on the morning of the 15th inst. During the passage from Hampton Roads a severe gale was experienced, and in it the Monitor Mahoepra sprang a leak, and was with difficulty kept afloat.

The ironclad was coasting at last accounts, and as soon as the weather moderated the expedition would proceed to its destination "down the coast."

Westerly winds and a smooth sea are needed for the operations.

MARRIED.

On the 20th inst., at the residence of the bride's father, by Rev. John Stamis, Mr. David C. Holt, of Harrisburg, to Miss Margie S. Riva, of Middletown.

DIED.

On the 22d inst., at 6 o'clock, A. M., Mrs. Eliza Smith, in the 65th year of her age.

The funeral will take place on Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, from the residence of her son, Second street, near Walnut, to which the relatives and friends of the family are invited to attend.
