

TO AGRICULTURISTS.

THE CULTIVATION OF BULBOUS ROOTS.—In the Circular of Mr. Henry A. Dreer, one of our most reliable floriculturists, we have the following "General Directions for the Cultivation and Management of Bulbous Roots," which will be found just now seasonable, succinct and to the point, and we commend them to general attention:

Aspect.—A southern exposure, dry and airy, and sheltered if possible from the north wind, is preferable for most bulbs; but Anemones and Ranunculus will do better if protected from the heat of the mid-day sun.

Soil.—The proper compost for Hyacinths, Tulips, Crown Imperials, Iris, Ranunculus, Anemones, Crocus, Colchicum, and most other bulbs, is the following: one-third sand, one-third well rotted cow manure, and one-third good garden soil.

The Anemones require a richer loam, and Iris and Gladiolus a soil rather more sandy than the general average.

Bedding Out.—The beds composed of the above compost, should be well dug to the depth of fifteen inches, and raised from two to four inches above the level of the walks, and in very severe weather may be covered with withered leaves, straw, or with light earth formed of decayed leaves from the woods.

Time of Planting.—The preferable season for planting all hardy bulbs is from October to December; but they can be set out at any later time, as long as the bulbs remain sound.

Depth and Distance.—Hyacinths, Anemones, Tulips, Crown Imperials, Ranunculus, Crown Jewels and Polyanthus Narcissus, five inches; Tulips, Double Narcissus, Jonquilles and Colchicums, three inches; Bulbous Iris, Crocus, Arums, small Frillularias, Gladiolus Byzantium and Snowdrops, two inches; Ranunculus and Anemones, one inch, always measuring from the top of the bulb.

The rows should be about ten inches apart, and the roots be placed from four to six inches apart in the rows, according to their size.

Naming.—It is very desirable that plants or bulbs in pots should be named. The best mode of doing this is to take a flat slab of wood, sharpen one end, rub a little white lead on two or three inches of its smoothest surface, on the other end; write the name with a lead pencil on the white lead when it is about half dry, and then insert the stick in the pot.

Taking up and Preserving.—Take up bulbous roots about a month after the blossom is completely over, in the following manner: When the plants put on a yellowish decayed appearance, take up the roots, cut off the stem and foliage within an inch of the bulb, but leave the roots as they are, if they are spread them in an airy room for two or three weeks to dry, after which wrap each root carefully in paper, (as the air is very injurious to bulbs), or cover them in sand perfectly dry.

Method to Bloom Hyacinths and other Bulbs in the Winter Season, in Pots and Glasses.—For this purpose use Single Hyacinths, and such as are designated earliest among the Double are to be preferred. Single Hyacinths are generally held in less estimation than Double ones; their colors, however, are more vivid, and their bells, though smaller, are more numerous; some of the sorts are exquisitely beautiful; they are preferable for flowering in winter.

The Double ones, as they bloom two or three weeks earlier and are very sweet scented.—Roman Narcissus, Double Jonquilles, Polyanthus Narcissus, Persian Cyclamens, Double Narcissus and Crocus, also make a fine appearance in the parlor during winter. It is a remarkable circumstance of the Crocus, that it keeps its petals expanded during tolerably bright candle or lamp light, in the same way as it does during the light of the sun.

If the candle is removed, the Crocus close their petals as they do in the garden, when a cloud obscures the sun; and when the artificial light is restored, they open again, as they do on the return of the sun in the garden.

Hyacinths intended for glasses should be placed in them during October and November, the glasses being previously filled with pure water, so that the bottom of the bulb may just touch the water; then place them for the first three or four weeks in a dark closet, box or cellar, to promote the shooting of the fibres, which should fill the glasses before exposing them to the sun, after which expose them to the light and sun gradually.

If kept too light and warm at first, and before there is sufficient fibre, they will rarely flower well. They will blow without any sun; but the colors of the flowers will be inferior. The water should be changed once or twice a week, draw the roots entirely out of the glasses, rinse off the fibres in clean water, and wash the inside of the glass well. Care should be taken that the water does not freeze, as the fibres to decay. Whether the water is hard or soft is not a matter of much consequence—soft is preferable—but must be perfectly clear to show the fibres to advantage.

Bulbs intended for blooming in pots during the winter season, should be planted during the months of October and November, and left exposed to the open air until the bottom to left exposed at the opening of the pot, has begun to grow when they are placed in the green-house, or a room where fire is usually made. They will need moderate occasional watering, until they begin to grow, when they should have an abundance of air in mild weather, and plenty of water from the saucers, while in a growing state; and should be exposed as much as possible to the sun, air, and light, to prevent the leaves from growing too long, or becoming yellow.

SAVE THE FRUIT.—In nearly every section of the country there is a great apple crop. Peaches abound also in a few places, but not in New Jersey, and some other localities where the yield was formerly abundant. The excess of fruit should not be wasted. There are millions of people in our cities and villages, and in newer sections where fruit trees are not yet planted, who will gladly pay good prices for dried apples and peaches—if well preserved. We can do better than to repeat our former advice; it pays well and pays best to prepare and dry fruit carefully. Clean well pared, well cored, and carefully dried apples, sell for double the price of those poorly prepared.—Two shillings worth of time and care in preparing a bushel will not infrequently add another or more to its marketable value. Apples may be quickly dried by shaving them wholly into thin parings, and spreading them upon plates or earthenware dishes to dry. "Apple leather," as it is sometimes called, is a convenient article. It is made by preparing the fruit as if for sauce, and then, after cooking, spreading it thinly on earthen dishes and drying it in the hot sun, or in ovens kept at so low a temperature as to avoid all danger of scorching. The thin dried sheets thus prepared will keep a long time in a dry room, and be ready for use whenever they are wanted, by simply soaking them. Peaches may also be preserved in a similar manner.

USE THE FANNING MILL THOROUGHLY.—It will pay to clean grain thoroughly before offering it for sale. A careless or dishonest man has little reason to congratulate himself upon having sold a quantity of chaff, creakle seed, and other low stuff, for the price of wheat. Dealers in grain have sharp eyes for anything that affects the market price, and they readily detect willful or careless neglect to properly clean the crop, and a reduction of from two to four or more cents per bushel is the consequence. It requires but a few pounds weight of refuse among grain to greatly damage its appearance. An amount which would bring fifty cents if sold at the price of wheat, will reduce the market value of twenty-five bushels from four to five cents per bushel, thus entailing actual loss, instead of gain, as some, by their practice, seem to suppose. Grain merchants sometimes take advantage of the fact, that foreign matter in
