The Republican Party and the Tariff.

The Republicans of Pennsylvania are likely to find their protective Tariff pledges most embarrassing in the future, from the difficulty they will have in persuading the Republican party to support any protective measure when there is no immediate necessity of influencing elections in this State.

When the Republicans in Congress are called upon to redeem their pledges to Pennsylvania we will see a different state of affairs. Many Republican members will discover that the Chicago platform does not pledge the party to the protective policy.

Our correspondent imposes on us a task to which we frankly confess ourselves unequal. It is to be the Republican party, we would solve this enigma, very much as the complainant reader of animals in a small menagerie insisted the curiosity of the straggling woodcock to know whether the creature was looking at a bear or a Bengal tiger.

That does not sound very much as if the Republicans intended to be tied down to protection. Indeed, the Tariff is about the very last subject that enters into the head of a New York or New England Republican.

profrance that the resolution adopted at Chicago, in regard to national exchanges, "pledges the Republican party to the protection of our mining interests in Pennsylvania, the 'People's' party—the law which, in the Presidential contest, is to take the chief chestnuts for the 'Union' party."

The "Union" of the North American in this connection is the Morrill bill, and that paper says that as most of the Lincolnites in the House voted for the measure, the "Republican" party will, if successful, carry its message through the Senate.

Wide Awakes and Minute Men. There is no surer evidence that we are fallen upon evil times, and that bitter animosity prevails, than is afforded by the conversion of political factions into armed organizations, such as exist at the North under the name of "Wide Awakes," and at the South under that of "Minute Men."

Wide Awakes.—The Wide Awakes organization is carried to absolute perfection in Ohio. It is estimated that there are about 1000 in the ranks. A pamphlet issued by them sets forth a constitution, the list of officers of the Central Battalion, including Col. James McHenry, and a full military staff, and the officers of the drill several companies, also very full instructions for drill, and a number of popular campaign songs.

At the South, similar organizations exist under the name of "Minute Men." We append the following allusions to them: From the Charleston Mercury.

THE MINUTE MEN.—As an offset to the "Wide Awakes" of the North, the "Minute Men" are organizing in all the principal districts of South Carolina. Their object is to form an army of men, and to join in with our "Minute Men," whose object is to form a similar organization in the Southern States.

From the Columbia South Carolinian. On last evening, the organization of the Minute Men was completed in the principal streets of the city. There were about three hundred in rank, making a very imposing and well equipped force.

Pertinent to the subject are the following paragraphs: From the Sampson (S. C.) Watchman.

A PROPOSITION.—PREPARATION FOR WAR. * * * A proposition (not respecting to myself the capacities of a lawyer or of a soldier, but to raise a company of one hundred (or more) active and efficient men, for the purpose of organizing a company of men, to be tendered to the first State that leaves the Union in the event of Lincoln's election.

AMERICANS IN PARIS.—"Malakoff," writes in his last letter to the New York Times:—"At last Sunday's race at the Bois de Boulogne, a young American who was present on horseback, Mr. Mayo, of Richmond, Va., had the two bones of his leg broken and splintered by a fall of his horse."

HEATHENISM IN NEW ORLEANS.—The Crescent, of Monday, says:—"The First district police on Friday night made a descent upon a crib on Grand street, in which they found six negro women in a state of perfect nudity, dancing obscenely and muttering unintelligible incantations around a cauldron in which some kind of broth was brewing."

THE MARRIAGE OF MR. HEENAN.—The great question whether the champion of the world, J. C. Heenan, has ever come within the matrimonial ring, and if so, whether his fair coadjutor was the gushing young poetess, Miss Ada Isaacs Mencken, must wait still longer for a definite solution.

THE HUSBAND OF A BUXTON WIFE near Exeter, England, had long been dying, and at length, one of the clergy of the parish making one of his daily visits, found him dead. The disconsolate widow, in giving an account of her spouse's last moments, told him her "poor dear man kept groaning and groaning, but could not die; at last," said she, "I recollected I had got a piece of new tape in the drawer, and took some of that and tied it as tight as I could around his neck, and then I stopped his nose with my thumb and finger, and poor dear! he went off like a lamb!"
