Will the South Resist?

The following letter from a Georgian to the Journal of Commerce is written evidently without any intention of threatening or frightening the North, and withal in a tone so calm that it should be read by every Northern man. While we cannot concur in many of the reasons advanced in justification of immediate resistance, in case of Lincoln's election, we are not blind to the indications of danger that the South will resort to defensive measures. This danger is far more imminent than Northern men dare to realize. Revolution and civil war may overtake us while we are reposing in fatal security.

It is agreed by this writer that it would be the height of madness to delay action until Republicanism had absorbed all the powers of the government, so as to render resistance on the part of the South futile. This idea proceeds upon the supposition that the Republican party will remain a compact organization, advancing steadily to the practical realization of the ultra Abolition doctrines promulgated by its leaders - that the object of the party is to render the South powerless in the government and finally to abolish slavery in the States. But this view strikes us as erroneous, from the fact that the Republican party is composed of dissimilar elements, which will war with each other as soon as the patronage of the government is distributed; and this internal conflict will deprive it of power to push forward any of its aggressive measures, and finally compel it to assume some new and less dangerous shape, or expose it to the assaults of the conservative parties of the country. It appears to us not only probable but the next thing to certain that Republicanism will culminate and decline as rapidly as it has risen, if the South will consent to unite with the conservatives of the North in resisting its measures within the limits of the Constitution. The following is the communication:

AGRICULTURE, Ga., Oct. 19.

To the Editors of the Journal of Commerce: The result of the late elections in Pennsylvania, Ohio and Indiana have made it plain to every Southern mind, that the generally believed that Lincoln would be elected, yet some faint hope was indulged by many that Pennsylvania, at least, would come over to the support of the Union. What the result has been, and now Lincoln's election is universally conceded. We have ceased to discuss the merits and demerits of the candidates. All feel and admit that the success of either of these gentlemen would postpone for a short time the great question which the people of the South are to meet. We should they meet it now. The problem which mostly engages the public mind. The only remedy we have ever heard suggested is resistance, at any and every hazard, and those who suggest it, suggest it on other grounds for the impending evil.

The suggestion has been thrown out by some of our Northern friends, that the South should, by a majority in the next Congress, and will, therefore, be powerless for harm. But this suggestion makes little impression, for we will not give place on the next Congress to the Republican party who largely, while the South will be weaker. We also know that the Senate is rapidly becoming abolitionist - Blair, Fugh, Fitch and Lane must give place on the next Congress to four Republicans. In the meanwhile, all the free States, through government patronage, and the steady growth of anti-slavery feeling, will become more and more hostile to our institutions. It is argued by our people that it would be the height of madness to resist, and that the South should resist the power of the government, and rendered all resistance to their destructive policy futile.

A RAGGED SCHOOL FETE IN LONDON. - The London Star describes a very interesting gathering of about three thousand seven hundred children connected with various Ragged Schools of the northeast of London, which recently took place at Petersham Park, Richmond, by the kind permission of her Majesty's Commissioners of Woods and Forests. The whole of the children, with about one hundred and fifty teachers, were gathered to the spot by special train of the Southwestern and North London railway station, and justly resistance? So we deem Mr. Lincoln's election, though in accordance with Constitutional forms, a violation of the spirit of the Constitution, because the party which he leads avows purposes which are utterly subversive of that sacred instrument. In fact, we believe, that such an abandonment would not be the result of the election, but how long it would last, we do not know. It is a fact worth remembering that no man in Georgia would venture, except in private way, to utter a word in favor of the election of our citizens, whatever they might think of the policy of her course, would not stand by, and see her subverted by federal power.

The Republican party will submit to the establishment of their party and their principles, but as sure as the sun will rise to-morrow, so sure as the wheels which will appeal the hearts of those who have precipitated these disasters by their reckless attempt to destroy our property, and subvert the State of Georgia, on his election, will issue his promise to the South, if he pleases; but the "personal liberty" bill standing in the statute books of the States where his party is in power, and the maintenance of the fugitive slave law over the Southern man who shall endeavor to re-capture his fugitive slave in accordance with his constitutional duty, are the only conditions on which he promises or offers to bind the leaders of Republicanism.

It is a mistake to notice one grave error into which the Republicans have fallen. They wish to believe - and possibly some of them do - that in the event of a contest to separate from the North, they would find allies in our non-slaveholding citizens. Never a wider mistake. Nowhere in the United States will the Republican attempt to establish negro equality meet in the most deadly hostility in the South, among our non-slaveholding citizens. The idea is perfectly absurd to them - and mark the prediction - in the event of a contest, the men who will filter will not be found among our non-slaveholding citizens. What we believe here that the public sentiment of the North has been so thoroughly abolitionized that it is the most deadly hostility in the South, among our non-slaveholding citizens. The idea is perfectly absurd to them - and mark the prediction - in the event of a contest, the men who will filter will not be found among our non-slaveholding citizens.

Can Lincoln be Defeated?

Our impression, since the result of the election in this State, has been that the chances of defeating the election of Lincoln were almost hopeless; and we have not hesitated to express that conviction, believing that it was better to prepare for the worst than to hold out any delusive expectations. We cannot concur in the policy of affecting a confidence we do not feel, for the purpose of bringing out the vote. Such a course is not only attended with a certain degree of personal degradation, but it has a tendency to impair the confidence of the readers of a newspaper in its sincerity, and to detract from the force of honest convictions. But while the election of Lincoln has appeared to us highly probable, we are not entirely without a reasonable hope that these gloomy anticipations may not be fulfilled; and we would not have any Democrat relax his efforts to secure the defeat of the Republican party. It would add immeasurably to our regret if, after the election, it should turn out that Lincoln only carried this State by a few thousands, and that he might have been defeated with proper efforts. Democrats should always have the courage to labor for the right, and to deserve success if they cannot command it. Perhaps our prostrating defeat in this State has led us to take too gloomy a view of the prospect. We observe with pleasure that the Pennsylvania election has not dampened the ardor of the Democrats and Union men of the State of New York, and that they are laboring zealously in the good cause, with high hopes of administering to the Republican party a fatal check. We should try to strengthen their hands in this work. We can do better than to stand by as mere spectators of the conflict in that State. We are no longer in the van of the battle - but we can encourage those that are by our sympathy; and, above all, by our zeal in the cause of Union against Lincoln. To win the battle in New York there must be a thorough union of all the conservative elements; and union in Pennsylvania tends to cement a closer union in New York. In order to show our readers how gallantly the true men of New York are contesting the field with the enemy, we publish the following encouraging article from the Journal of Commerce, a newspaper that is not in the habit of manufacturing spurious enthusiasm for political effect:

WHAT IS WANTED TO ENSURE LINCOLN'S DEFEAT? - An erroneous impression appears to have taken possession of the minds of many anti-Lincoln men in this State, respecting the chances for carrying New York against Lincoln at the November election. The impression is that the anti-Lincoln vote in the early part of the campaign, led to the belief that the State was lost; and therefore, in all the estimates of the chances in this State are by no means so desperate as many have supposed; and we beg to assure our readers, that it is entirely possible to prevent its electoral vote from being cast for the Republican party.

The impressions which gained possession of the public mind in the early stages of the campaign, were natural considering the circumstances. They were by no means justified at the present time. Then, the anti-Lincoln men had separate tickets in the field, and their efforts were quite as much against each other as against the common enemy. Now, the anti-Lincoln vote is concentrated upon one electoral ticket. The Republicans never had a majority of the vote of New York State, and it is not probable that they will ever have a majority in this election. They are positively and unquestionably in a minority of all the votes in the State. The only chance they have of being elected, is by securing a full expression of the sentiments of the electors. If this can be done, New York will vote for the Union ticket, and Lincoln will be defeated.

How to get through a crowd. - "Please make way for me through a crowd," exclaimed a young man, who was making his way through a crowd of people, as he was striving to effect a passage through a crowd in front of the Revere, Thursday evening. "Please make way for me after a doctor!" "Who's sick?" inquired an incredulous individual. "My wife, sir," said the stout man, and he added something in a whisper that (whatever it might have been) induced the incredulous individual to incoincidentally draw to one side, and as the cabalistic whisper was passed from one to another, a path for the stout man was gradually made. "It's all very well," gruffly observed a wiry little man, as he rather unwillingly gave way; "it's all very well I dare say, but she had no right to take a time like this, any way!"

A MODEL TOWNSHIP. - In Lewis township, Clay county, Indiana, they have a sort of far-taste of the millennium. It has within its limits one hundred and seventy families, all white, except one, and they keep dark about it. - There are in it one hundred and sixty-five voters, and, during the last twenty years, there has never been a fight nor a quarrel at any election held in the township. It contains seven school-houses, seven road district superintendents and seven large men; three pair of twin boys, three fiddlers, three carpenters, three post-offices, three crazy men and three over 75 years old. There is not a lawyer, doctor or leather in it, nor a grocery nor pauper. - A better, friendlier, happier population is not to be found in the State.

NGRO VOTERS IN OHIO. - The Georgetown (Brown County) Argus says that "a negro of that place, fearing that public sentiment would not allow him to vote at the polls there, started off for Ripley on the morning of the election, where he knew his Abolition friends would allow him to vote, and he returned in the evening, boasting that he had voted, together with twenty-one other mulattoes! Mr. Lewis Friedley, one of the judges of election at Ripley, said he saw some ten mulattoes vote there, and he objected to their voting, but was overruled by the other two judges."

THE GLORY OF A GOOD LAUGH. - After all that a capital, kindly, honest, jolly, glorious thing a good laugh is! what a rebuff! what an exorciser of evil spirits! Better than to walk before breakfast, or a nap after dinner. How it shuts the mouth of malice, and opens the brow of kindness!

Whether it discovers the gums of infancy or the grinders of folly, or the pearls of beauty; whether it rooks the sides or deforms the countenance of vulgarity, or dispels the visage, or moistens the eyes of refinement in all its phases, and all faces, contorting, relaxing, overwhelming, convulsing, throwing the human countenance into something approximate to Billy Button's transformation; under every circumstance, and every-where a laugh is a glorious thing. Like "a thing of beauty," it is a "joy for ever." There is no remorse in it. It leaves no sting - except in the sides, and that goes off. Even a single unparticipated laugh is a great affair to witness. But it is seldom single. It is more infectious than scarlet fever. You can not gravely contemplate a laugh. If there is one laugher and one witness, there are forthwith two laughers, and so on. The contagion is propagated like sound. What a thing it is when it becomes epidemic. - Dublin University Magazine.

VIOLENCE OF THE EARTHQUAKE IN CANADA.

The shock of earthquake on the 10th inst., was very violent at Quebec. In many cases men, women and children rushed from their dwellings in great terror - the plaster of ceilings was shaken down and the joinings of wooden buildings opened. The Quebec Gazette says: "At the Alouette Hotel, the Quebec Hotel, the effect was very great, old soldiers resident in them stating that the shock exceeded in intensity those experienced by them in the East and West Indies. At Beauport Asylum all the inmates that could run out of the building, while those who had not such opportunities ran shrieking through the wards and corridors. In several rooms the plaster was shaken down, and strong joints were forced open by the motion given to the building. It is also reported that the lighthouse at L'Islet has been partially wrecked by the shock. At Lorette, doors were shaken from their places, and crockery in cupboards smashed to pieces. At Point Levy the motion of the earth was violently felt, and fear and terror prevailed everywhere. On the river, too, the trembling, vibratory motion was communicated to the shipping."

A MYSTERIOUS OUTRAGE. - A young lady who had been attending a religious meeting at Oberlin on Sunday evening, was knocked down in one of the principal streets, about seven o'clock in the evening, as she was going to her residence. The assault was committed by a man, who, for the purpose of making sure of his object, used a bludgeon. The screams of the young lady reached the ears of some of the residents of the neighborhood, who immediately rushed to the place. They found a lady's glove upon the sidewalk, with spots of blood, but neither the perpetrator of the outrage nor the young lady were to be seen. Being unable to make any discoveries, and the excitement increasing as the intelligence spread from one to another, the alarm bells were rung about 11 o'clock at night, in order to call out the citizens generally. The object was so far successful as to bring out a brother of the young lady upon whom the assault was committed. He stated that his sister had been knocked down, as mentioned, and was enabled to reach home. Who the assailant was, or what was his object, no one could divine.

HORRIBLE BUTCHERY OF A LADY AND TWO CHILDREN. - The Chicago Press and Tribune states that the wife and two little daughters of George W. Orendorf, who lives on the Delavan prairie, about six miles from Delavan, Tazewell county, Ill., were murdered on the 10th inst., during his absence. On examination it was found that the heinous crime had been committed with the back part of an axe, which was found near the body of the wife, and upon Mrs. Orendorf, seven of which were considered sufficient to produce death, if dealt singly. The youngest child was much mangled about the head; the eldest seemed to have made its escape from the house, and was caught in the yard and stricken down with a club. All the drawers where valuables were likely to be kept had been opened, and from $30 to $40 and a Colt's revolver taken. A young man who had lived in the neighborhood but a short time, is suspected. He has been taken to jail.

How to get through a crowd. - "Please make way for me through a crowd," exclaimed a young man, who was making his way through a crowd of people, as he was striving to effect a passage through a crowd in front of the Revere, Thursday evening. "Please make way for me after a doctor!" "Who's sick?" inquired an incredulous individual. "My wife, sir," said the stout man, and he added something in a whisper that (whatever it might have been) induced the incredulous individual to incoincidentally draw to one side, and as the cabalistic whisper was passed from one to another, a path for the stout man was gradually made. "It's all very well," gruffly observed a wiry little man, as he rather unwillingly gave way; "it's all very well I dare say, but she had no right to take a time like this, any way!"

A SINGULAR DESIRE. - A citizen of Berlin, Prussia, a man in comfortable circumstances, is periodically attacked with a desire to knock off hats. He afterwards makes up the loss to the astonished victim of this strange fancy by the payment of three thalers. According to the calculation of his family in the past year he has been obliged to make good the loss of two hundred and sixty-seven hats. At a recent musical festival fifty-three hats were sacrificed to this curious frenzy, and for the evening's entertainment he paid a hundred and fifty-nine thalers.

OUTLAYS OF THE PRINCE. - The Prince of Wales left $150 to be distributed among the servants of the Revere House, in Boston. It is stated that a letter on Barings for $2,000 repaid the entertainment afforded the Prince and his suite at the Revere House, a like sum having been paid at the Continental, in Philadelphia, and Fifth Avenue Hotel, in New York. The Prince also paid $1,300 for the use of the steamer Daniel Drew, on the trip from New York to West Point.

A ROTTEN CONCERN. - The Vicksburg (Miss.) Whip states that a portion of the great Atlantic telegraph cable, which was brought there to be laid across the Mississippi, was found to be utterly worthless, and therefore could not be used. A new cable was ordered from New York.

LATER FROM EUROPE.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., Oct. 24. The following are the latest dispatches by the steamship City of Washington, the transmission of which was prevented last night by the wires being out of order: LONDON, Thursday, Oct. 11. The Piedmontese troops have entered the Neapolitan Territory and a portion assisted the Garibaldians in the battle at Voltorno. Mazzini has left Naples.

THE BATTLE OF VOLTURNO. - The battle of Voltorno commenced by 30,000 Neapolitans attacking the Garibaldians during a thick mist. The attacking force carried some of the positions, driving back the Garibaldians, whose number was less than half. Garibaldi then went forth with revolver in hand, and a desperate fight ensued, lasting eight hours, and ending in the route of the Neapolitans. The losses on both sides have been already stated. The German brigade was cut off and driven into the mountains, and the royalists made a sortie to rescue them, but were repulsed. The King of Naples and his brothers were present at the battle.

Rumors prevailed that Copua had surrendered, and also that the bombardment had ceased, but neither have been confirmed. The line of posts about Voltorno are still strongly protected, and the Neapolitans are prepared to defend their positions. Garibaldi has called on King Victor Emmanuel to go to Naples and send him a reinforcement of 14,000.

It is reported that the three great powers have protested against the Piedmontese army entering the Neapolitan Territory. COMMERCIAL. - The circulars report four dull and 6d. lower. GENERAL NEWS.

MR. YANCEY AND THE VICE PRESIDENCY. - The proposition to put Mr. Yancey up for Vice President on the Douglas ticket having been attributed to George N. Sanders, that gentleman publishes a letter, in which he says he made the proposition or remark casually and without previous thought, and that it "was only responsive to the spirit of good-humored rivalry which prevailed" at the table of the gentlemen in whose house he and several others, of different political sentiments, were invited to a private dinner. He had no idea, until recently, that any one considered his remark to have been anything more than a joke.

THE UNIFORM. - The fabulous unicorn has been found by a traveler. He says: It exists in the interior of the Thibet in India, where it is well known to the inhabitants. It is the same as the unicorn of Scripture, and is mentioned by ancient writers. It is said to be about the size of the horse, and extremely wild. It is seldom ever caught. They have a horn projecting out from their forehead. They go in herds and are to be met with on the borders of the Great Desert.

FIRING INTO A UNITED STATES VESSEL. - Recently on the coast of Cuba a Spanish man-of-war steamer threw a shot across the bow of the United States vessel Crusader, when Capt. Maffitt replied by firing ditto, hoisting his colors and steaming down, with his men at quarters, demanding who he meant? It was a mistake. The Crusader looked something like the City of Norfolk, the slaver, and hence the misapprehension.

It should be remembered that the Constitution of the State of Ohio restricts the right of suffrage to white citizens of the United States, and that every negro vote is a plain violation of the law. We think it probable that more negroes voted in Ohio for Judge Brinkerhoff than he has a majority over Smith. We hear more or less of their voting in almost every poll. White men are rapidly losing the government of Ohio!

A New York paper describes a new ploughing machine, by which it is said that three furrows each a foot wide and a foot deep, are not only turned over, but thoroughly stirred up and pulverized, the operation being something like worming a screw through the soil in so rapid a manner that it keeps the earth flying around in a circle, and that of the three diggers mixing through the earth.

FUNERAL OF COL. LUMSDEN. - On the 18th inst., the funeral of Col. Lumsden, who perished in the Lady Elgin, took place at New Orleans, and was attended by a military company, the Masons, Old Fellows, Typographical Society, and a large number of prominent citizens. - Rev. Dr. Hedges, of the Episcopal church, was the officiating clergyman.

POPULATION OF OHIO. - It appears from the new census that the State of Ohio has now a population of 2,342,982, which is an increase of 363,714 since 1850. This is better than the first reports had led us to expect, though not up to the expectations subsequently formed by the people of Ohio. Their State seems to have lost much of its progressive spirit.

THE IMPRISONED FILIBUSTER. - Col. Rudler, Walker's second in command in Honduras, addressed a letter to Col. Martinez, commander of Truxillo, thanking him for the friendship evinced for him during his confinement and trial in that city. He was shortly afterwards marched off to the interior to serve out his sentence.

A MAGNIFICENT DRIVE. - The inhabitants of Paris are to be gratified with another magnificent promenade. The Emperor has given orders for the construction of a road around Paris, within the fortifications. It will be twenty miles long, and one hundred and twenty feet wide. The footpaths will be bordered with trees.

DIPHTHERIA. - This disease is prevailing to a frightful extent in Western New York. Mr. Van Camp of Lyons Press Mr. Sentell of the Waterloo Observer, Mr. Collins of the Rochester Democrat, and Mr. Parker of the Geneva Gazette, have each followed to the grave a child, stricken down by this terrible malady.

A TEMPLE OF IVORY. - The Spencer House, in Cincinnati, Ohio, last Saturday night contained no less than nine brides, with their grooms. Two of the couples were from Kentucky, two from Tennessee, one from Arkansas, one from Ohio, one from Louisiana, one from Missouri, and one from Mississippi. The post of honor in a procession in which there are carriages is the right of the back seat in the leading carriage. The fact may be worth remembering, as many fail to recognize the distinguished guest in whose honor a military and civil display is made.

A BILLIARD TOURNAMENT. - Phelan and Colender, the billiard players, are about to inaugurate a billiard tournament in New York city, and offer a splendidly gold mounted billiard cue as the prize to be played for. The tournament will continue eight days.

PROSECUTION FOR SHAVING ON SUNDAY. - Some of the barbers in Bangor, Me., still continue to shave people on Sunday, and the anti-Sunday shaving barbers still continue to prosecute them. The court imposes a fine of $5 and costs, and the defendants appeal.

POISONED BY AN APOTHECARY. - A druggist in New York having a prescription for quinine, put up morphine in mistake, and killed a child in consequence. He has been held to bail in $1,000 to answer a charge of manslaughter.

KILLED. - Dr. Scott Jones, a wealthy farmer, near Winston, N. C., was shot and killed last week, by Lewis Jucore, one of his tenants, at the house of the latter, whether he had gone to notify him to quit. The murderer was arrested.

FATAL RESULT. - A letter from Macon, Mississippi, states that Mr. Perkins, who was in a duel with one William Orleans, with Dr. Poindeuxer, some weeks ago, has died from his wounds. The parties were brothers-in-law.

RICH MEN IN ST. LOUIS. - The richest man in St. Louis is James H. Brown, banker, worth, it is said, $5,000,000. Peter Lindell's estate is put down at $4,000,000, and that of Benoit, banker, at $1,500,000.

The oldest postmaster in the United States who has never been out of office since the date of his appointment, is John Billing, at Trenton, Oneida county, N. Y. His appointment was made on June 19, 1802.

A little son of George L. Emerich, of York county, Pa., died on the 11th inst., from eating "nightshade," a poisonous vegetable plant. On Saturday night the store of J. M. Sellman, in Frederick, Md., was entered and robbed of $2,000 worth of jewelry, silks, and other articles.
