the place of execution, and already had the fatal sentence been read, when the low murmur that ran through the ranks changed into almost deafening shouts:

"The Emperor! the Emperor! Long live the Emperor!"

He appeared, dismounted from his horse; and then, with his short, quick step, he walked up to the condemned.

"Pierre," said he to him. Pierre gazed at him, and made an effort to speak, but a sudden stupor seemed to overwhelm him. "Pierre," continued the Emperor, "remember your own words of last night. God gives thee life a second time; devote it not to me, but to France! She, too, is a kind mother! Love her as thou didst thy first—thine own."

He then turned to depart, and greeting shouts of admiring love followed him till he was out of sight.

Some years after this, a Captain of the Old Guards fell mortally wounded on the field of Waterloo.

Amid the din of battle, he was heard to shout in his death pangs:

"Long live the Emperor! France forever! My Mother! My Mother!"

It was Pierre Pitois!

How ready are those who have brought evil upon themselves or a community, to charge the cause of that evil upon others, rather than to lay it at their own doors, where it rightfully belongs. This is very fully illustrated by the Republicans at the present time, who are endeavoring to throw all the responsibility of the sad and alarming state of things at the South upon those conservative papers which have, in season and out of season, endeavored to counteract the baneful influences of the John Brownism, inflammatory speeches and unjust legislation of the Republican party, and which have by earnest appeals to the patriotism of the people, striven to prevent the result which is causing so much anxiety in every part of the land. Thus they endeavor to skulk behind the charge of sedition in those whose only crime is the love of their whole "country, however bounded." Was there ever anything more mean and cowardly than this? Did it ever occur to them that the tree is judged by its fruits. If the Republicans in their legislation, pass laws which violates a solemn compact—nullifies a law of Congress—places the State Government in antagonism to the Federal Government—tramples under foot rights guaranteed by our fathers, making it a penal offence for a citizen to assist in enforcing or seeking redress under a United States law—if such is the product of Republicanism in those State Governments which have been under their control, what will be the fruit, is it not a natural question to ask, produced when they have the wider field of the National Government to operate in? Is it not natural that our Southern friends should be somewhat excited, with such precedents before them—though there is nothing to fear from the Republicans for two years to come, at least—as their President will come into power flanked with Union men? If the Republicans wish to escape from the charge of sectionalism, let them at once repeal their Personal Liberty bills; let them retrace their steps of nullification, and place those states in harmony with the Constitution of the United States, and do equal justice to the South as well as the North. Let them do this, and we shall have an earnest of that good will and good feeling which they are now so ready to proclaim, and which should ever characterize every part of this glorious Union. Let the Republicans first remove the beam that is in their own eye, that they may see more clearly the mote that is in their brother's eye.

The Republicans and the Country.

The language of the Black Republican press, the portion of it that comprehends the critical state of the country, is a sign that its party dare not attempt to apply the abominable sectionalism which it used to get power. The New York Times avers that Lincoln "will not fail to take into his council men who were arrayed against him during the late exciting canvass;" and names in the list John Bell as one probably who will be selected; and it avers also, that for the President to recommend the Wilmot Proviso now, "would be an unnecessary, impracticable and offensive measure!" That did for one day.

But now we have something more: the Albany Journal labors to clear Thurlow Weed of the responsibility of recommending the Helper Book!! This paper says:

Now that South Carolina, and the "Fire-eaters" of other Southern States, threaten to dissolve the Union, we have instituted a rigid personal inquiry into our own course and conduct towards the South This inquiry results in a conviction that, with one exception, we have not, in thought, word, or deed, wronged our brethren of the slave States.

We read the Helper book, hastily, soon after its publication. It was the work of a Southern man—a native and resident of North Carolina. It contrasted the advantages with the disadvantages of slavery, proving, as we thought, that the prosperity of North Carolina was retarded rather than promoted by slavery. When asked, therefore, to aid in the publication of a large edition of a "Compend," we contributed $100

At Washington, in December last, we first learned that this "Compend" contained the following recommendations:

1. Thorough organization and independent political action on the part of non-slaveholding whites of the South.

2 Ineligibility of slaveholdrs—never another vote to the trafficker in human flesh

3. No co-operation with slaveholders in politics—no fellowship with them in religion—no affiliation with them in society.

4. No patronage to slaveholding merchants—no guestship in slave-waiting hotels—no fees to slaveholding lawyers—no employment of slaveholding physicians—no audience of slaveholding parsons.

5. No recognition of pro-slavery men, except as ruffians, outlaws and criminals.

These recommendations are repugnant to, and in conflict with our principles, sentiments and sympathies. While those principles, sentiments and sympathies are all in favor of freedom, they revolt at such modes of warfare. We have never opposed, or thought of opposing slavery by such means; nor have we ever cherished, or intentionally given countenance to, such a spirit.

Verily, the work goes bravely on. The New York Times shivers the chief plank in the Chicago platform, and the Albany Journal repudiates the chief instrumentality of Lincoln's election.

Well may the Albany Journal now avow that these "recommendations are repugnant to, and in conflict with, our principles!" Mischief has done its work! The storm is raised! Still here is more backing down. It is good to see repentance. It is about time for the Massachusetts Republicans, who subscribed money to circulate this same book, to clear their skirts of the disunion business. What have our members of Congress who recommended this book to say on this subject? Do they mean to brave it out? There are their names appended to a recommendation precisely similar to that of Thurlow Weed! It never has been denied that these were real signatures, or that some of them subscribed money to circulate this infamous thing. Is not similar acknowledgment due to the public sentiment here? The sooner these architects of ruin take the back track—and take it they must—the better it will be for themselves and for the country.

FROM THE ARCTIC REGIONS.

The following letter is the first official intelligence received from the expedition of C. F. Hall, which sailed from the United States last May, in search of further relics of Sir John Franklin, or any surviving members of his party:

ARCTIC REGIONS, HOLSTEINBERG, GREENLAND, July 17, 1860.

Henry Grinnell, Esq., New York:

DEAR SIR: So you see I am within the "Frigid Zone," the regions where have been my hopes—my very soul for years. What happier, prouder period of one's life than when navigating waters almost sacred by the historic names of Frobisher, Davis, Hudson, Bylot, Baffin, Fox, Swaine, Ross, Parry, Franklin and Kane! You must know that now I am at home—at least, within the circle where I hope to be for some time to come, say till the momentous object for which I am here shall be fully accomplished.

I regret to inform you that my noble friend and companion, "Cudlargo," who was present at the meeting of your Geographical Society, evening of March 5th, is no more. His earthly heart now rests beneath the ocean's wave; his spirit has returned to God. This noble specimen of the Esquimaux died Sunday morning, July 1st. His last words were: "Teik-ko-sik-ko? Teik-ko-sik-ko?" "Do you see ice? Do you see ice?" His prayer was that he might arrive home and once more look upon his native land—its mountains—its snow—its ices—upon his wife and his little ones—he would then ask no more of earth.

On leaving Labrador coast, we sailed several days without seeing ice. "Cudlargo" would often ask if we saw ice, thinking if so, he must be near to his home. He died lat. 63 deg. N., when near the coast of Greenland. Preparations of a suitable nature were made for his burial in the sea. A "burial at sea" was always thought by me to be of greater interest than any other. I have witnessed such, and I must say that never did I participate more devoutly in what I consider the most solemn scene of my life. There, before us, was the "sheeted dead," lying amid-ships, on the gang-way board, all in readiness for burial. The whole ship's company, save a solitary man at the wheel, had assembled in solemn, sorrowful silence around our departed friend, to pay our last respects to him. The time that had been set for services now arrived. By the request of Captain Buddington, who was bound by strong ties to "Cudlargo," I had consented to take an active part in these services. I, therefore, proceeded to make such remarks as were deemed proper for the occasion. These were succeeded by my reading portions of appropriate exhortations from the "Masonic Manual," after which I read a prayer from the same excellent work. In this all seemed deeply, solemnly interested. During these services, the breezes of heaven were wafting us on—silently and speedily on to the North. At a given signal from the captain, standing at my right, the man at the wheel lufted the ship into the wind and deadened her headway. A short pause, and down into the deep grave—the abyss of the ocean—sunk the mortal part of "Cudlargo," the noble Esquimaux, who was returning to his natal land, when overtaken by death. An hour after the "George Henry" had been given to the leading wind, I turned my eyes back to the grave of "Cudlargo;"—a snow-white monument, mountain size, and of God's own fashioning, was over it.

Our voyage thus far has been attended with calms, fogs and head-winds, thus prolonging it to thirty-nine days. The usual time may be set down at from twenty-five to thirty. We arrived here in Holsteinberg Harbor on the morning of July 7th. The Rescue, of your first expedition in search of Sir John Franklin, in 1850, arrived midnight of July 11th. The George Henry and Rescue parted company the 3d night out, during a heavy wind; but Holsteinberg being the appointed rendezvous each vessel made its course direct here.

My health is excellent—better than ever. I enjoy myself beyond measure.

In this connection, I must speak to you of the co-operation I receive from Captain Buddington, who has the command of both the George Henry and Rescue. If I could have had the choice out of ten thousand men—excellent navigators in the waters of the North, and withal a good and true man, I could not have selected a better one than Capt. Sidney J. Buddington. The house of Messrs. Williams & Haven, whose generosity in behalf of my voyage to the North should ever be remembered, know well that their interests in the George Henry and Rescue are in the hands of one of the most careful seamen that comes here to the Arctic Seas.

It gives me pleasure, also, to communicate respecting the attention and hospitality extended to me by Governor Elberg, of Holsteinberg

He, in company with the European ladies of Holsteinberg, have spent several hours on board the George Henry, and in nothing do they seem more interested than in examining the records of the first and second Grinnell Expeditions of 1850–'51 and 1853–'54–'55. as written and illustrated by the lamented Kane. Happily, I had these volumes with me. The Governor was also interested in the work of Capt. (now Sir) F. L. M'Clintock. At a tea party given by the Governor on the evening of July 10th, I was invited to give a general statement of the accomplishments by M'Clintock, in his last voyage here to the Arctic Regions. All were much amazed with the jovialness of Gov. Elberg, in reading before the whole company present, M'Clintock's account of his gift of some coals to "the priest's wife who was blue with cold." "The priest's wife," Mrs. Kier, was one of the party, and seemed to enjoy the joke quite as well as any of us."

I must take the only copy of McClintock I have with me, as there are many statements in it that I wish to investigate personally, when on King William's Land next year. (D. V.)

I have visited various mountains of Greenland during our stay here, and know of no part of the world where there is better opportunity for the Geologist to investigate the stratification of the earth's crust than here in the North. By the by, Gov. Elberg has presented me with numerous specimens of fossil fish from North Strom Flord, the only place where they can be obtained. Mr. McClintock says they are interesting as being of unknown geological date.

Before me, on the table in my cabin where I am writing this, is a beautiful boquet of Arctic flowers, in great variety, sent me by several am astonished at the profuseness of Nature's productions here.

Last Saturday, accompanied by the Esquimaux Adam Beck, the Interpreter of old Sir John Ross, I took a trip to Mount Cunningham. On arriving at the foot of the peak called "Woman's Hood," Adam was fearful to go further up We were then higher up than any one has ever been before—so the Holsteinbergers say—but I doffed everything, save what modesty would bid me retain, (a "Woman's Hood" was about,) and up, up! I went to a fearful height. Just as I reached the top—or rather as its top was within a grasp—a chasm intervened, and I was obliged to return; though I spent an hour up there, drinking in the mighty views around me. I counted five hundred peaks of mountains, saw lakes, rivers, Davies' Straits, hundreds of islands, bays, Holsteinberg, &c., &c.

July 18th.—It is intended that we leave here at the earliest moment. Yesterday, by the assistance of Governor Elberg and Capt. Buddington, I purchased an excellent team of sledge dogs. Next winter will find me half Esquimaux, I doubt not. Capt. Buddington intends finding good quarters for the George Henry, then proceeding with me through Frobisher's Straits and Fox Channel—circumstances will decide as to penetrating also Repulse Bay. I shall gain much practical information this winter.

July 23d, 1860—1 o'clock, A. M.—A fresh breeze now prevails. We are off for the west side of Davies' Straits. Yours as ever,

C. F. HALL.

THE DANGER OF DOUBLE WEDDINGS.—Mike Martin and Arthur McDonald, two jolly chums and bosom friends, porters together in a New York house, were in the habit, about six months ago, of going to a certain restaurant in Fulton street, New York, regularly every day to dine. At this house were employed two of Erin's lovely daughters, sisters, named Catharine and Ellen Shelliton, in the capacity of waiters.—Martin and McDonald became enamored, and daily sat together at the same table, and were waited upon by the same fair hands. It is unnecessary to go through the details of the courtship; suffice it to note that the arrangements were made for a double wedding to come off on Saturday night last, at the house of Patrick Shognessy, in North Second street, Williamsburg. The guests were invited, an extra quantity of whisky was laid in, the priest was notified, the bridesmaids were in readiness, Pat himself was glorious, and the brides and bridegrooms were arrayed in fine splendor, and bore countenances radiant with joy and anticipated happiness. The priest put on his gown, the ceremony was read over, the vows were repeted, the two couples were pronounced men and wives. From that time on all was jollity till midnight. By this time most of the company had become rather tipsy, and the newly-made brides became sleepy. The bridesmaids accordingly canducted them to their separate bridal chambers, which had been prepared in Pat Shognessy's house, where the newly-wedded pairs were to board for the future. After several more imbibations Michael began to feel sleepy and, besides, felt somewhat anxious to know how his wife rested in her new quarters. So he thought he would go to bed. As soon as he could he stole away from his companions and went softly up stairs to his room. Disrobing hastily, he bounced into bed, but was startled and surprised by a female voice from under the bedclothes, "Och! ye thaif, ye thaif, go away wid yer!" continued in an indefinite number of screams and exclamations. Mike soon found he was in the wrong room, that it was not his Ellen but Kate, whose cries had startled him. Ellen, in another room, heard the cries of Kate, and from sympathy screamed also at the top of her voice. In the meantime Arthur thought to retire, but in doing so he also got into the wrong room. The women shrieked at the tops of their voices, the men rushed frantically to each other's rooms in dishabille, each swore at the other, and accused him of naughty actions, the folks down stairs came up and mixed in the melee, and an irrepressible conflict between all parties raged most furiously, and in all probability would have endured until the present time had not a couple of police officers stepped in and ended the matter by carrying off the two bride grooms. Poor fellows! The first night of their married lieves had to be spent in the cells instead of the bridal chambers, and to console and comfort each other the two brides tucked into one bed. On Monday all concerned appeared before Justice Coleban, when the above story being told and corroborated, mutual explanations and apologies followed, and the happy couples were allowed to depart to enjoy their honeymoon.—N. Y. Paper.

AN AMIABLE PARTNERSHIP, AND EQUALLY AMIABLE DISSOLUTION.—A singular fact is related of two citizens of Southbridge, Mass., by the Webster Times, who have jointly owned and occupied a farm in that town for sixteen years, but have lately dissolved partnership. During the whole of this period no accounts of any kind have been kept by either of the parties. Both individuals were men of family, occupying different portions of the same house, and when either wished to use cash he went to the drawer in which it was kept and took it, no account being kept in a single instance. Yet in all these sixteen years, not a word of fault was spoken; no ill-feeling, jealousy or suspicion was shown, and perfect harmony subsisted between the parties to the day of their separation. The final dissolution in business was occasioned by the marriage of a member of one of the families, when it was thought the house might not be able to contain "the consequences;" so one party raised the value of one half the premises in cash, paid it over to the retiring partner, who quietly left. We believe this to be an unparalleled case of honesty and confidence.

DEFENCES OF THE AUSTRIAN FRONTIER.—The Revue Contemporaine, in an article copied into the Moniteur de la Flotte, gives a remarkable account of extensive military preparations that have been made by Austria, on the frontiers of Venitia. At Venice, an Island covered with cannon has risen in the Grand Canal, and new works have been constructed at the Lido and Malghera. At Verona, means have been found to cover the heights round the town with batteries and forts. In the plain towards Mantua, and the Lake of Garda, either new fortresses have been raised, or those already in existence strengthened. It is not an exaggeration to say that Verona can now protect an army of 100,000 men. In a single year, Peschiera has become a second Verona; it has now a double girdle of detached forts. A steam fleet rides at anchor in the harbor. The writer had not seen Mantua or Legnano, but from all he had heard it appeared that the defences of the Po had been no more neglected than those of the Mincio.

A MOST REMARKABLE ROBBERY.—Money Twice Stolen.—Last night the clothing store of Hapgood & Co., No. 52 Washington street, was broken into and robbed of about $600 in money, and clothing to the value of some $300 or $400. The entrance was effected through several doors and windows. Once inside the store, the burglars proceeded to force the drawers of the desks, by tearing off the fronts of the drawers with some stout instruments. In one of the drawers they found the key of the safe, which they opened, and from which they took $600 in money. Of this money $297 was stolen from Mr. Farr, one of the firm, a few weeks ago, by a woman employed about the store, and was returned yesterday by the officer who arrested her, and by him placed in the safe, as a secure place of deposit. The balance was receipts from yesterday's sales.—Boston Evening Traveler, Nov 14.

THE GRENADA ADAMS EXPRESS ROBBERY.—Confession of Guilt.—We mentioned in September that a young man named Robert Collins had been arrested at Grenada, Miss., where he was employed, for robbing the office of the Adams Express Company at that place of a large sum of money. Last Thursday he was tried at Coffeeville, the county seat, on the charge. Three indictments were preferred against him, to which he plead guilty and was remanded to jail without sentence. He will doubtless be sent to the penitentiary for a long term.—Louisville Journal.

BURNING OF A RAILWAY STATION HOUSE.—The station house at Crestline, Ohio, was destroyed by fire Friday afternoon. The Pittsburg, Fort Wayne and Chicago railroad's loss is $15,000; Bellefontaine and Indianapolis road, $500; American Express Company, $500; Telegraph Company, $150.

GENERAL NEWS.

DEATH FROM SUCKING A PEN.—Mr. Francis Bellringer, who for some time past has been an assistant in the establishment of Mr. Hannington, Brighton, had an unfortunate habit of sucking the pen with which he had been writing, and this, it is almost certain, was the cause of his life being so suddenly and unexpectedly brought to a close. A few days since, while using the toothbrush, he inflicted a slight wound on his lower lip. On Saturday morning, the 18th ult., symptoms of erysipelas manifested themselves. He died on Friday afternoon, his fatal malady having been induced by the poisonous ink which he had sucked from the pen penetrating the slight abrasion on his lip.—English Journal.

NEGATIVE BELIEFS.—A few weeks ago there was a "Convention" of infidels held in the city of New York. There seems to have been one very sensible delegate among the number.—He arose to ask "whether the Convention could not contrive something besides negations. Did they not believe something, and should they not, therefore, express what they did believe? The Convention had ruled out all religions, which was a very easy thing; but what would they substitute in the place of religion?" But this "inquirer for truth" could not get the Convention to make any statement of positive doctrine.

THE CHRISTIAN SOCIALISTS.—In an article on Robert Owen, the Westminister Review for October mentions the "Christian Socialists," a sect which has obtained recently a foothold in the United States, as "an abnormal growth of these latter days," and adds: "The Christian Socialists are otherwise termed Muscular Christians. The Professor of History at Cambridge, and Mr. Hughes (the author of 'Tom Brown's School Days at Rugby,') are the chief prophets of the sect. Their ideal is the pious and strong—one who praises God and can walk a thousand miles in a thousand hours."

MUTINY IN INDIA.—The London journals contain particulars of a recent mutiny in the Dutch East India army. This army consists of about 20,000 men, of which less than one-third are Europeans. It may be doubted, says the correspondent, whether Europe ever before sent into the East an army so thoroughly demoralized. The Dutchmen belonging to these forces are well enough, but they do not form more than one-fourth even of the European troops, the remainder being drawn from the dregs of every army in Europe. The plot was discovered, and upwards of thirty of the ringleaders hanged.

TURNED UP AT LAST.—It is said the first proposal of Mr. Lincoln's name for the Presidential nomination, in any public journal, was made by a correspondent of the Cincinnati Gazette, and published in the columns of that paper on the 10th of November, 1858. The writer recommended Abraham Lincoln for President, and John P. Kennedy, of Maryland, for Vice President.

VERACIOUS STORY OF A VORACIOUS SHARK.—A shark caught near Port Jackson, Fla., carried the following curious miscellany in his capacious stomach: Half a ham, several legs of mutton, hindquarters of a pig, head and fore legs of a bull dog, with a rope round his neck, a quantity of horseflesh, a piece of sacking, and a ship's scraper. No wonder that twelve gallons of oil were obtained from his liver!

EMIGRATION FROM IRELAND.—The Western (Ireland) Star alleges that the exodus still continues: "Even at this late period of the season the 'exodus' is scarcely a whit abated. The rush is still outward, and America seems to be the chief destination of those leaving the country. The stream of emigration via Liverpool still continues to flow almost as rapidly as in June or July."

The Committee of Arrangements of the reception of the Prince of Wales at Richmond have published a card, pronouncing the statement of the London Times and the New York Times sheer fabrications, with regard to alleged indignities shown the royal parties in that city. They allege that the correspondent of the London Journal was in Baltimore at the time of the Prince's visit to Richmond.

THE ILLINOIS SENATE.—The Republicans have made a narrow escape in Illinois. It was necessary for them to carry the Sangamon Senatorial District, or the Senate would have been against them. The following is the official vote. Sangamon and Morgan counties, Jayne, Republican 6,065, M'Connell, Democrat, 6,008—Jayne's majority 7.

TRUE TEST.—One evening, we are told, after a weary march through the desert, Mohammed was camping with his followers, and overheard one of them saying, "I will loose my camel and commit it to God;" on which Mohammed took it up. "Friend, tie thy camel, and commit it to God"—that is, do whatever is thine to do, and leave the issue with God.

CONDUCTOR KILLED.—A. M. Humphrey, formerly conductor on a street car in Chicago, Illinois, fell from a freight car at Peru, Illinois, on the Chicago and Rock Island railroad, on the night of the 8th inst., and was instantly killed.

GALT'S STATUE OF JEFFERSON.—A letter from Paris states that this work of art, for the University of Virginia, was, at that writing, (Sept. 24.) boxed up and put on board of ship for the United States.

NAVAL.—The sloop of war Levant, Com'r Hunt, sailed from Hilo to Panama on the 18th of September. The U. S. steamer Hartford, Capt. Lounders, and Saginaw, Com'r Schenck, were at Shanghae Sept. 4.

THE CHICAGO ZOUAVES.—Col. Ellsworth, of Chicago Zouave notoriety, is engaged in preparing an elegant diploma for presentation to the various companies that entertained the Zouaves on their recent tour.

THE GREAT EASTERN.—The directors of the Great Ship Company have effected an assurance of £1 0,000 upon the Great Eastern, at the rate of 5s per cent. for the six months during which she will lie at Milford Haven.

A DUELIST CONVICTED.—Thomas Armstrong has been convicted in Alabama of sending a challenge to fight a duel. The penalty is two years in the penitentiary. A new trial, however, has been granted.

SAVING OF BREATH.—When the French Empress at table speaks to any one not close to her, she has her words repeated by an aid decamp, or chamberlain, who stands close by her.

SENTENCED.—Ernest Meyer, convicted in Prince George county, Va., of the murder of Richard Washington, has been sentenced to 18 years in the penitentiary.

Martin V. Brantly, convicted of opening letters in the United States mail, at Savannah, Ga., has been sentenced to ten years' imprisonment.

Lieut. Morton has not as yet been appointed engineer of the Washington aqueduct, in the place of Captain Benham, as stated.

The Capt. Wilson testimonial fund raised in the city of New York amounts to $7,176; this is for the rescue of the Connaught passengers.

The literary societies of Amherst College have elected Daniel S. Dickinson of New York, orator for the next commencement.

The board of supervisors of Genesee county, N. Y., have elected Miss Hattie Smith clerk of the board.

A young lady, writing as enthusiastically as young ladies generally do, portrays Garibaldi as a "dear old weather-beaten angel."

Randall Clark was fined at the late term of the circuit court of Lowndes county, Ala., $1,000 for not feeding his slaves well.
