MISCELLANY.

Tepching DEVOTION OF A BEAUTIFUL WOMAN TO A GIFTED AUTHOR .- M. de Chateaubriand was, in 1847, incapable of even rising from his seat; his memory so much gone that he had been heard to ask for a friend dead twenty years before, and his other faculties much impaired. Madame Recamier had endcavored to conceal it from all, even from herself. She could not bear to tell her dearest friends that the intellect she had so entirely admired was gone, and she attributed her own depression to bis caring for nothing, not even for her. He had so completely lost all power of attention, that he could not read, but he still had a degree of plain sense. He said nothing foolish; he knew his faculties were going, and had the feeling of a poor proad man who hides his poverty. It was even more painful than childishness; yet at times a gleam of his former self would flash up and surprise one. One day, a lady called at the Abbaye, made a speech in favor of Robespierre's virtues. M. de Chateaubriand all at once aroused from his silence, broke out into a description of the deeds of these men. deeds he witnessed. Never in his best days had he expressed more eloquent indignation.

All were silent with awe. They felt as if a prophet raised from the dead had spoken. Thus the flame flickered and sank down. In this state he was carried daily to the Abbaye; he seemed only to live during the three hours he spent with her, and one day, to Madame Recamier's astonishment, he entreated her to marry him. She was decided in her refusal. She said :

"Why marry at your age? If you do not like to live alone. I am ready to come and live with you. If I were younger, I should not hesitate; I would joyfully accept the right to devote myself entirely to you, but I have this right; age and blindness give it to me; who could object to it? Let us change nothing."

M. de Chateaubriand was not satisfied, but she did not tell him her real reason, which was most touching. But to a friend she said, with perfect simplicity:

"If I had thought he would be happier, I would not have refused; but the only good moments he has in the day, are when he comes to the Abbaye. I am convinced that if I lived with him. that elight excitement which gives a little variety to his existence, would be lost." In this decision, she thought only of him.

BLINDNESS AND LUNACY .-- A highly interesting paper was read at the last sitting of the Academy of Medicine of Paris, by Dr Bouisson, on a curious case of blindness and lunacy in the same individual, in which the cure of the former infirmity had brought on the cure of the latter. About a year ago a man of about 50 was brought to the hospital. His eyes were found to be both affected with cataract, and his incoherent answers to the questions addressed to him sufficiently revealed his state of mind. An operation being resolved upon, Dr. Bouisson ordered the patient to be chloroformed; but, although he was thus effectually sent to sleep, the danger of his awaking during the operation, and frustrating the hopes of the surgeon by some act of insubordi-nation, induced Dr. Bouisson to have him seeured with a straight waistcoat-a procaution which was continued even after the operation had been successfully performed, an attendant being specially entrusted with the care of the that the disorder should receive immediate attention when-ever it occurs, and no person should neglect to get a box of Cephalic Pills on the first appearance of the complaint, as their timely use will expel the insideous approaches of disease and destroy this dangerous for to human life. lunatic, with orders to apply compresses riceped in cold water on his eyes from time to time. On the tenth day the patient, who until then, had not the least idea of what had been done, was allowed to see the light. A stand smile gleamed on his face for an instant, and he exclaimed-"I can see!" He was daily subjected to those trials which were requisite to ascertain the complete success of the operation. With his recognition of the objects 2 ound him, his mental faculties seemed also to revive. First he named the things he wanted, and stretched out his hands for them ; then he began to appreciate distances and dimensions correctly; his memory returned next

THE ONLY PREPARATION THAT HAS STOOD THE TEST OF YEARS, AND GROWS MORE AND MORE POPULAR EVERY DAY! And testimonials, new, and almost without number, might be given from ladies and gentlemen in all grades of society, whose united testimony none could resist, that Prof. Wood's Hair Restorative will restore the bald and gray, and preserve the hair of the youth to old age, in all its youthful beauty. BATLE CREEK, Mich., Dec. 21, 1858. Thor. Wood: Thee will please accept a line to inform thee that the hair on my head fell of over twenty years ago, caused by a complicated chronic disease, attended with an eruption on the head. A continual course of suffering through life having reduced me to a state of dependence, I have not been able to obtain stuff for caps, neither have I been able to do them up, in consequence of which my head has suffered extremely from cold. This induced me to pay Briggs & Hodges almost the last cent I had on earth for a two dollar bottle of thy Hair fully followed the directions, and the bald spot is now covered with hair thick and black, though short; it is also eming in all over my head. Feeling confident that another large bottle would restore it entirely and per-manently, I feel anxious to perserere in its use, and be-ing destitute ef means to purchase any more. The attention of Invalids, Physicians, Clergymea

The attention of Invalids, Physicians, Clergmen. scientific men, and the public generally, is respectfully solicited to the merits of this chemical preparation, con-taining IRON, SULPHUR, AND PHO-PHOROUS, and which is identical in its composition with the Hewatu Globule, or red blood. In all diseases accompanied with D E B I L I T Y, pale countenance and nervous derangement, analyses of the blood show a deficiency of the red globules. Indir complexion and a rosy tint of the skin, is always indica-tive of health; while a pale, wax-like skin and counte-nance, --which evinces a deficiency of the red globules, accompanics a diseased organism. Preparations of IRON have been given for the purpose of supplying the red glo-bules, but we contend that 1 RON alone, SULPHUR alone, or PHOSPHOROUS slone, will not meet the deficiency in every case, but that a judicious combination of all these elements is necessary to restore the blood to its normal standard. This point never before attained, has been reached in the BLOOD FOOD, and its discovery ranks as one of the most scientific and important of the aga. Its effects in C O N S U M P T I O N are to soften the cough, brace the nerves, strengthen the physical and mental energy, enrich the blood by restoriz the lacking red globules, increase the appetite, restors the color, and clothe the skeleton frame with flesh. His ideas soon became clearer, his speech more intelligible, and his recollections of the time when he could see, before he was attacked with cataract, became brighter. Vain endeavors, nevertheless, were made to ascertain the period when he lost his reason; all he could state was that he had been blind three years. After a stay of six weeks at the hospital, he returned home, enjoying both his eyesight and intellectual facul-

INSTINCT OF ANIMALS .--- In referring to what is called mind or instinct of dogs and other nnimals, full justice, we think, has never been rendered to the Simia, or monkey tribe. Their tricks and dexterity have been amusing; but wheir extraordinary talent, sagacity, and intuitive perception have been, in a measure, slighted by naturalists generally. A monkey or half baboon, belonging to one of our national vesseis, was a remarkable instance of this kind of quickness of perception. Being a favorite, a number was assigned to him to take his grog with the seamen; thus when the hands were called to receive their liquor they came up by number; the monkey had number four, but in following in Indian file, the sailors frequently shoved him out of the ranks, and the suttler would call number three and then number five. After all had drunk their liquor, and some four or five hundred had departed, he would sing out the missing number four, when down came the monkey from the rigging, the moment his number was called, to get his share of the grog, which he would drink out of a teacup. take a piece of tobacco from any one offering, put it in his mouth, and ascend the shrouds. A singular circumstance occurred, which strongly marked all the characteristics of human sagacity and passion. The boys, as it was the custom, were "piped to mischief," for play and skylarking, and while amusing themselves, some twenty in a ring, the monkey sprang from the rattling in the midst of them. He passed round the ring, looking intently in the face of every boy; at length he stopped before one, and, springing at him, bit him severely in cach cheek, his fine teeth passing through the flesh, bringing with it a stream of blood, and then ran up the shrouds. The Doctor was immediately sent for, and after applying proper remedies to the wounds, the Captain asked the boy what he had done to the monkey. After some hesitation he admitted that a few weeks before, while swabbing the decks, he had thrown a pail of water over the monkey, who, it seems, postponed his revenge until he could recognize the boy distinctly among all his messmates. This clearly is mind -call it sagacity, or what you please.

I beg leave to call the attention of the citizens of the United States to the above WINES and LIQUORS, im-ported by UDOLFRO WOLFE, of New York, whose name is familiar in every part of this country for the purity of his celebrated SCHIEDAM SCHAPPS. Mr. WOLFE, in his letter to me, speaking of the purity of his WINES and LIQUORS, says: "I will stake my reputation as a man, my standing as a merchant of thirty years' resi-dence in the City of New York, that all the BRANDT and WINES which I bottle are pure as imported, and of the best quality, and can berelied upon by every purchaser." Every bottle has the proprietor's name on the wax, and a iac simile of his signature on the certificate. The public are respectfully invited to call and examine for themselves. Sole Agent for Philadelphia. Read the following from the New York Courier: ENORMOUS BUBINESS FOR ONE NEW YORK MEERGHANT.— We are happy to inform our fellow-citizens that there is one place in our city where the physician, apothecary, and country merchant, can go and purchase pure Wines and Liquors, as pure as imported, and of the best quality. We do not intend to give an elaborate description of this merchant's extensive business, although it will well re-pay any stranger or citizen to visit UDOLFHO WOLFE's extensive warehouse, Nos. 18, 20 and 22. Beaver street, and Nos 17, 19 and 21, Marketfield street. His stock of Schnapps on hand ready for shipment could not have been less than thirty thousand cases; the Brandy, some ten thousand cases—Vintages of 1836 to 1856; and ten thousand cases of Madeira. Sherry and Port Wines, Scotch and Irish Whisky, Jamaica and St. Croix Rum, some very old and equal to any in this country. He also had three large cellars, filled with Brandy, Wines, & c. in casks, under Custom-House key, ready for bottling. Mr. WOLFE's sales of Schnapps last year amounted to one hundred and eighty thousand dozen, and we hope in less than two years he may be equally successf with his Brandies and Wines. His business merits the patronage of every lover of his species. Private families who wish pure Wines and Liquors for medical use should send their orders direct to Mr WolfF, until every Apothecary in the land make up their minds to discard the poisonous stuff from their shelves, and replace it with WOLFE's pure WINES and LiquoRs.
