and the polar circle; and it is the means of transporting itself whithersoever it is wanted. Wait and Stephenson whispered in the ear of mankind their secret, and a half-ounce of coal will draw two tons a mile, and coal carries coal, by rail and by boat, to make Canada as warm as Calcutta, and with its comfort brings its industrial power.

than that of Scotland was not recommended by her advisers, seems to have puzzled the English journalists quite as much as the suddenness of her presence in "the inviolate Isle," and the privacy which marked her entrance into and departure from London.

There are three wants which never can be satisfied; that of the rich, who want something more; that of the traveler, who wants something different; and that of the traveler, who says: "Anywhere, but here!"

Genial manners are good, and power of accommodation to any circumstance, but the high prize of life, the crowning fortune of a man, is to be born with a bias to some pursuit, which finds him in employment and happiness—whether it be to make baskets, or broadsword, or canals, or statues, or songs.

Nature is a spendthrift, but takes the shortest way to her ends. As the general says, "so nature makes every creature do its own work and get its living—its planet, animal or tree?"

A beautiful person, among the Greeks, was thought to betray by this sign some secret favor of the immortal gods; and we have a portion of personal insult and contumely in the owner; and long stints, again, put him at perpetual disadvantage, and force him to stoop to the general level of mankind.

When there is something to be done, the world knows how to get it done. The vegetable eye makes leaf, pericarp, root, bark or thorn, as the need is; the first cell converts itself into stomach, mouth, nose or nail, according to the want; the world throws its life into a hero or a shepherd; and puts him where he is wanted.
