IN THE LOCK-UP. Two vagrants took lodgings in the lock-up on Monday night, and were turned out yesterday morning to see the Inauguration sights.

"LITTLE GIANT."—The communication signed "Little Giant," although it meets our views to a dot, is scarcely worth publishing now. The position assumed by the negroes in consequence of the election of Lincoln and Curtin, is merely an impudent one, and not justified by anything that has yet eccurred. There is conservatism enough left to hold them in check.

SAD ACCIDENT .- Yesterday afternoon Willie, a little son of Jacob Walters, grocer, corner of Third and North streets, met with an accident which may terminate in death. The Newport band was playing in front of the residence of Mrs. Johnston, in North street, and the child was in the act of crossing the street, when two two-horse sleighs, loaded with men, turned into the street at a rapid pace. when one of the horses struck the child, and one of the runners of the heavy loaded sleigh passed over its abdomen. The doctors had not ascertained the extent of the injury at the time we left the house. But, having been a witness to the accident we can only say that we fear the child is internally injured to such an extent as to render its recovery extremely doubtful.

ARREST OF PICKPOCKETS .- The anticipation of a fine field for plunder, drew to this city yesterday a number of the light-fingered gentlemen, who commenced eperating early in the day. Four of them were watched closely by the police, and officer Fleck succeeded in capturing four of them, who gave the names of Joseph Keiser, Burk Hackera, White Hackers and John Logan. They were pointed out by two Philadelphia Detectives, and one of them was arrested while in the very act of attempting to pick a pocket They were taken before Justice Beader, who committed them to jail for a further hearing. Two fellows named Whitman and Perkins, who are supposed to figure in the Rogue's Gallery of New York, where also spotted by the Philadelphia Detectives, and taken in charge by Chief Radabaugh, who has them in the lock-up. The prompt arrest of these fellows in a great measure deterred others from operating boldly-still in the face of the arrests, several pockets were picked of small amounts. On the whele, however, their trip to the Capital scarcely paid expenses.

TRIBUTE OF RESPECT.—The Paxton Hose Company, at a meeting held by them on Monday evening, January 14th, 1861, adopted the following preamble and resolutions:

WHEREAS, It has pleased Divine Providence to remove from this life our late member, Frederick R. Hiney: And whereas, It is due to the memory of the deceased that we should properly manifest our high esteem of his many noble qualities; therefore,

Resolved, That we have learned with feelings friend, and whilst be bow submissively to the mandates of an all-wise, benificent Creator, who has taken from among us one whom we highly esteem, we would express the deep sorrow which the event has caused, and to signify, by our grief, the tribute of respect which we desire to pay to his memory.

Resolved, That we deeply sympathize with the widow and relatives of the deceased in their heavy bereavement; that we extend to them, under this afflicting dispensation, our sincers condolence; that we will cherish with them the memory of his many virtues. olved, That we place the hose carriage and meeting room in mourning for the term of thirty Resolved, That a copy of the above presmble and resolutions be sent to the family of the de-ceased and published in the daily papers of the city. DAVID SIMONS, Secretary.

THE IMAUGURATION OF GOV. CURTIN-THE INAU-GURAL ADDRESS, ETC., ETC., ETC. - The night preceding Inauguration day was a stormy one. For several days snow had been falling, which finally turned into rain. In the midst of this descending shower, the military company of Harrisburg, which had been detailed to receive the guests, marched to the depots of the different railroads. Their success was only partial, for the visitors were comparatively few in number. Those who did arrive were escorted to their hotels, and left to enjoy themselves in the best manner possible. Mars is sometimes hilarious, and it is no wonder that many of the faming red and blue coats encompassed very noisy specimens of valor. All had a good time, however, and anxiously anticipated the coming morrow.

That morrow brought with it a clear sky and a cool air. It brought with it crowds of people from Cumberland, Lebanon and all the adjoining counties. It thronged Coverley's Hotel (the stopping place of Gov. Curtin) with a mass of patriots. It brought the merry jingle of sleigh bells, and the music of the drum and fife in the public streets. It brought a troop of horsemen from Lykens Valley, and many flags and uniforms. It witnessed the display of an immense number of strange faces, sorrowful, cheerful, stupid, intelligent and knavish, and in stray corners and strange places its light fell upon many revellers of the night before.

As the day were on, the massive cannon at the arsenal was uncovered, and a detailed force arranged the preliminaries of a salute to the Governor elect. The grand rush of the people was to the street in which the military were to form. This was Market street. Major Gen. Wm. H. Keim was in command. The volunteers looked well, despite of the long railroad rides, and the troubles which they had endured. The country companies had evidently brightened up their uniforms for the occasion. Many of the men were hard-fisted sons of toil-the bone and sinew of the land, and the elements of national and State defence. They represented all political parties, and not any partizan administration.

It was nearly eleven o'clock when the companies took up the line of march, and proceeded to the residence of Gov. Packer. From this point they visited the abiding place of Gov. Cartin. Having received the distinguished participants, they went by a short route to the Capitol. There is really but little to be said of the march around she oily. The streets which afforded good sleighing pere in lad order for pedestrians. The procession stretched took up the line of march, and proceeded to the itself out to the fullest extent, and was the object of admiration of many groups. It would not be truthful to say that the sidewalks were " lined." but they were certainly well filled.

The procession consisted of thirteen companies The carriages were five in number, the first containing the two Governors and Messrs. Irvin and Smith, of the Committee of Arrangements. The remainder were occupied by the Heads of Departments, etc. The Lykens Valley Cavalry formed an escort to the Governors.

Upon reaching the Capitol, the two Governors entered the portico. The lawn in front was occupied by spectators, the impress of whose many feet, beat the snow with which it was covered into a mass as hard as ice. Men, women and children stood upon this cold floor during the proceedings, and through the half hour required for Governor Curtin to deliver his Inaugural Address.

Under the arrangements, none but public officers, legislators and reporters were admitted into the portico. The Washington Artillerists, of Pottsville, acted as a guard of honor, and preserved as much order as was possible under the circumstances.

The retiring and incoming Governors having seated themselves in front of the portico, in full view of the assembled people, the proceedings commenced. A prayer was delivered by Rev. Mr. Cattell. He invoked the blessing of God upon the person who had been chosen to preside over the destinies of this great Commonwealth, and prayed that divisions in our land might be healed. He concluded with the Lord's Prayer.

After a short interval, Mr. Palmer, Speaker of the Senate, presented himself, and announced that it became his duty to administer the oath of office to the Chief Executive.

The oath was then administered in the following words:

"You do swear, by Almighty God, the searcher of all hearts, that you will support the Constitution of the United States, and so you swear. You do also swear that you will support the Constitution of the State of Pennsylvania, and that you will perferm your duty with fidelity."

While taking the oath, the Governor elect stood uncovered, with uplifted hand. Mr. Palmer then said: "I declare Andrew G. Curtin to be duly inaugurated as Governor of Pennsylvania." Three hearty cheers were then given for Gov.

Curtin. The Governor then delivered his Inaugural Address.

The procession then re-formed, and, after escort ing Gov. Curtin to his hotel, dismissed. Many of the military participants left for their homes almost immediately.

A FORTUNATE INVENTOR .- In 1846, Elias Howe, Jr., obtained a patent for an improvement in sewing machines, in which he claimed, among other things, the use of a shuttle, needle and "basterplate." The next year he went to England with a view to introducing his machines into the great factories, as well as to the public at large; but finding, after a while, as do nearly all our American inventors who go there on such insane errands. that Englishmen will scarcely take our inventions as gifts until their value has been demonstrated to about three successive generations, he came home again. In this country, where each man buys a thing which commends itself to his own judgment and does not ask what his grandfather would have thought of it, the two years which Mr. Howe had spent abroad, had sufficed for our energetic inventors to fairly introduce and popularize the great invention. Not only this, but application for patents for improved machines come fast and thick. and the Howe was fairly distanced. In the usual course of events, infringements on Howe brought suits on his part, and a skirmishing legal warfare between Singer, Wheeler & Wilson, and Grover & uniting his interest with theirs. In 1853, however, clouds darkened their herizon for Judge Mason, the then Commissioner of Patents decided that as early as 1834 one Walter Hunthad invented the shuttle and needle, and other parts of the Howe machine; and Judge Sprague, in Bostop, charged the jury in a sewing machine suit that they must adjudge the invention of the needle and shuttle to Hunt, but the "baster-plate" to Howe. On that trial Howe testified, under oath, to having received in royalties the princely sum of $468,000—a sum which we presume was never before realized by an inventor for his invention. But the sewing machine is an invention of such substantial merit, and such universal applicability, that its use increases in wonderful cumulative ratio, and the emoluments of Howe have of late been rapidly augmented. Thus in the nine months from Nevember 1858, to June, 1859, inclusive, 37,442 were sold, and Howe's royalties at $5 the machine were consequently over one hundred and eighty thousand dollars. Our once penniless mechanic whose practical genius suggested a lucky arrangement of pre-existing parts of a machine, has, therefore, become a Crowsus and made his pile.

Baker finally ended in an entente cordiale, Howe

A CALM.—There is a sort of a lull prevailing in national affairs. There have been no secessions within a few hours, no ships have been fired into for a day or two, and no special pronunciamentos have been uttered. Nogotiations are talked about, and there is some hope of permanent peace. The future is, of course, uncertain, and we would advise our readers to embrace the present opportunity of procuring for themselves new and elegant suits at the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chesnut street, above Sixth. Philadelphia.
