Before the Mayor .- On Sunday morning Connd Hoffman, Frantz Kreider, John Strine, William Hammond and Charles Folsby, took lodgings on Saturday night, and were let off on Sunday merning.

Yesterday morning John Crosby, a revolver, was turned out, and an old Salt named Charles Hollingsworth. The latter was discharged not long since after a long cruise on the Merrimac. He got into the interior, among the land sharks, who left him without a shot in his locker, and anxious to get home, the Mayor procured a pass for him, and he went on his way rejoicing.

A PREMIUM TO SHARP SHOOTERS .- Mr. Warne. who keeps the shooting gallery over Poulton's Billiard Saloon, in order to encourage a taste for the skillful and scientific use of the rifle, has agreed to present the man who makes the best string in eight consecutive shots in his gallery during the present month, with a splendid silver goblet. This is very liberal on the part of Mr. Warne, and should be an incentive to those who have confidence in their skill to make an effort to get their money back in a testimonial worth preserving. We are gratified to announce that the gallery has become one of the institutions of our CHURCH SCANDALIZED-A Sensation Preacher Leaves by the First Train .- Some time ago a sensation preacher arrived in this city, who styled himself the Rev. Mr. Robinson, who obtained an opening at the Locust street church, where he proposed going into the revival business on a large scale. He advertised sensation sermons under the striking title of the "Devil's Rocking Chair," the "Devil's Funeral Sermon," etc. Now, it appears that brother Robinson, being of the Beecher school, his first sermon was a "hit." in theatrical perlance, and his engagement promised to be profitable to the cause of Zion, as the "star" suddenly brought a number to the stool of repentance. Brother Robinson was adored by the sisters, and lionized by the brethren. But certain old wise heads of the church, who have had so much experience in the world, and cannot have fine saxony wool drawn over their optics, suddenly smelt a large mice—a mice of Hurculean proportions—and they decided that the pious brother required looking after. For Saturday evening he had advertised a lecture, which was to be a stunner, and the arrangemetre. But long before evening came, the fiat are being manufactured by Mr. W. C. M'Clellan, went forth that Brother R. was non est, and would not fulfill his engagement. Soon the wonder city: grew, but the knowing ones kept dark as long as they could, until the "unruly member" of some let the thing out, and the mysterious disappearance of the sensation preacher is no longer a mystery.

Cardinal Woolsey informed Cromwell that by the sin of ambition angels fell, but in these latter days, when the ministers of grace fall, it is through lust. It appears that on Friday night, at an unseasonable hour, the Rev. Mr. Robinson was found on the bridge in company with a woman. The time, the place, the circumstances attending the discovery, were of such a nature as to prevent the reverend gentleman from making anything like a satisfactory explanation, and on Saturday he left for the east, instead of going to Altoona, where he had an engagement pending. You may talk about saintly thieves at a field preaching, who devoutly turn their eyes to Heaven to induce others to look that way while they pick their pockets, but they are still not so bad as the saintly hypocrite who preaches the laws of God on approved and modern principles—beating salvation into men's souls by the use of flowery eloquence, theatrical rant, and then stealthily violating the tommandments almost within sight of the sanctuary. If there is any one portion of hell's hottest furnace hotter than another, it must be specially reserved for those who play the villain under the garb of religion-who cloak themselves in the robes of God to serve the devil in.

The church members here very naturally feel mortified; but they cannot be held accountable, as Robinson must of course have presented the proper credentials to enable him to deceive them.

We regret that we are without a description of the man, in order to guard the public at other places against this wolf in sheep's clothing.

A Work for Every Family.

Mitchell's new General Atlas for 1861, containing the maps of various countries in the world, plans of cities, &c., embraced in fortyseven Quarto Maps, forming a series of seventysix Maps and Plans, together with valuable Statistical Tables, and sold only by agents.

This is Mitchell's latest and best attempt to furnish the American people with correct and reliable geographical knowledge, and will bear comparison with any similar work of the kind heretofore projected; while its price places it within the reach of persons of moderate means.

It is simply an Atlas with necessary Statistical Tables appended. It is gotten up in the best style of map-working. The lettering is clear, the boundaries of each division of countries distinctly marked, and the whole beautifully colored.

There are two features in this Atlas which are not met with in other works of the kind, to wit: large plans of the principal cities in, and a full list of the names and localities of post offices throughout, the United States. It is needless to state the advantages to be derived from the study of geography and the necessity of correct data, to aid us in acquiring such knowledge. They are patent to every schoolboy. This work, with the aid of Mitchell's unrivalled Geography, offers all the necessary facilities for such study; and although too large for the satchel of youth, it is the very thing to have at home to refer to at any time, and in time to come.

The plates upon which these maps are angraved are entirely new, having been prepared evening, at their hall. Every member is expected expressly for this work.

THE PERSONAL LIBERTY BILL .- During the late discussion in the Senate on the resolutions relative to the maintenance of the Constitution and the Union, some of the Republican members took strong grounds against the repeal of the 95th and 96th sections of the amended Penal Code, because, as they alleged, no fugitive could escape under their provisions. In August, 1855, a negro called Jake Green ran away from his master, Col. Isaac Parsons, ef Hampshire county, Va. The owner proceeded with persons to this State, for the purpose of capturing him. The searching party stationed themselves at three several points in the neighborhood, where the negro was supposed to be concealed. Mr. Jas. Parsons, the defendant, and a negro alleged to have been Jake Green, on the morning of the 20th of October, met in the same train of cars starting from Hollidaysburg. The colored man, a few mcments after Mr. Parsons took his seat in the car, and while the train was in motion, was seen to loap from the platform with a black carpet bag in his hand, and after recovering himself, (for he fell to the ground,) to run rapidly toward the town; while Mr. Parsons, who had jumped immediately after him from the car, pursued him in hot haste. The negro was soon stopped by the bystanders, who supposed that he was running away with a stolen carpet bag. Mr. Parsons by this time had come up to the man, and seized hold of him. The defendant charged him with stealing his master's horse, to which the negro replied that he had not stolen the horse though he had run away. The man was then forced into a tavern in the town, where some altercation took place, during which, it was said, the negro called Mr. Parsons "mar, ter," and also employed the Christian name of this gentleman while addressing him. The horses, after a while, were ordered. Parsons and his captive mounted and were moving away, when the crowd cried to the latter to jump from the horse and escape. The advice was taken, but the negro was almost as soon in the grasp of his captor, a second time. A melee followed, during which Geo. Potts, an Abolitionist, had an altercation with Parsons, and at the very moment a negro named Snyder Carr produced the free papers of one Francis Johnston, whose description did not at all agree with that of the captured fugitive. During the excitement, and while James Parsons, Jr., was completely hemmed in, the slave Jake Green made good his escape. He was thus fairly rescued by a mob, who themselves made the proceedings of the arrest "riotous and tumultous;" but, as if to add insult to injury, Parsons was immediately arrested for kidnapping, and debarred the privilege of pursuing the fugitive slave. The indictments were framed respectively under the first and fourth sections of the act of 3d March, 1847, (Purdon's Digest, 611 and 612,616 and 618.) Mr. Parsons procured bail to answer, and in the summer of the same entered a nolle prosequi, and so the case ended. It is very evident that Parsons lost his slave through a riot and tumult raised by Abolitionists. and to defend him from another gross outrage, cost the State of Virginia upwards of $2,500.

The principles which governed this arrest, must govern all arrests of fugitives-they are all made in a riotous and tumultous manner, simply because the riot and tumult is invariably raised by those who nullify the Fugitive Slave law, and are opposed to such arrests. Call you that friendly or unfriendly legislation?

WOODEN SOLED BOOTS AND SHOES .- The New ments for it were of the most ample kind, even to York Scientific American has the following in rethe practicing of several new sensation hymns 2.40 | gard to the Wooden Soled Boots and Shoes which | and sold by Messrs. Brooks, Fulton & Co., of that

> "Nothing conduces more to the health and comfort of a human being than to keep the feet dry and warm during the winter months. How many poor human beings are wasting away with pulmonary diseases, who can unerringly date the commencement of their declining health to damp feet. The disease of consumption prevails to some extent in most quarters of the globe, but so fearful are its ravages in this country that it is denominated the great American scourge. We believe that the protection of the feet from the cold and damp is a most important thing to be done to preserve the health, and one of the best means known to us to secure dry, warm feet, is the use of the new and most useful article of wooden-soled boots and shoes patented by W. C. M'Clellan.

"The boots and shoes made on M'Clellan's plan are unlike the French sabot, which is entirely of wood, or the ugly Lancashire clog. The sole is nade of hard wood and so treated as to prevent its absorbing moisture or being likely to crack. The uppers are made of leather and are secured between the thin wooden inside and thick wooden outer soles, by pegs, nails, screws, cement or any other means most suitable for the kind of article manufactured, and, in appearance, are as neat as heavy boots and shoes made entirely of leather. They are chiefly intended for farmers, miners, foundrymen, bleachers, dyers and classes of persons working in damp situations. As wood is a good non-conductor, such boots and shoes are superior to those made entirely of leather for keeping the feet warm, and the soles will endure, of course, much longer, while the cost is not so great, we are informed, as the same quality composed entirely of leather. During the Crimean war numbers of the French soldiers wore sabots in winter, and it was remarked that they suffered less from sickness than their leather-soled comrades.

PROFESSOR ROGERS .- The merits of the Professor's claim on the Commonwealth for services rendered in making a geological survey is controverted by many who participated in public life when the State was first solicited to make an appropriation to that object. The Commonwealth, as usual was bled more freely than was anticipated when the enterprise started. The Professor was paid what was then believed to be a full compensation. The reports of his labors were from time to time laid before the Legislature, and ordered to be printed. The opinion was honestly entertained by many, that inasmuch as the State "footed the bill," the information contained in the reports was public property, and the people, whose servant he was, expected the information he had gathered would be placed within the reach of the reading community. An enterprising house in Philadelphia entered on the noble task of preparing for publication a cheap edition of the reports, but their work was arrested by Professor Rogers, who alleged they were his private property. This is a matter in which the people have an interest worth protecting The Commonwealth, with more grace than the Professor, can present a complaint.

LIGHTING WITH GAS.—Hydrogen gas was used for illuminating in 1733. Clayton's lighting by coal gas was before the public in 1737. Dr. Watson produced and burned coal gas in 1767. Murdoch made an extensive gas apparatus at the Soho Works, in 1798, the works being illuminated at the declaration of peace in 1802. Pall-Mall, London, was lighted with gas made under Winsor's patent in 1804. Philadelphia was first lighted with gas about twenty-five years ago, and the first successful fashionable ready made clothing store for gentlemen and youths was the Brown Stone Clothing Hall of Rockhill & Wilson, Nos. 603 and 605 Chesnut street, above Sixth, Philadelphia.

Lewis Cass is seventy-six years old; he lives in Michigan; Ainsworth, the English novelist, is fifty-four; Dr. Chapin is forty-four; Dickens is forty-six, "slight in figure, healthy and marvelously industrious;" Dumas, who employs a corps of writers to get up novels for him, is fifty-five; Edward Everett is six-four; Edwin Forrest is fifty-two; Horace Greeley is forty-seven; Fitzgreen Hallock, the charmhis nephew, James Parsons, Jr., and several other ing American poet, who is now in New York, is sixty-three. Marco Bozzarris alone would have made him famous. Mazzini, the Italian hero, is forty-nine; Gen. Morris, a "robust, genial and jolly fellow," is fifty-six. He lives at Undercliff, near Cold Spring, on the Hudson. Bayard Taylor is only thirty-four, although he has traveled enough for a man of eighty.

MITCHELL'S ATLAS FOR 1861 .- We direct the attention of our readers to a notice in another column of to-day's Union, of Mitchell's New Atlas, which is now before the public. This work is both the cheapest and best now before the country, and frem Mitchell's acknowledged capacity for producing accurate maps, in which he has been engaged for the last forty years, it is destined to take precedence over all other maps now before the coun-
