THE Republicans are racking their ingenuity to discover excuses for the evacution of Fort Sumpter. The gallant Anderson, who was petted and applauded as a marvellous hero, is suddenly discovered to be a traitor little less infamous than Twiggs. A correspondent of the Tribune says it is suspected in some quarters that Mr. Buchanan sent a secret agent to Fort Sumpter more than eight weeks ago, advising Anderson to send the Government false intelligence concerning his condition and means of subsistence. This very likely story is gravely repeated in justification of the backdown of the Lincoln Administration.

THE Philadelphia Daily News is somewhat exercised over the question. "What chance is "the American element to have under the ad-"ministration of Mr. Lincoln ?" If this inquiry is directed to the chances of the new Administration recognizing the supposed principles of the American party, a very satisfactory answer may be found in the 14th resolution of the Chicago platform. But if, as is more probable. the desire is to determine whether any of the leaders of the defunct American faction (Flanigan, for instance,) are to be appeased by some substantial tokens of affection in the form of lucrative offices, perhaps CABL SCHURZ, or some other eminent friend of the Administration, could return a satisfactory answer.

THE order for the withdrawal of the United States forces from Fort Sumpter, right in itself, is so galling to the Republicans who promised it should be reinforced at all hazards as soon as Lincoln came into power, that they seek to throw the responsibility for its evacuation upon Gen. Scott. "It is," say they, "strictly a military question, and must be de-"cided upon military principles and by mili-"tary authority." Very well. If all the questions at issue between the Government and the seceding States are to be decided by the Administration upon "military principles," every. foot of property belonging to the United States in the South may be abandoned, and even the idea of collecting the revenue or blockading the Southern ports may be given up, and the independence of the Southern Confederacy finally recognized, not upon political, but strictly military principles. Gen. Scott will add to his laurels if he succeeds in covering the retreat of the Administration upon military principles.

isty both sections of the divided Republican party. In point of mere ability, Mr. Wilmot's fitness is unquestionable; but as this ability will be used to promote his extreme, anti-Pennsylvania views, he is an unfit representative of this State. How Can the Revenue be Collected? Mr. Lincoln in his Inaugural expressed the determination to collect the revenue in the seceding States. The question now arises, how is this to be done? We have a new tariff intended to replenish an exhausted Treasury by increased revenue, and at the same time to encourage the manufacturing interests of the States. The Republicans tell us that the enactment of this tariff is a fulfillment of their pledges in favor of protection to the iron and coal of Pennsylvania. But it is easy to see that this tariff will be a failure in point of revenue, and in point of protection, if cargoes from abroad can be entered in Southern ports free of duty: Once let articles come into the country by these avenues, and they will soon find their way northward, to the exclusion of imports coming through ports under control of the Government. It is therefore a vital question to the very existence of the Government that either the revenue should be collected in the seceding States or the ports closed to importations from abroad, or the Government of the Confederated States be recognized for the purpose of making a treaty with them. One of these courses must be adopted by the Administration, and that speedily. We will not stop now to inquire which course would be the most rational and proper, but call the attention of our readers to the almost insuperable difficulties in the way of collecting the revenue from vessels stationed in the harbors of ports in the seceding States, as presented by the N. Y. Evening Post :

The general expectation seems to be that the duties will be collected on board of armed vessels at the different ports of entry in the seceding States. Are our readers aware what a fleet this would require ? There are seven collection districts in the little State of Florida alone; there are four in Alabama. At every port there must be a collector, with his army of appraisers, clerks, examiners, inspectors, weighers, gaugers, measurers, &c.; there must be a naval officer and his staff of entry clerks. The Morrill tariff law, which we have just enacted, will make a larger number of all these necessary than would have been required a month ago. Where twenty men would have then answered the purpose thirty will now be needed. If we collect the revenue in this manner, with a fleet at every port and a corps of custom-house officers on board, it will cost us a great deal more than all we shall get. But can the revenue be thus collected ? The importers arriving at the Southern harbors will know how to address the Custom-house officers. "We have a cargo," they will naturally say, "on which we do not care to pay duties just at present; we must deposit it in the warehouses for the term during which we are permitted to do so by law." What will the officers of the customs do in that case? The Government has no longer any warehouses in the seceding ports. The hold of an armed vessel would neither be a proper nor a sufficiently spacious repository for the goods. The duties in that case cannot be collected; and the collector will be puzzled to know whether to let the ship proceed to her port or to detain her.

We happen to know that there are importing houses at this moment preparing to take advantage of this opening for an unencumbered trade. They are getting ready to convey their cargoes to Charleston or Savannah; the goods will be landed there, and then brought coastwise to New York, where, being importations Providence to build a bridge across the Lackafrom a port within the Union, they will be subject to no duty. The new tariff, with its strange formalities and ingeniously devised delays, forms an additional inducement with them to take this course. AFFAIRS AT THE SOUTH .--- President Davis sent sealed dispatches to Pensacola last week. The Columbus (Ga.) Sun learns from a volunteer, just from there, that the women and children had been removed by the State troops, and that "hot work" was expected soon. It is stated that the Confederate States are organizing a naval force of light draft steamers, to be placed under the command of Commodore Tatnall, late of the U.S. Navy.

PARIS, Feb. 28.-The Moniteur says the Bishop of Poictiers has published a mondemente containing allusions offensive to the government of the Emperor and likely to arbitrarily disturb the consciences of citizens. The matter has been submitted to the Council of State, which is charged to decide in all cases of abuse. The financial crisis in Constantinople is increasing, and numerous failures are imminent.

The project of the address to the Emperor was adopted in the Corps Legislatif to-day. It approves of the course of the Emperor and relies on his wisdom in the future, being convinced that he will always be guided by the same principles and the same feelings without allowing himself to be disturbed by the injustice which he has experienced.

WASHINGTON, March 14. A Cabinet meeting is being held to-day .-The subject under discussion is said to be the collection of revenue in the seceded States.

It is understood that the revenue must be collected by a resident collector, at the different ports, and that the act for its collection makes no provision for taking of duties outside the harbor by ships of war. In view of this ugly aspect of affairs, it is believed that an extra session of Congress will be of necessity called. Senator Douglas will, in a few days, make a careful speech on the condition of the country. It is said to be the policy of the Administration to declare fourteen seats in the Senate vacant, in order to help the rapid re-action in the South, and give the Union men in seceded States a chance to elect new Senators.

Those high in the confidence of the Administration continue to declare that its policy is steadily in favor of peace.

The same paper believes the reinforcement of From withiam Culter Dryans and washington irring. The new and authentic etymologies, the conciseness and completeness of the definitions, the nicety with which the different shades of meaning in synonymes are distinguished, and the conscientious accuracy of the work in all its departments, give it, in my judgment, the bichest claims to public furger Fort Sumpter was an impossibility, and estimates that there are 3,000 highly disciplined troops in the various fortifications Official information will soon be received that the confederate loan of fifteen millions has been taken at a premium probably of five per centum.

A TRAGEDY IN LOUISIANA .- On Thursday night week, the house of Squire James, in Livingston Parish, was broken into by two men, supposed to be a man named Washington and his step-son, in search of plunder. On knocking at the door, Mr. James went to open it, and was immediately fired upon, the ball taking effect in the head and knocking Mr. James down, but not wounding him so seriously as to prevent his getting out of the house and con-cealing himself. Mrs. James rushed to the door on hearing the shot, and attempted to keep the murderers out, but she received a ball in the left side of the chest, which passed through her body, and left her senseless on the Election of David Wilmot.

The; Republican party in the Legislature, having the power, yesterday assumed the responsibility of electing DAVID WILMOT, to fill the vacancy, in the United States Senate created by the resignation of General Cameron. The motive which induced this selection could have been no other than to appease the radical element of the Republican party; for the most ardent admirer of Mr. Wilmot's ability, who does not reside on the New York border, will scarcely contend that he is a proper representative of Pennsylvania interests and Pennsylvania feeling. His whole political course has shown that he has little sympathy with the State in which he resides. When a Democratic member of Congress, he was the only representative from Pennsylvania who voted for the repeal of the Tariff.of 1842, although he was fully aware that the interests and opinions of the State were outraged by this course. But he voted in harmony with the radical Democrats of New York. In the Presidential contest of 1848, when the Democratic party of New York was equally divided between General Cass and Mr. Van Buren, and when the party in Pennsylvania was nearly unanimous for Cass, Mr. Wilmot's feelings became enlisted in the New York quarrel. and caused him to take sides with Van Buren; again showing how little he cared for the opinion of Pennsylvania, and how much for that of New York. More recently, as a member of the Peace Congress, his voice and vote were uniformly used to prevent an adjustment satisfactory to the border States; although he could not have been ignorant of the fact that the great mass of Pennsylvanians were looking eagerly and anxiously for the adoption of measures which would give peace to the country. Mr. WILMOT resides in Pennsylvania, but knows little and cares less about the character and interests of this Commonwealth. His acts have uniformly shown that his allegiance was due in other quarters, and for this reason he is not a proper person to speak for Pennsylvania in the Senate of the United States.

And Pennsylvania has uniformly shown her appreciation of him. When a candidate for Governor, in 1857, he canvassed the State industriously, spoke ably, and was defeated overwhelmingly. A large division of the Opposition party would not touch him. Again, at the beginning of the present session of the Legislature, he presented himself as a candidate for the full term in the Senate, backed by the border counties, with their huge Republican majorities, and-if common rumor can be credited-by a large amount of New York capital. But without avail. He was rejected even by his own party, founded upon his own cherished ideas. because he was regarded as too radical. Insatiable in his ambition, he has at last succeeded in obtaining the remnant of General. Cameron's term in the Senate to compensate him for previous repulses and mortificationsa morsel graciously thrown to him by order of

The convention has also recommended Major Myers, late of the United States army, as quartermaster of the army of the Confederate States. The convention has likewise taken initiatory steps to put the whole coast of the State in a proper condition of defense.

HORRIBLE OCCURRENCE.-We learn from the Salem (Ill.) Advocate that a young lady from Vandalia arrived at Potoka in search of a school on last Friday night. Desiring to go to the house of a Mrs. Galtney, about two miles off. she obtained the company of a woman named Mary Watley, as a guide. They started about 10 o'clock at night, and, getting lost, wandered about until morning, when they came upon a fire, and stopped to warm. Here the young lady's clothes caught fire, and the woman, instead of trying to put out the fire, left the young girl and started for a farm house about half a mile distant. When she returned the young lady was in a dying condition, having every particle of clothing burned from her body, and her flesh a blackened crisp. From the fact of the woman Watley leaving when the young lady's clothes caught fire, and the further fact of her having all the girl's money in her possession, it is suspected that there was foul play. The young lady was from the East, and had been teaching scool at Nashville. Her name is not given.

THE MISSING STEAMSHIP .--- The missing steamer Australasian is a propellor of about seven hundred horse power. She has two engines with ninety inch cylinders and three feet six inch stroke. Her hull is iron and was built in Glasgow in 1857. She is 1,760 tons register, with three decks. Her dimensions are as follows: Length 320 feet, beam 42 feet, depth of hold 31 feet. She is a medium elipper build, schooner rigged. Her provisions against fire, stranding or leakage are good, she having one independent donkey engine, good pumps, and a large number of boats. She has four water-tight compartments. About fifty passengers embarked on her at Liverpool for New York.

SANDY HOOK, March 14.

The steamship Etna has arrived with Liverpool dates to the 27th ult. The steamships Anglo Saxon and Vigo had arrived out. The Kedar arrived out on the 26th. The Etna brings £260,000 in specie, and the steamship Arabia, to sail on the 2d inst., it was expected would have £200,000 to £300,000. The Etna furnishes no intelligence with regard to the missing steamer Australasian. The Bank of England had made no alteration in the rate of discount.

ENGLAND .- The slave trade was debated in the House of Commons upon resolutions offered by Mr. Care, declaring that the efforts to suppress it had hitherto been ineffectual, and pointing to the introduction of free labor into the West Indies as the most efficient means.

Lords Russell and Palmerston strongly deprecated the policy of America in prevent ing the right of search, and permitting the prostitution of her flag. Mr. Buxton feared that the Southern Confederation would revive the slave trade, and hoped that the government would never recognize them without express stipulations against it. The resolutions were finally withdrawn.

Lord Stratford De Radcliffe moved for the correspondence relative to Syria. The Government objected pending the sittings of the Paris Conference.

Capt. Pyke, of the ship Gen. Parkhill, was killed by his crew shortly after leaving Liverpool for Charleston. The mate was also severely injured. The ship returned to port and the crew were arrested. The paper furnish no details.

The weavers of Blackburn have partially resumed work.

FRANCE.-M. Thouvenal officially assured the American Minister at Paris that no delegates from any seceding State had been received by the Emperor or himself. The Committee of the Senate adopted the floor. The villains then entered the house, and after bruising her head horribly with a hatchet, left her for dead. A little negro boy was lying on the floor in a blanket, and being awakened and alarmed by the noise, began screaming for help, when he was assaulted with the hatchet and was most horribly mangled, having his head nearly split open. Having accomplished this, the murderers took Mr. James' trunks, carried them about a hundred yards from the house, and broke them open. They were deceived in their wishes, as the trunks contained only the family clothing.

DEATH OF A SOLDIER OF THE WAR OF 1812 .--John Lescure died at Trenton, N. J., on the 10th instant, in the 68th year of his age. The deceased was sergeant major of the 14th regiment U. S. infantry, at the bombardment of Ft. McHenry, and gave notice of the approach of the enemy's barges by ordering the sentries to discharge their muskets. He served on board the frigate United States, Commodore Decatur, in the action with and capture of the British frigate Macedonian, and was wounded in the right leg by a splinter, from the effects of which he never entirely recovered.

HON. JOHN J. CRITTENDEN.-This gentleman has accepted the invitation of the City Council of Boston to visit that city, and he is expected there the early part of next week .-- Aldermen Wilson, Amory and Spinney, with such as the council may join, have been appointed a committee to make all the necessary arrangements for the reception of Mr. Crittenden, who will be accompanied by Mrs. Crittenden.

The State election in Connecticut will take place April 1st, and that in Rhode Island April 3d.

From Herbert Co'eridge, Secretary of the London Philo-logical Society, England. Your magnificent present reached me here at length safely yesterday, and I lose no time in returning you my cordial thanks for your kindness. The London agents of your publishers, in their letter to me, (which I got before the book itself,) described it as a new edition of Webster, and I hardly felt inclined to be very grateful, as my opinion of Dr. Webster is but small; and my sur-prise and pleasure were consequently all the greater when I found out what I had really become possessed of. As a work of practical utility, your book appears to me to be NEARLY PERFECT, and I expect to derive immense assistance from it. immense assistance from it.

PICTORIAL DICTIONARY!

That it is the best Dictionary in every department of Lexicography, is the opinion of our most competent scholars.

From George P. Marsh, L. L. D., Author of Lectures on the English Language. I have examined the new edition of Dr. Worcester's English Dictionary with care, and have formed a very favorable opinion of its merits. The principal points to be aimed at in a hand-diction-ary are

Ary are— Accuracy in orthography and orthœpy—the written and spoken forms of words; Precision and distinctness in definition; Fullness in vocabulary, and truth in historical etymo-
