HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES. TUESDAY, March 3, 1863. The House was called to order by Speaker CESSNA at 10 1/2 A. M.

A communication was received from the State Treasurer showing the balance due the State from various public officers.

OPENING RETURNS. The Speaker and Members of the Senate being introduced, the returns for Auditor General and Surveyor General were opened and the certificates signed.

MR. GRABER said that by examining this bill he found that this company not only ask for a railroad charter, but seek to grasp the privileges which four other companies ought to have—in other words, to monopolize the privileges of four distinct corporations. They asked to be empowered—

- 1. To build breakers. 2. To build wharves. 3. To raise coal. 4. To hold 5,000 acres of land, none of which privileges belong legitimately to a railroad company.

It passed second reading and was laid over. Joint resolution relative to the dam of the Susquehanna coal company was discussed and passed.

MR. CONNELL read in place a bill to incorporate the Mantua hook and ladder company of Philadelphia.

An act to establish a connection between the road of the Pennsylvania coal company at Hawley, and the New York and Erie railroad in Susquehanna county, was discussed to the hour of adjournment and passed.

For the Patriot and Union. TERRIBLY FRIGHTENED.

The Abolition party, or that wing of it, that only a few years ago were so singularly frightened at the pretended encroachments of foreign and Catholic influence in this country, are in a terrible state of mental excitement in regard to a certain secret organization reported to be in existence, and said to be designed to kidnap the President of the United States and tear down things generally about Washington, Harrisburg, &c., &c.

It is quite natural that this class of bigoted fanatics should, in their imaginations, see strange things in the absence of daylight. No one is better prepared to distrust the motive of another than the person who is least to be trusted himself.

Among the numerous rumors concerning this all-powerful organization are, that General McClellan is to proceed to the Capital of the United States, seize the archives of the nation and compel the President and the Heads of Departments to flee back to Abolitiondom (say Massachusetts) for their lives; and that the rebel sympathizers at the North (Democrats, of course), have made all necessary arrangements to take Stonewall Jackson by the hand and lead him and his army across the Potomac into Maryland, whilst numerous armies of sympathizing proclivities are to point out the way to the residence of our Union-loving Abolitionists, in order that they may be murdered, their houses plundered, their property confiscated, &c.

If all this is to be done in the short time specified by the frightened ones, (before April), God help the big-mouthed warriors and stay-at-home patriots, for death by fright or violence is inevitable.

The fight of the loyal from their homes, the cries of the negro philanthropist for mercy at the hands of old Stonewall, and the general distress usually accompanying the hurried marches of martyrs before the vengeance of an enraged enemy, looms up before the imagination in about the same sublime characteristics that marked the forced flight of a certain set of former patriots through the Capitol windows at Harrisburg during the memorable Buckshot war.

It is not our desire to see these poor, trembling creatures consigned to the republic of dust under such distressing circumstances, and therefore advise them, as the only means of escape, to immediately repent of their many sins of omission and commission against the eternal principles of Democracy, and take up for the side of the Constitution and Union, as interpreted by the Jeffersonian school of statesmen, and we will furnish them a guarantee against personal violence and aggression of every kind at the hands of McClellan's revolutionary army, Stonewall Jackson's rebel hordes. Join our order of the "Golden Circle" (for a Golden Circle it is,) not the one that never had an existence, except in the imagination of Abolition conspirators, but the old Golden Circle conceived by a personage no less great than the immortal Jefferson, and nurtured by his true Democratic followers; that circle from which every man in America has received all the blessings of civil and religious liberty for nearly three-quarters of a century—in other words, the old Democratic, Constitutional Union party, which at once embodies within itself, all the securities against confusion, dissolution, anarchy, disgrace, bloodshed, martyrdom, fright and final ruin. Join us, we say, and peace and perfect security will come to your door; but reject this good advice—go on in evil doings; go on as the blind leading the blind, harden your hearts, stiffen your necks, and close your eyes to reason, common sense and experience; go on in the support of negro proclamations and other unconstitutional acts of the present State and national administrations, and the "Golden Circle" of which we speak cannot promise to be responsible for what misfortunes may befall you. We repeat—join the great Democratic party, that repudiated the principles of Abolitionism at the last election; that elected Horatio Seymour Governor of New York; that has always defended the stars and stripes against the aggressions of traitors within, and foes without; that has made us the admiration of the world, and shaken despots on their thrones; that has defended the civil and religious liberties of the people, at all times and on all occasions; do this, and you will be as secure as Pharaoh in the hands of the Egyptian embalmers.

MR. CONNELL called up the bill to incorporate the Philadelphia military college.

MR. GRABER, who considered it wrong to give to any mining company the privilege of owning fifteen thousand acres of land. Such unusual and liberal terms would allow the company to control the markets and injure the rights of the laboring man. The bill did not pass.

An act to grant the Fourth Presbyterian congregation power to sell certain ground in the city of Philadelphia.

The bill to incorporate the Millersburg and Rausch Gap railroad company came up in order among the objected bills on the Private Calendar.

LETTER FROM PHILADELPHIA.

Correspondence of the Patriot and Union. PHILADELPHIA, March 2, 1863.

However it may have been in other parts, in this latitude March came in neither as a lion nor as a lamb, but much like a pretty girl in a pet. In the morning, heavy, threatening clouds covered the sky, and we had a "right amount" fall of rain. But in the afternoon the sun came boldly out; all nature smiled through her tears, and made everybody as cheerful as herself.

Before the beginning of another week that notorious body of politicians, who have been doing so much mischief for the past three months at the foot of Pennsylvania avenue, in the Capital city, will have dispersed and gone home, much to the relief of the loyal people of the land. As for the country, they have done it more harm than good. Somebody has said that Jeff. Davis was running two Congresses—one in Richmond and one in Washington—and there is actually more truth than poetry in the sarcasm; for these pseudo Republicans have done more to aid the rebellion than all its former sympathizers put together.

In the beginning of this struggle, when the counsels of conservatism were listened to, our arms and cause made important progress, and the authority of the government was in a fair way of being restored in the rebellious districts. But it would not do to have the Union as it was, and so, in obedience to the behests of impatient Abolitionism, the administration drifts away from the old landmarks, and practices the executive and legislative branches of the government to the purposes of anti-slavery fanaticism. The consequence is before the world. But the great reaction is setting in, the people are awake, and if no new obstacles are interposed by the madmen, Lincoln and Davis, the Union will be restored. The press of the office-holding partisans, North and South, are continually indulging in misrepresentations concerning the people, when, in fact, the ill-tempered views they express are only the reflex of their own evil hearts. The masses are for peace. Disunionists everywhere cry for "more blood!" This is the high carnival of ultraism, but it is too violent to last long, and in the midst of their devilish gleam, the authors of our distresses will be hurled from power, and suffer a deserved ignominious death at the hands of an outraged people.

Washington's birthday was celebrated with more than usual spirit by our citizens. The new post office building, on Chestnut street, was inaugurated, and is now doing business. The so-called Union "League," alias "rebuffers," had a meeting at their club house, where speeches were made by a few would-be aristocratic snobs, egotistical dandies, et id omne genus. But the greatest attraction was at Concert Hall, in the evening, where an oration was delivered (under the auspices of the Central Democratic club) by Richard O'Gorman, Esq., of New York. The address—able, eloquent and patriotic—was listened to by one of the largest audiences of ladies and gentlemen ever assembled in this city.

There is not much going on here at present, and robberies, midnight affairs, &c., "pale their ineffectual fires" before the grand subject of the war. The theatres and different places of amusement are taking in the "greenbacks" at a tremendous rate. The publication of the new morning paper, as your readers are doubtless aware, is unavoidably postponed until the latter part of the month.

Truly yours, Commodore.

[Communicated.] MESSRS. EDITORS—I would, through the medium of your excellent sheet, inform your many readers of some of the doings of the teachers of Lower Swatara township, Berks county, for the winter term, which will close about the 1st of April next. To let them know that, while the war is progressing in some of the States, and the children of the so-called Confederacy are deprived of instruction, we in the Northern States are not in the least affected by it in regard to education, which should be a great consolation to every patriotic man and woman in the North. Therefore I have concluded to give you the proceedings of our institutes in this township (Lower Swatara.)

The teachers organized an institute at the opening of the schools last fall, and elected M. K. Allemen president. The institute has been in session every alternate Saturday since.

The members were punctual in their attendance during the session. This day, the 25th of February, the institute met in school house No. 7, Highspire. The following members answered to their names: L. F. Steinhelm, M. R. Allemen, W. M. Bleamy, H. G. Moring, M. E. Stoner and C. H. Fry. Messrs. E. C. Irwin and S. Allemen were admitted as advisory members of the institute. C. H. Fry then explained his method of teaching mental arithmetic in a very satisfactory manner. Mr. Moring followed in the same branch. Mr. Irwin was then called on, and gave a very satisfactory explanation in some points of mental arithmetic.

On motion of Mr. Fry, the thanks of the members were tendered to Mr. Irwin for participating in the exercises. Mr. Bleamy then entered on geography, drawing the State of Wisconsin, and giving an explanation of the boundaries, rivers, Capital, towns, &c. Different other countries were drawn and explained by the members. On motion, Mr. Stoner was to solve a few problems in arithmetic, one of which was: "How much longer will it take $10 to make $20, at 5 per cent. than at 6 per cent.?" The problem was explained by Mr. Stoner. Mr. Fry then gave the following problem: "Bought cloth at $5 per yard. What must be the asking price, in order to fall 10 per cent. on it, and still make 10 per cent. on the purchase." The above question caused a great discussion, in which the members all participated. Grammar was conducted by Mr. Steinhelm and Mr. Allemen in a very satisfactory manner to all the members. On motion there was a subject taken up on education, which was discussed by Mr. Fry and Mr. Moring. On motion adjourned.

On motion adjourned. D. S. P. ABBOTTSTOWN, Adams county, Pa. Gen. McClellan, in a letter to the City Councils of Baltimore, declines a public reception.
