ADJOURNMENT OF THE SUPREME COURT .--- This body, which has been in session for two or three weeks past, adjourned finally yesterday noon. A large number of cases were disposed of during its session. ,

ORDERED TO NEW MEXICO.-Captain W.S. Bell, Subsistence Commissary, has been relieved from duty at this post, and ordered to Santa Fe, New Mexico. The duties of commissary will be assumed by Captain Smith.

A NEW COUNTERFEIT .- Five dollar bills, imitations of the Bank of Northumberland, in this State, are in circulation. Large numbers of them are being shoved in the western part of the State. Scrutinize closely all 5's on this bank.

ANOTHER REGIMENT ARRIVED .- The One Hundred and Thirty-seventh regiment, nine months' men, arrived at Camp Curtin yesterday afternoon. The companies composing this regiment are from the counties of Schuylkill, Blair, Clinton, Butler and Crawford. They number 720 men, under the command of Col. Kidoo.

A MATCH FOR THE "OMISH."-At the depot on Tuesday afternoon was a delegation of one hundred and fifty men and women, belonging to a religious sect which they called the "River Brethren," on their way to attend their annual love-feast in Blair county. Their dress and manners were as quaint and peculiar as those of the "Omish," and in these respects they are a full offset to that strange sect. Cf their peculiar religious tenets we have no accurate knowledge.

POSTPONED FOR ONE WEEK .--- By reference to advertisement in another column, it will be seen that the pic-nic of the "Eintracht" at Hashnlen's grove, announced for last Monday, has been postponed for one week, and will take place on next Monday, June 1st. The change was judiciously | reached the Pearl river, (which runs south through made, as the weather on last Monday was cool and lowering, and might have acted as a damper on the festivities. We trust the weather will be more | New Orleans. The other gentleman, Mr. Charles auspicious on the day fixed upon, and anticipate a happy time for all concerned.

PRESENTATION TO COL. JENNINGS .- The officers | water from the pipes-a process actually necessary at his residence in this city on Tuesday night, and presented him with an elegant service of silver. | of the people ? The ceremonies were very pleasant and agreeable. The presentation speech was made by Lieut. Col. Alleman, as follows:

Colonel Jennings-Upon the eve of our return to civil life, the officers of the 127th regiment desire to give you a further, if not more satisfactory proof of the respect which they entertain towards you as a gentleman, and their regard for you as a emmanding officer, by presenting you with a service of plate.

It was customary among nations of antiquity to hold inquests upon the characters of public men and their verdict would stand as lasting monuments of fame, or infamy, and bistory would eulogize their greatness, their bravery and their achieve ments, or would condemn their sins, their cowardice and their knavery. The officers of your command, sir, have for the last nine months set in solemn judgment upon your conduct. They have watched your movements closely, and scrutinized your career narrowly, and have called upon you this evening to render a just, a unanimous and impartial verdict. Col. William W. Jennings has proved himself an affable gentleman, a pure pa-triot, a brave soldier and an efficient officer. What a verdict ! from what a jury !

A man may be loved by his family and yet be a bad man, but that officer whom his associates and his command love more as they know him better, must have qualities of head and heart which entitle him to that love.

Accept then, sir, this free-will offering as a testimonial of genuine good will, from pure friendship and lasting esteem, from the officers of your regiment. May you ever look upon it with the plea-santest recollections of by-gone happy associations. The infant charge which Providence has so kindly bequeathed you, also comes in for a share of our friendship. Accept from the officers of your command this cup as a token of regard for little Frederick. As his age matures he will look upon it kindly and be proud to say, My father was Colonel of the gallant 127th regiment.

Whereupon Colonel Jennings replied :

GENTLEMEN :-- Nothing could be more gratifying to me than this evidence of your esteem. although you have already given me repeated assurances of your friendship. You all know that I am seldom given to praise, and never to flattery, but justice of me a free and unequivocal acknowemands ledgement for your bravery and uniformly faith-ful conduct. You can return to your homes with the proud consciousness of daty gallantly and faithfully performed, and with my kindest wishes or your future welfare.

I am proud to accept this tribute of your esteem. and will ever cherish it as a fend memento of gratitude and gallantry. I will teach my son to love the name of the 127th regiment, and will be proud to recount to him your many deeds of valor and of patriotism.

The service consists of four pieces-a pitcher, salver, and two goblets-gotten up by Mr. George M'Calls, Market street, and does him credit as a master workman. On the pitcher are engraved the words; "Presented to Col. Jennings, 127th Regiment P. V., by the Officers of his Command, as a Token of Esteem." The small cup, which was presented to the Colonel's son, Master Frederick Jennings, was beautifully wrought.

After enjoying the hospitalities of their Colonel, the officers retired. The recipient of this compliment has every reason to be proud of the honor done him.

Southern Unionists in Exile.-At the depot yesterday merning we met with a party of nine and suffered so severely from it, that not a particle of persons-four men, three women and two children -who had arrived on the two o'clock train from New York. They told us their story, and a sad one it is, appealing to the heart of every man who loves his country or can sympathize with the misfortunes of a brother.

Three of the party were Tenesseeans, and had been conscripted into the rebel army in that State. They were forced to fight the flag they loved so well in the campaigns in that State and in Mississippi. When in the latter State, they deserted from the army lately operating in defence of Vicksburg, the interior of the State,) and descended it to the Gulf in a skiff. Thence they made their way to B. Stebbiss, from whom we derive our information, is a Pennsylvanian by birth. He removed South four years ago, settling in Louisiana, in Concordia Parish, opposite Natchez, where he followed the occupation of a school teacher up to the time when the rebellion broke out. He was then drafted into the rebel army, in which he served at St. Josephs and Lake Borgne, in Louisiana. He also deserted and came to New Orleans in company with his brother, a slight, half-grown lad of fifteen, who had actually been conscripted and served three months in the rebel army. Here his wife, a Tennessee lady, joined him, and here he found the rest of the men and women who formed the party. Transportation was given them by the government on the sailing vessel Wizard King, and they set their faces Northward. After a long and trying voyage they arrived at New York. They were in sad plight, without money or acquaintance, most of them in ill health from the privations undergone, and all oppressed by that lonely feeling

The recent battles around Vicksburg call loudly upon our whole population for prompt support to the United States Christian Commission in their increasing fields of usefulness. Let us testify our interest in the heroic soldiers of the West by furnishing whatever may alleviate suffering endured in our behalf or restore a wounded soldier to the service of the government.

The concert of Friday evening next affords an opportunity to recognize the claims of duty and sympathy.

OMISSION .- In cur yesterday morning's account of the disturbances at the Short street anti-negro demonstration, we inadvertently omitted any mention of the fact that His Honor the Mayer was on the ground toward the close of the emoute, and, by his appeals to the wrong-doers, did much to allay the tumult and restore order. We mention the oversight, lest it might be construed into a reflection upon a chief-magistrate who has ever done his duty and proved a faithful conservator of the public peace. The course which he pursued in this instance was probably the best that could have been adopted under the circumstances.

ON THE RANPAGE .- They had breezy times all along Market street on Tuesday evening. The boys all seemed to be on the rampage. There was crimination and recrimination between members of different regiments, leading to fistic encounters, wool-hauling and eye blacking. One fellow was "catawampously chawed up" on the corner of Third and Market; another, an officer, was knocked cut of time by some of his men at Market and Fourth; another, belonging to a party making a sortie through the precincts of "Bull Run," stoning windows and "raising Cain," was arrested by officers Campbell and Desters and lodged in jail.

We could fill a column with just such incidents, but the game aint worth the candle, and we haven't the room to spare. There was a decided change for the better last night. The streets were comparatively quiet. Too much praise can not be awarded the Mayor for his untiring efforts, which have brought order out of a formidable confusion.

MAGNIFICENT COMPLIMENT .--- We had the plcasure yesterday of inspecting an elegant and costly sword, lately presented to Captain (now Major) Charles C. Davis, commanding company I, Seventh Pennsylvania cavalry, by the members of his company, now in service in the Department of the Cumberland. The blade is of truest steel, with silver hilt and gilt guard, and a silver plated scabbard tastefully wrought. Surmounting the latter is a gold plate, on which is engraved the inscrip. tion : "Presented to Captain Charles C. Davis, commanding Co. I, 7th Pennsylvania cavalry, by the members of his company, for brave and gallant conduct on the battle-field, and noble and generous behavior towards his company. April 1st, 1863." The sash-knot is of heavy gold braid, finely wrought. The entire cost of the present is $150. It was gotten up by Horstman & Sons, a celebrated military manufacturing firm of Philadelphia, and is an excellent specimen of their perfection in this species of handicraft. Major Davis and his friends may feel justly proud of a testimonial so flattering from those whom he commands. He has seen stormy times since he entered the service, and has on all occasions proved a thorough soldier and a brave man. He belongs to a family of patriots, being one of six brothers who have served and defended the, holy cause of their country on charge. Let him have the privilege. Everybody the tented field.

land of home and kindred. Mr. Stebbins determined to seek his friends and relatives in this State, who were living at Reynoldsville, in Jefferson county, when he last heard from them. Free transportation was kindly furnished by the various railroad lines over which they passed, and they arrived here safely yesterday. The Pennsylvania road passed them to Tyrone, from which place they will strike off for Clearfield and Jefferson.

The party were amazed to find the North in the enjoyment of peace and plenty. It was altogether a new thing to them, as they had been suffering all the horrors and privations of war in its worst forms. We evidently do not know what war is .--This is but one of a thousand similar cases of suffering and exile produced by this rebellion-a rebellion wicked and atrocious enough to damn its authors and instigators through all eternity.

THE CIRCUS.-To-day will form an epoch in the lives of many juveniles-an epoch that will stand ont strong and clear in after life-one of those mile-stones that mark the great events which have befallen us in our march through the world. Men, too, will cherish the memories of this day in secret, provided they don't get drunk and obfuscate their intellects; for men are but "boys of a larger growth," and we are all-boys, men, and woman folks-homogeneous in our tastes, and pretty generally "tarred with the same stick."

It is not necessary to say that we allude to the circus. It is one of the oldest institutions on record. It probably extends back beyond Jehn. who did some fearless riding among the Canaanites. Ancient Rome had her Circus Maximus, built by Tarquinius Priscus. One J. Casar also embarked in the business in those days. He built a circus on the Palatine hill 2,187 feet in diameter, and a mile in circumference. It seated 150,000 persons comfortably, with reserved seats for newspaper reporters and dead-heads. It must have been a paying concern. The name of its enterprising proprietor will live in history. Julius' mantle seems to have fallen upon Gardner & Hemming, who exhibit in town to-day. It would be eminently proper for us all, out of respect to Julius, to go round there and laugh an hour or two to-day.

Come to THE SCRATCH 1-We understand that the only difficulty in the way of getting out the sprinkler is the neglect or refusal of the Councils, thus far, to grant the free use of the fire plugs to the person who proposes to take the machine in charge. Let him have the privilege. Everybody is agreed. It would only draw off the stagnant
