AGRICULTURE.

Timely Hints .- When the fruit of your Strawberry beds is swelling, they should be plentifully watered in the absence of rain. It has a marked effect upon the perfectness and size of the berry. Rub off all the sprouts upon the stocks which you have set with grafts this spring. It will help to push along the growth of the scion ... Not unfrequently grafts, after they have started, die for want of sap to sustain them from the parent stem.

The trees transplanted this spring should now be mulched. For this purpose grass is as good as anything. Don't put around the tree too much at a time and repeat the mulch when it gets dry and thin. Removing the mulch once or twice during the summer and stir up the ground well; then replace it. It will save many a tree, if the season should be hot and dry, which we think it will be.

Your Raspherry and Blackberry beds should also be well mulched. Any quantity of dry stuff about a place, especially leaves, is excelient. An application of the contents of a hot-bed is very beneficial. A few radish seed planted around your cantesome hills will protect the vines against the striped bug. This dangerous enemy of the melon prefers the radish to the melon leaves; and thus, while feeding on the radish, the other gets the start of it and pushes on out of reach of danger, as the leaf of the melon is attacked only when very young and tender.

When your flower plants get from an inch and a balf to two inches high, they can be thinned out and transplanted. It should be done after a rain, or the ground from which they are taken and whither they are put should be throughly moistened.

Radishes always do better when planted in new ground, or at least ground where they have not heretofore been. Old gardens are the worst places in the world for radishes. You will rarely obtain any sound ones.

Tomatoes, Egg and Cabbage plants, after being set out, generally become somewhat wilted in their leaves, and lose some of them from the effects of the sun, before they become established. This can be prevented by setting over the plant, say from 8 or 9 to 4 or 5 o'clock in the day, boxes in the shape of cones about fourte-n inches in height, open at the top.— They also protect the plants against frost. By the use of these boxes a week is gained in time, and sometimes the plants saved from severe or fatal injury. The boxes will last twelve or fifteen years. We have had a set fully that length of time. If you find any of your evergreens to become lighter in color than is natural for them; or rather do you wish the deepest green attainsble, give them a thorough dressing of good barnyard manure, extending as far out as the extremity of the branches, and you will accomplish the wish.

If shrubbery or fruit trees transplanted this season look sickly or backward in growing, prune them sharply. It is the only way to save them, their secting out and other things being duly attended to.

All Raspberry and Blackberry canes set out this spring, should de cut down to within six inches of the ground, if not already done. It will insure their growth and they will come into ane bearing order next year; whereas, should the canes be allowed to remain only partially proned, as other nearing wood, there may be a small crop of poor fruit, and only about half a srop next year. Some people are so cager to get truit at once from their canes that they totally neglect this advice. Those who have not set out "cuttings" of grapes, shrubbery,&c , can now lay the branches down, any two inches under ground, letting the end of the branch appear. Sometimes it will require a forked stick to hold them in their places. A grapevine can be laid down its whole length, and if carefully done will throw out a sprout from each joint. We raised six extremely fine Maxatawny vines by this process, last year.

CHOKED CATTLE .- A writer in the Maine Farmer, residing in Iowa, gives his method of relieving choked cattle, as well as a preventive against cattle getting choked. It is as fol-

"Take a rind of pork about three inches square, and tie it firmly over the end of a smooth straight stick, with the flesh side out. This forms a kind of swab that may be forced down the animal's throat without injury. At least it has always proved so with me.

"But a preventive is better than a cure.-Cattle may be prevented from being choked when fed on potatoes, apples or anything of the kind, by simply tying their heads down to the stanchion so they cannot raise it upon a level with their body. This pevents anything from accidentally slipping down their throat, which is the cause of their getting choked; not by a tempting to swallow that which is too large. Cattle when treated as above descibed, will ear just as well, and without the least danger of getting cheked. I have tried it several years, and have never known it to fail .-It is worth trying "
