THE LATEST NEWS.

The rebels left Chambersburg, Wednesday about I o'clock. They burned a railroad bridge at Scotland and water station at Chambersburg. They plundered the stores and fired one frame ware-house near the depot, which was extinguished without much damage. They retreated in the direction of Hagerstown.

terday there were many exciting rumors as to the re-appearance of the enemy; but the most authentic intelligence is that about noon a few hundred came into Greencastle and divided, one portion going towards Waynesburg and the other towards Mercersburg, both supposed to be on a horse-catching raid.

The enemy is supposed to be in force in the region of Hagerstown and Williamsport.

At agent yesterday heavy cannonading was heard at Greencastle in the direction of Harper's Ferry. It is supposed that Gen. Tyler, in command of Maryland Heights, has been attacked, or that Hooker is engaged with the enemy in that vicinity.

The fortifications are progressing opposite Marrisburg, and from the rapidly accumulating troops here it would take a large force to capture the city.

Gen. Milroy was in town last evening, and some 1,700 of his troops, who were reported captured, have made their appearance at Bedford, and the season of the season of EIGHT O'CLOCK P. M. YESTERDAY. At noon to-day the rebels were said to be returning to Chambersburg. The telegraphic operator procured his information from a scout, who advised him to leave at once. The Democratic State Convention. The Democratic State Convention assembled a. m.—in the hall of the House of Tepresentatives, and, as the proceedings given in our issue of yestermy The will be gratest part. Note that destination at Philadelphia and sent to Wash-standing the excitement which existed on acting the this will help to defend the count of the threatened invasion of our state. every delegate was present. Large numbers of people from almost every part of the State were in attendance, showing conclusively that the Democratic masses felt a deep interest in the deliberations of the Convention. The final fesult—the nomination of Geo. W. Woodward for Governor, and Walter H. Lowrie for Supreme Judge-was greeted with the most rapturous applause, which, we doubt not, will be echoed by every honest heart in Pennsylvania. Among the thousands assembled there was evident a pervading feeling of rest for the present and security for the future, such as we have never before witnessed; with this was mingled a sense of respect and gratitude towards the Convention, who, they felt, had | York and Brooklyn, and the 65th, 67th. 68th nobly done their whole duty.

After the nomination, Messrs. Witte and Clymer, the gentlemen most prominent before the Convention, (until the concluding ballot,) addressed the assembly in the most high toned and patriotic strain, giving in their adherence to the choice of the Convention, and pledging themselves to use every effort in their power to secure for him an overwhelming majority in October next.

The nomination of Judge Woodward is of peculiar significance at this time. For many years past there has been a settled apathy among the people in reference to public affairs. They had enjoyed so long a period of peace and prosperity that they did not appreciate the danger of its being disturbed. They had forgotten the sublime maxim that "eternal vigilance is the price of liberty." They had permitted expert knaves, wily demagogues, political tricksters, and selfish, scheming politicians to usurp all the places of power and trust in State and National Administrations. The result was, that venality and corruption from every department stalked boldly forth at noon-day, and went unwhipt of justice. This decay of public morals was followed by a decay of patriotism, until the philosopher, who viewed us with a critic's eye, began to fear that we were no longer capable of self-government, and that our republican institutions were a failure. From this sleep of folly we are awakened by the clanking of the chains which an attempted central despetism is trying to rivet upon us. Looking around for some means of escape in this sesson of peril, we find it nowhere except in a return to public virtue and a re-kindling of the fires of patriotism, which lighted our fathers through the dark days of the revolution, and culminated in securing our liberties under the best government ever devised by man. In this reactionary movement towards public safety New York and New Jersey have taken the lead, and placed at the head of their governments true patriots and statesmen. Following in the same direction the Legislature of Pennsylvania, last winter, elected to the United States Senate a man of undoubted integrity, and high qualities as a statesman, and now the nomination of Judge Woodward for Chief Magistrate of the State is a further evidence that the people are aroused to the importance of the perils that environ them. Under Judge Woodward the people will feel the fullest assurance that their rights and liberties will be carefully guarded and the dignity of our good old Commonwealth fully maintained. There can be no doubt of his election by a triumphant majoritys began a blod mana mannell ast.

Who Are We? What Are We?

The Governor of the sovereign Commonwealth of Pennsylvania has called out her people to defend her against the rebel invader. The people have responded. Thousands have flocked to the Capital, and are now ready.-Official assurances come every hour that the enemy are upon us. The peril is said to be order, no energy. The State authorities are said to be at cross purposes with the General Government. The men in the camps refuse to be mustered into service under the ambiguous orders which have been issued by the joint authority of the General in command and the Adjutant General of the State. In the name of Heaven, why is this? Why are not the difficulties which stand in the way of the organiration of the State troops removed by the Governor at once? The way is plain; the authority belongs to him; why does he not act? He has called on the State forces for its defense. He has the right, under the Constitution, to organize them at once to repel the invader. Must he bide the tardy movements of the Washington officials? Where does the Constitution of Pennsylvania say that he must wait the action of the wrotched incompetents at the head of the Government before he can move hand or foot to put our forces in the field? In the name of the sovereignty of this Commonwealth—in the name of our homes and firesides, which are said to bein danger from an advancing foe-we call upon the Governor to act, and act at once, independent of the officials who are embarrassing the enrollment by ambiguous orders, and issue his own commands under the authority of the State Constitution, inspire those who are now ready to march to the defense of the borders with the confidence and hope they so much need. Let him abandon the hair-splitting policy which is now being pursued, let him announce to those who are waiting to hear it, that when the danger is past and the rebel invader driven from our soil they may return to

Gen. M'Clellan is in this city-at the request of Gov. Seymour-for the purpose of aiding the latter in organising and sending forward troops for the defense of Pennsylvania. His experience is of the greatest value at this critical moment, and has been cheerfully repdered available to the Governor. General M'Clellan is a patriot, prepared to serve his country in any capacity, the highest or the humblest, where his labors can be useful.

About 14,000 men have already been secured and they are beginning to go forward. The Governor is acting with the utmost energy and promptness and all his military associates are vigorously supporting his efforts.

The 7th, 8th, 11th, 18th, 22d, 28th, 87th, 47th, 56th, 69th and 71st regiments of New and 74th regiments of Buffalo and Eric county are under marching orders. The 7th and 71st either left New York last evening or early this morning. The others will rapidly follow. All the other regiments of New York and Brooklyn are ordered to hold themselves in readi-

The 22d, 30th and 34th, returned regiments, now in the barracks in this city have volunteered to go, and the Governor is awaiting orders from Washington in respect to them.

The Ohio Resolutions. The strong and able series of resolutions, passed at the late Convention at Columbus, will be found in another column. From the sixth to the thirteenth inclusive they will be found identical with those of Kentucky and those passed at the late session of the Legislature. We regard the Ohio platform as eminently sound, practicable and conservative. It is more moderate in its sentiments in reference to the policy of the war than those of the extremists of the peace school, and so tempered as to suit the views of the larger portion of the conservative masses throughout the country.

The nomination of Mr., Rugh for Lieutenant Governor, and the passage of these resolutions, will tend to harmonize and unite the party in Ohio, and make it certain of victory in the fall. We commend the example of Ohio to Pennsylvania and the party everywhere. 🐣

General Duffie's division, late General Averill's, are at the base of the Blue Ridge, near Ashby's Gap. General Buford, with the regulars, has completely blocked up Thoroughfare Gap, thereby preventing the approach of the rebels to this neighborhood through that channel.

Colonel Taylor, of the First Pennsylvania cavalry, now temporarily in command of Gen. Wyndham's brigade, has had the Orange and Alexandria railroad under his special care. General Pleasanton, now in command of the cavalry corps, has his headquarters in the neighborhood of Warrenton Junction.

Our cavalry have captured many prisoners and brought away numberless "contrabands," from whom valuable information has been obtained. Among the prisoners captured is Captain Hutchins, of Stuart's cavalry: Me was with Gen. Twiggs in Texas when Twiggs surrendered his command and the government

Among the most important seizures made by our cavalry has been that of a bag containing mail matter—letters written by the rebel soldiers and addressed to their friends in the South. Not only was the bag and its contents captured, but also the parties who had it in charge, thus breaking up a mail route that has doubtless been in constant operation for a considerable length of time. Among the letters captured was one written by an aid to General Longstreet to his wife, living in Alabams.-After talking of family matters, the writer goes on to tell what is the object of their movement north. He says that they will ulti-mately send a cavalry force into Pittsburg and sack and burn the town, while their infantry are to pillage and plunder sundry parts of Maryland and Pennsylvania.

EVACUATION OF HARPER'S FERRY. wells The Baltimore Sun, June 18, says the Federal forces evacuated Harper's Ferry yesterday morning and retired to the heighte on the Maryland side, where, at last accounts, they re-mained, and had not been disturbed by the Confederates ... Large bodies of Confederates were moving westward yesterday, along the river and railroad, towards Cumberland and New Creek, destroying the track and bridges, and doing other damage as they progressed.

Cumberland was occupied for a short time by a portion of the invading forces, who then joined the main body, marching westward. Gen. Kelly is reported to be at New Creek, and a battle was imminent, as he had marched out to meet the advancing Confederates. Eight thousand Confederates are reported to be at Williamsport, and twenty-five hundred of at. South Mountain, near Boonsboro'. FROM SOUTH CAROLINA.

Gen. Hunter has been relieved by Gen. Gilmore, who has assumed command. We all expect a change of policy, more vigorous measures, and less attention to the development of the doctrines of the Abolitionists.— We expect no better administrative officer than Hunter, but a more aggressive and vigorous war policy. He has made many friends and many enemies—the former are rank Abolitionists, and the latter good Union men. One of these classes regrets his departure, the other bids him God speed.

Not one in ten of the vessels attempting to run the Charleston blockade have been caught. We have vessels sufficient to put a belt around the harbor; yet every day richly freighted vessels are passing in. The expedition for recruits obtained about two hundred able-bodied negroes, and more than five hundred women, children and disabled men. In the raid above forty houses were burned, and much private property destroyed. This appears too much like plundering. Privates and officers have now in their possession books, pictures, rings, clothes and family mementoes and keepsakes. Watches, silverware, silver coip, and various other articles were taken from the houses before setting them on fire. The country was defenceless, and the expedition returned without the loss of a man.

The weather is warm, the health of the department good, the soldiers contented and happy. The paymasters are at work, and the sutlers in equal degree. From the 4th to the 10th instant fifteen vessels arrived in this harbor, and nine cleared for the North. ... Y . FROM VICKSBURG. /

"BHOCKING TRACEDY IN PHILADELPHIA.

At twenty minutes past six o'clock last evening, (June 17th,) a shocking tragedy occurred on the pavement in front of the New York saloon, on Chestnut street, above Franklin place. A gentleman who saw the transaction says that he observed the lieutenant walking along the pavement. He appeared to be somewhat under the influence of iquor. He stood in conversation with Mr. Collin nearly five minutes, when suddenly the lieutenant presented a pistol and fired. The ball entered the right breast of Mr. Collin and passed through his back near the spine. The wounded man placed his hands upon the wound and ran into the cellar, where he walked to and fro for a short time, when he fell. He was the owner of some property at Vine and Water streets. A physician was called in, who pronounced the wound mortal. He made his will out, and was conveyed by police officers of the Reserve Corps to the Pennsylvania Hospital.

The lieutenant, after sheoting him, instantly put the pistol to his own head and pulled the trigger. It snapped. He deliberately re-cocked the weapon, and the second trial took fatal effect, the ball passing through his fore-Lieutenant Ludwig arrived at Philadelphia

Rosert Le Roy, Captain and A. A. G.

The volunteer militia who are willing to enroll themselves for the defense of public and private property in this Department, will assemble, those now in Camp Curlin, at Comp Curtin, and all others on the Capitol Hill, on to morrow (Thursday) morning, when they will be sworn in and at once furnished with all the necessary equipments, prior to being regularly organized into regiments.

The people of Pennsylvania who have testified by their presence here their willingness to bear arms te drive the rebels from our State and protectit from invasion, will readily notice the propriety of this order and their duty to act in obedience to it.

They are called into service by the United States dovernment for the purpose of protecting the State, and are placed under the command of a general officer detailed for that duty. To enjoy all the benfits of that Government, it is necessary they should be mustered into service, and that service only to continue during the EXISTENCE OF THE EMERGENCY for which they were called, and no one can desire to return to his home until the people of
