TRAIN GOING—On and after to-morrow the passenger and freight trains on the Northern Central railroad will run on the same schedule as before the raid, the damage done the track being sufficiently repaired to insure the safe resumption of business.

WOUNDED AT PHILADELPHIA—Five hundred wounded soldiers had arrived at Philadelphia from Gettysburg up to Monday evening, and the number is largely increased by this time. Five thousand one hundred and eighty-seven patients were in the various military hospitals in Philadelphia previous to the battle of Gettysburg.

FORMATION OF A REGIMENT—A new regiment has been organized out of the three months' troops posted at different points along the Susquehanna river below this place. This regiment will be in the city to-day. It is said that the number of three months' men still remaining on duty along the river is ample sufficient to form still another regiment.

UNITED STATES MINT—By a statement of deposits and coinage at the Philadelphia Mint for the month of June we learn that the deposits of gold from all sources amounted to $218,452.32. The silver deposited were $22,550.12 being an aggregate of $247,002.44. The coinage for the month was in gold $237,650.60, in silver $36,691.68, and in copper $64,400. The total value of the coinage for the month is $208,742.28, and the total number of pieces amounts to 3,552,501. Of these 3,440,000 were "nickels."

TWELVE MILES OF CARS AND LOCOMOTIVES—During the late equally times the Pennsylvania railroad company took the precautionary step of concentrating, at points removed from immediate danger, such portion of their rolling stock as was not absolutely required to carry on a limited business. They had thus concentrated locomotives, passenger and freight cars upon the sidings between East Liberty and Wall Station, on the western division of the road, extending for twelve miles in length. This long train has all been distributed to different points along the line, the road being considered out of danger.

KILLED BY LIGHTNING—The name of the young man, whose death at Camp Curtin by lightning we announced in Saturday's paper, was Emanuel Erb. He was a son of Jacob Erb, of West Earl township, Lancaster county, and arrived here in a company from that county on Friday. On the evening of the same day, while lying in his tent, he was struck by lightning and instantly killed. Two young men from the same neighborhood were lying, one on each side of him, and both were injured by the shock, though not dangerously. The body of the unfortunate Erb was taken to Lancaster, where it was buried on Monday.

GIBSON'S LOKETTO SPRINGS—This delightful resort, situated in Cambria county, four miles from Crosson station, on the Pennsylvania railroad, offers tempting inducements to all who would go summering either for health or pleasure. The springs are over two hundred feet above tide-water; the air is always bracing and invigorating, the surrounding streams are full of trout and the mountain ranges abound in game. The scenery is of that description which can only be found upon the Allegheny mountains. Every facility for recreation and enjoyment, every table luxury, and the most delightful band music, will be afforded to the guests of the establishment during the season.

DAVIS'S PANORAMA—This famous work of art, which is now on exhibition at Brant's Hall, is drawing crowded houses nightly. It is the most extensive and complete work of the kind on this continent. All the grand scenes of this gigantic struggle in which we are engaged, commencing at the fall of Fort Sumter and extending down to the battle of Antietam, are portrayed upon the canvas with life-like faithfulness and thrilling scenic effect. The whole moving scene of battle-pieces is made complete by stirring martial music. The Carlisle Garrison brass band, which has enjoyed a thirty years' reputation for excellence and musical perfection, is also engaged, and will perform during the interludes in the exhibition. The panorama can be seen for this week only.

FAST RIDING—We are pleased to notice that the municipal authorities are making every effort to put a stop to the practice of furious riding and driving, which has of late been rapidly increasing in our streets. All such offenders are warned that the law will be enforced against them in every case of its infliction. For the sake of the horses so shamelessly maltreated by this reckless cruelty, as well as for the safety of the men, women and children whose lives are hourly jeopardized by the practice, we hope that not a single violator of the law will escape the penalty. The following cases of fast riding were disposed of before Alderman Kline yesterday:

A colored man, living in South street, fined one dollar and costs.

A young man named Nicholas Reemshart, in the employ of Nicholas Reemshart, Sr., fined one dollar and costs for fast riding through Strawberry alley, on complaint of Daniel Rhoads.

Maurice Purcell, in company with Reemshart, was fined one dollar and costs for the same offence.

POLICE AFFAIRS—Before Alderman Kline.—Our last report was up to Monday morning. Quite a large number of cases have been before the magistrate since then, most of which are directly traceable to the immoderate imbibition of corn juice. We extract from the calendar the following list of drunks and disorderlies who have been bagged and put through the mill:

Cornelius Haney, who had just got out of jail for drunkenness on Monday morning, was re-arrested by officer Fry in the afternoon for the same offence, and re-committed for forty-eight hours.

Barney McKee, arrested by officer Redifer, sent twenty-four hours.

Hiram Edmonson, arrested by officer Cline, committed for twenty-four hours.

William H. Bennett, arrested by officer Campbell, sent twenty-four hours.

Andrew Smith, arrested by officer Moyer, sent twenty-four hours.

James Dorsey, arrested by officer Brooks; William Loosman, arrested by officer Lloyd; James Donner, arrested by officer M'Mahon, and Hannah Freeman, colored, arrested by officer Kunkel, were all committed to prison for twenty-four hours.

Susan Long, a colored vagrant, was taken up by officer Campbell, and sent to jail for three days.

Jack Fayette, a ferocious and fire-eating negro, whose name has more than once been enrolled on police dockets, was arrested by officers Campbell and Cline, charged by the former with drawing a knife upon him. The desperado struck at Barney with a knife, the blade just grazing along the front part of his vest. He was committed to prison in default of bail for surety of the peace.

William Moehner, keeper of a tavern on Ridge Road, was arrested by officer Fry, charged with violation of the Sunday liquor law. He entered a bar to appear and answer at Quarter Sessions.

Michael Flynn and Patrick Brogan were before the magistrate on a charge of unlawfully conspiring to procure a license. The information was made by officer Fry, by whom they were taken into custody. Both parties entered bail to answer at court.

Vincent Orsingher, a landlord living in Verbeke town, was brought up on a charge of assault and battery, preferred by Clement Sainley. Mr. Orsingher gave bail to answer.

Brant Williams and his wife Elizabeth, two convicts lately hailing from Green castle, were committed to prison for larceny, on oath of Jacob Mountz, who lives in Meadow Lane, and is employed as a switch-tender. Mountz alleges that he retired to bed early on Monday night, leaving a watch and pocket-book, in which were $200 in twenty-dollar Treasury notes, lying upon a chest near the bed. Not long after, the woman entered the room, while the man Williams stood guard outside. Happening to think of his watch and purse after she went out, he got up and went to the trunk, and found that the purse was gone. The woman, when arrested, was searched, and $175 of the money found upon her person. Elizabeth's version of the affair is quite different. She admits having taken the money, but justifies her action upon the ground that she had clearly established a claim to a small portion of it; this, she said, was refused by the owner, and so she concluded to "confiscate" the entire amount.

AYER'S COMPOUND EXTRACT SARASARILLA—No one remedy is more needed in this country than a reliable Alternative, but the sick have been so outrageously cheated by the worthless preparations of Sarasarilla, that they are compelled even to the adoption of which they have suffered. Most of the so-called Sarasarilla in the market contain little if any of the virtues of Sarasarilla or anything else. They are more often than not worthless, while a concentrated extract of the active principles of Sarasarilla, combined with Rock Stickling, Iodine, etc., is as it ever will be a powerful alternative and an actual remedy. Such is Ayer's Extract of Sarasarilla, its truly wonderful cure of the great variety of complaints which require a strong, active, tonic, stimulant, and antiseptic. Do not, therefore, discard this invaluable medicine, because it may have been imposed upon you something pretending to be Sarasarilla, while it was not. When you have used Ayer's Extract and not to then, will you know the virtue of Sarasarilla?—Price 25 cents. For sale by all Druggists.

A WORD TO "INVALID."—A communication, signed "Invalid," appears in last evening's Telegraph, animadverting quite severely upon the Chief of Police and our humble self because of an article which appeared in our paper of the 6th. In that article we gave an account of some smart riding that had been done in our streets the day before, and the serious results which befell one of the party in consequence. We mentioned the fact that Barney Campbell, seeing a bevy of little children almost ridden down by the supposed cavalrymen, expressed the wish that the "spalepins" might break their necks on the next corner, and that one of the riders was actually unhorsed and seriously injured a moment after. Officer Campbell's wish was a very natural one under the circumstances, and was made without regard to what arm of the service the reckless riders belonged, or what insignia they might wear upon their arms or shoulders. They were violating law, and manifesting an utter and very considerable disregard of the life and limbs of those whose innocent and helpless nature should ever have the strongest claim upon the soldier. Of course, we do not think they did it intentionally or maliciously, since we have heard their explanation of the matter. But what did we know of their intentions or errand at the time of the occurrence in question, or what did the Chief of Police know?

We believe that Barney Campbell would see the angel Gabriel dashing through town in a similar manner, in defiance of municipal law and endangering the lives of women and children, he would give him the same appellation and wish him the same luck as he did in the case of "Invalid," and we, as a faithful chronicler of passing events, would jot it down, and say that Barney was right. As to the corps to which "Invalid" belongs, we are connoisseurs with its history, and know it to be composed of true heroes and soldiers, scolded and disdained in the service of their grateful country; and we deprecate his attempt to saddle his misfortune upon that corps by pleading that he belongs to it, and that our strictures apply to it as well as to himself. It is a piece of sophistry. We honor the name of soldier, but we deny that the fact of a man's being such can exculpate him from the blame which attaches to undisciplined men who have been guilty of such conduct.
