"IF I'M DRAFTED I SHALL Go."-The last seen of exempted in Lancaster county by paying the commutation, up to Friday, was three hundred and sixty-seven, yielding a revenue of $110,100.

PATRIOTIC COMPLEXION.—The Easton Express says that "a pair of white and blue ladies hore was picked up on the street" in that town, and can be had by calling at that office. We hope none of the blushing "red, white and blue ladies" of Easton will have to go without hose. It would be a sorry sight to see such piebald and patriotically complected "weaker vessels" flying their colors without their trimmings and scudding along the street under "bare poles."

HARRISBURG ACADEMY .- The fall session of this excellent educational institution will begin on Monday, the 31st inst., with Mr. J. F. Seiler as principal. Mr. Seiler is a man of fine scholastic attainments, and has had many years experience as an instructor. Under his tutorage the Harrisburg Academy has assumed a first-class position among the institutions of that character in the country. Vacancies may be obtained upon application to

WHAT A DRAFTED MAN CAN DO.-A conscript can do one of five things: 1st. He can report for service. 2d. He can furnish a substitute. 3d. He can pay $300 to the collector of the district, and present his receipt to the enrolling officer, which will secure his discharge. 4th. He can be examined by the government surgeon, and be exempted on physical grounds. 5th. He can skedaddle. The latter expedient is not "according to Hoyle," is the risk of being overhanled and having his hair combed awfully the wrong way.

THE FRIENDSHIP PICNIC .- The reader is reminded that the annual picnic of the Friendship fire company comes off to-day at Hoffman's woods. The arrangements made are complete, and a grand party is anticipated. The object of the pic-nic is to raise money to make a payment on their new steam engine. Let every one turn out. Two trains of cars will leave the Pennsylvania depot for the grounds, the one at 8.30 a. m. and the other at 1.30 p m. Returning will leave at 7 p. m. Tickets for the round trip, twenty-five cents.

THE WEATHER.—The mercury slowly climbs day by day up the scale of degrees toward "blood heat,"

"All in a hot and copper sky, The bloody sun at noon glares down like a flaming jewel of fire upon the just and the unjust, the drafted and the undrafted. Footmen creep along the shady walls; draught quadrupeds drag their loads along the street as dejectedly as if they had been drafted and found to be fearfully able-bodied and liable, and the Jacob Krabbs, 22, carpenter. foundations of likely paper collars are sapped by permeating streams of perspiration. At 7 a. m. yesterday the mercury stood at 84°, and at 3 p. m. it reached 93° and stuck at that. This was the hottest day of the season. On Sunday we had a Fred. Barshals, 20, laborer. temperature of 82° and 92° at the same hours— 7 a. m. and 3 p. m. This heat would be far more tolerable if the right kind of a draft was stirring, Levi Moyer, 25, shoemaker. but the air is motionless. The present is the longest spell of continued hot weather experienced since 1854.

Veto Message.—At a meeting of the Common Council, held at their rooms on Saturday evening, Mayor Roumfort sent in the following message vetoing the ordinance opening and grading Nin:h street from Market to State, and also straightening Paxton Creek, passed by that body on the lat instant. Those who will take the trouble to go over grounds where these improvements are proposed to be made will at once see that the Mayor's objections are well founded:

MAYOR'S OFFICE, }
Harrisburg, August 8, 1863.

To the Common Council of the City of Harrisburg : GENTLEMEN:-I return without my signature an ordinance passed by your Honorable body on the 1st instant, entitled "An ordinance directing Ninth street to be opened, graded and curbed, and Paxton Creek to be straitered between Market and State streets." The length of Ninth street between Market and State streets is about twelve hundred feet, and being located over low and swampy grounds, the grade of it requires an elevation of at least eight feet. This would require the hauling of some twenty-four thousand cubic yards of material, at a cost of not less than six thousand The straightening of Paxton Creek, which would require the excavation and hauling of about seven thousand cubic yards of clay, would not cost less than fifteen bundred dollars.

This estimate of cost made by me, after a rersonal examination of the ground, is a mere approximation. You can obtain an accurate estimate, if you see proper, from Mr. Hage, the Street Regulator. It appears to me that, on all similar subjects to the present one, your Honorable body would act upon a system of true economy, and Jno. P. Nitz, 29, tinsmith. would avoid uncertain legislation, by first obtaining from that gentleman estimates which, would etermine accurately the expenses to be incurred by the city.

With regard to the improvement now under consideration, I cannot see that it will be of immediate general benefit; and although it may advance the interests of two or three individuals, I do not consider this as a justification for the large expenditure which the work must necessarily involve.
Very respectfully, your obedient servant,

A. L. ROUMFORT, Some other business of minor importance was Jno. B. Martin, 27, farmer. transacted at this moeting of Council, but tannot Joseph L. Smith, 22, laborer. be reported to-day for want of room. Eli Ebersole, 26, shoemaker.

Conscript's Benefit.-Bob Edwards' Gaiety Eli Huber, 29, minister. to-morrow night will be the seene of a grand jubilee, on the occasion of the benefit of a "poor conscript." Whoever wishes to enjoy a pleasant entertainment, and at the same time help a "poor conscript," will give his attendance.

"How are You, Conscripts?"-We have at last realized that modest merit does not forever go unnoticed and unhonored. Ways and means are ever and anon devised for bringing it to the surface in this brawling world, and we know of none more effectual than the conscription. The draft, like death, loves a shining mark. It entered a boarding house in the Third ward, and drew therefrom the "angel of the household," the "pride of the family"-that's us, and we don't care who knows it. The government has called us forth from retirement to a life of glory. We will not resign, believing of the draft, as Henry Clay did of the Presidency, that it is an office "neither to be sought nor declined."

We will not indulge in day-dreams of future glory. If at times there rises before our mind's eye some splendid vision of a Brigadier cavorting over the plain, of some wild charge and capture of hospital stores, of myriads of circus horses and canal boats bearing our laurelled name painted in gingerbread letters upon their sterns in ages yet to come, we will sternly repress the prophetic revelation and turn our eagle eye to the pressing requirement of the present hour-and that is, to find a substitute, or gather together quantum suff. of the "wherewithal," Until that effort is successful, we must endure the overwhelming congratulations of an admiring and envious world, and say "how are ye?" to everybody. We return thanks to the fates that presided over the sortes Clementes for the honor conferred, and thanks to all the drafters, including the blind man at the wheel. We are "all thanks, thanks, thanks, still thanks and only thanks, and thanks and thanks agair."

THE DRAFT.

The drawing of the quotas for the townships of Conewago and Derry, and for the First, Second, Third and Fourth wards of the city of Harrisburg, began at 10 o'clock a. m. yesterday, and was completed before 3 p. m. The ceremony took place on a raised platform in front of the Court House, around which a space of about forty feet was cleared by the guards, of whom there was a battalion in attendance. This large force was of no use. except to keep the crowd from pressing too closely upon the stand, as the most excellent and good-humored spirit prevailed among the bystanders, and there was probably not the slightest intention of violence in the breast of any citizen of the town or county. The men of the community needed no glittering display of bayonets to teach them their duty to the laws of their country and to themselves.

The drafting engine consisted of a square box, about two feet and a half long by one and a half deep, which turned on a pivot by means of a crank. A small sliding door opened into it, through which the names of all those enrolled were dropped in, one sub-district at a time, and each name in a separate scaled envelops. The "rotatory calabash" was then put through a number of revolutions by hand power, after which a card was drawn out and the name of the "elect" announced. Mr. Philip Ensminger, a man of very defective vision, drew the names from the wheel, being blindfolded to "make assurance doubly sure;" and Commissioner Rawn cried out the names to the waiting crowd in a loud voice. Messrs. George J. Shoemaker, William Bergstresser, John J. Shoemaker and Aaron Bombaugh-the two first named Democrats and the last two Republicans-were upon the platand has an unhealthy tendency, as the fugitive form by invitation, to see that everything was

Fortune maintains her proverbial capriciousness in this as in every other transaction where she has a "finger in the pie." She was particularly severe on printers and reporters (i. e., one), and we have on this account concluded that Shakspeare was right in calling the bussy a "Strumpet." Eight employees were drawn from the Telegraph office, and the Patriot and Union was honored with a draft for five. The names of four printers were drawn in succession from the wheel. A perfect raid was made through the Buehler House, taking about everything but the proprietor. Other places were passed over almost untouched.

The total number drawn yesterday, out of about 1,700 enrolled, was 451, of which 51 were colored. The figures below include the fifty per cent. ex-
