THURSDAY MORNING, AUGUST 20, 1863. GOVERNOR CURTIN.

The following article we copy from the Pittsburg Gazette of July 20th, an Abolition sheet of the darkest dye, which shows the estimation in which he is held by a large majority of his own party.

WE have already suggested that we would regard the re-nomination of Governor Curtin as a great calamity to the party and to the country, for the double reason that we should expose ourselves to the imminent risk of a defeat, if we did not even show thereby that we had deserved it.

It is not to be disputed we think, that his administration has proved eminently disastrous to the party which brought him into power.

Entrusted with the privilege of expending the first appropriation made by the Legislature for the common defense, he gave to his own creatures the power of making contracts, as his private agents, in relation to articles which they were entirely unfamiliar with.

One of these individuals was a certain Ohas, M. Neal, an active ward politician and Acting Commissioner of Philadelphia, who was understood to be an intimate and confidential friend of the Governor.

ing the city placed under martial law. But, thanks to the good sense of the soldiers and the calmness and discretion of the Democrats present, a collision was avoided, and the city saved from a terrible riot, which would have been the inevitable result had the military persisted in preventing an egress from the hall.
