BRIEF HINTS.

Coal tar, it is said, will drive all the flies out of a room, by putting a small quantity in any part of it.

Rats have been completely exterminated by covering the common steel trap with a white cloth. smeared with a little butter. The cloth should be changed every night. For one night the trap should not be set, as a decoy. As many as seventy in a week or two are said to have been caught in this way. New strawberry beds can be set out in August or September-we prefer the latter month. We also prefer spring to autumn for setting out beds. Anybody who knows how to raise a bed of enions, can have strawberries. New beginners should set the plants a foot apart each way in beds from three to three and a half feet wide, and as long as desired. All strawherries should be slightly covered in winter, with long horsemanure. The best varieties for a crop to sell, is the Triomphe de Gand, Hovey's Seedling, and Albany Scedling; and for private use the White Pine Apple, the highest flavored of all, should be added, and the Albany drop-

Asparagus beds can be made this and next month. Trench at least two feet; fill with alternate layers of strong stable manure, cornstalks, old leather, soil, &c. If seed is sown, cover well. if plants are set, place them eight or ten inches each way, and cover from two and a half to three inches. If two year old roots are planted, a small supply of aspuragus may be obtained the second year; if one year old plants, in three years; if the seed is sown, in four years Asparagus beds should receive a good coat of manure in November, which, except the rougher portion, should be forked in as early in the spring as the garden can be entered. This should be followed by a heavy dressing of salt. Care must, however, be taken, not to apply the salt to new beds, as it has been known to kill the young plants.

Okra must be eaten when the pods are about two inches long. They are then very tender and fine. They are excellent either stewed or in soups—we prefer them in the latter. They can also be strung up and dried for winter use

Keep your garden clean. The long spell of moist weather has been a godsend to the weeds, making it necessary for gardeners to redouble their efforts to eradicate them.

Some people allow their strawberry beds, after the crop has been removed, to fill with weeds, thinking they will do no harm. This is a great mistake, as the keeping of them free of all foreign vegetation, throughout the summer and autumn, has much to do with the yield the next year. - Germantown Telegraph.

PRESERVING FRUIT.

Prof. Mapes says: "If tomatoes are slightly scalded and skinned, and put into bottles, and these set into boiling water for a few minutes, and corked and sealed, the fruit will keep as long as desired, and if eaten when first opened, will have the same taste as when first picked from the vines."

Our experience is this: We pick our tomatoes, wash and peel; then boil slightly and stir for five or ten minutes, so as to be sure to expel all the air; then heat the bottles, and fill, corking up instantly. If not corked up at once, and when full, the contents will settle, and leave a vacant space. The cork should be a short one, and pushed down below the level of the top of the bottle neck-this filled up with melted sealing wax. This is our mode. We have never lost a bottle, nor had the least change taken place in the fruit. We have kept it—and generally do-a year, or a year and a half, always with perfect success. We have now a quart bottle filled, which we shall not break till next summer, when it will be two years old. We have no thought at all of its spoiling. Oysster cans are equally good, only there will be a tin taste—not agreeable.

In this process heat drives out the air, and the glass keeps it out. This preserves the fruit. But there is some fruit that will not preserve on account of the fixed air in it. Plums are of this nature. Pears, on the other hand, are readily preserved.

There is another way to preserve fruit, the air pump. Pump out the air, and your fruit is safe, regardless of the vacuum in the vessel. Boil first, then apply the sugar; or heat your syrup, and pour over your fruit. This leaves the taste of the fruit distinct. One thing more; use only the purest and best refined sugar—sugar without taste, for whatever odor or flavor there is, goes into the fruit, and will be tasted .- Valley Farmer.

VINEGAR.

This article is one of the most necessary, and yet we rarely find it of good, or even passable quality. By following the rules laid down in the following recipe, which I have pursued for many years, and one may make the article on his own premises: "To eight gallons of clear rain water, add three quarts of molasses, put into a good cask, shake well a few times, then add two or three spoonfuls of good yeast cakes. If in summer, place the cask in the sun; if in winter, near the chimney, where it may be In ten or fifteen days, add to the liquor a sheet of brown paper, tern in strips, dipped in molasses, and good vinegar will be produced. The paper will, in this way, form what is called the 'mother,' or 'life of the vine-

HOW TO SELECT ELOUR.

First, look to the color; if it is white, with a yellowish, or straw-colored tint, buy it. If it is very white, with a bluish cast, or with white specks in it, refuse it. Second, examine its adhesiveness; wet and knead a little of it between your fingers; if it works soft and sticky, it is poor. Third, throw a little lump of dry flour against a dry, smooth, perpendicular surface; if it falls like powder, it is bad. Fourth, squeeze some of the flour in your hand; if it retains the shape given by the pressure, that, too, is a good sign. Flour that will stand all these tests, it is safe to buy. These modes are given by old flour dealers, and they pertain to a matter that concerns everybody, namely, the staff of life.

ANOTHER WAY TO "HEAD" BED-BUGS. If any of your readers need a sure remedy for bed-bugs, they can have mine, and cleanse the foulest house of these troublesome vermin without expense. They have only to wash with salt and water, filling the cracks where they frequent with salt, and you may look in vain for them. Salt seems inimical to bed-bugs and they will not trail through it. I think it preferable to all "ointments," and the buyer requires no certificates as to its genuineness. -Mrs. L. C. C., Pen Yan.
