THURSDAY MORNING, SEPT. 24, 1863. ADDRESS FROM THE DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE. To the citizens of Pennsylvania:

We would respectfully and earnestly address a few words to those of you who have returned to your homes from the military service of our country. On political subjects, we address you all as citizens; it is as citizens you will attend the polls.

On some of the questions of the day, you have had special means of observation. You have been at the South. You have seen its negro population. Many of you have come back convinced how vain and impracticable are the schemes for its instant emancipation.

Stump orators, some of them political generals, forbid you to reflect on these things. They tell you now to think only of war. There is a time and place for all things.

When you come to the polls in your proper election districts, you will find that no one has deprived you of your vote. There was a question whether the Constitution of Pennsylvania provided any means for a citizen to vote when he was absent from his home on the day of an election.

Philadelphia. The election was for Sheriff in that county, a very lucrative office of great political importance. Mr. Robert Ewing, the Democratic candidate, had a majority, if votes given for him in the camps in Virginia could be counted.

Now, the baseness of the attempt of the Republicans to excite prejudice among soldiers against the Democratic judges lies in this: The constitutional objection against the camp vote was first raised by Republicans, in order to secure the office of Sheriff of Philadelphia to the Republican candidate.

It is due to our citizen soldiery to add, however, in respect to the cases of fraud that have been before us, that no soldier was implicated. The frauds were perpetrated in every instance by political speculators.

There ought to be such an instant uprising of young men, in response to this call, as shall be sufficient to secure the public safety, and to the world that no hostile foot can, with impunity, tread the soil of Pennsylvania.

"Resolved, That the soldiers composing our armies merit the warmest thanks of the nation. Their country called, and nobly did they respond. Living, they shall know a nation's gratitude; wounded, a nation's care; and dying, they shall live in our memories, and to honor the patriots and heroes who offered their lives for the country's altar.

HIGHLY IMPORTANT NEWS. Details of the Battle on Sunday near Chattanooga.

HEROIC CONDUCT OF THOMAS' CORPS. THE UNION LOSS ESTIMATED AT 1,200 KILLED AND 7,000 WOUNDED. PARTIAL LIST OF CASUALTIES—CAPTURE OF THE REBEL GEN. ADAMS AND 1,900 OF HIS MEN.

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn., Sept. 22.—The battle of Saturday, the 19th, resulted well for us, we having held our own as established on the left, and concentrated our forces during the day; and on Sunday morning we held a handsome line, with our right on a ridge of hills, and our left protected by rude works of logs thrown up during the night.

THE TERRIBLE BATTLE OF SUNDAY. The engagement was resumed at 9 o'clock on the morning of the 20th by attempts of the rebels to storm General Thomas' left and front. They were severely repulsed several times, with heavy loss to them and very little to us.

Parts of the centre were gathered up and reported to Thomas, who made several attempts to check the rebel advance until the arrival of reinforcements. At one o'clock, Gen. Granger, with one division of reserves came, and was at once thrown into the centre, driving the enemy handsomely from his position on a strong ridge, with heavy loss.

Our losses have necessarily been heavy, but the list of the killed was surprisingly light. In the two days' engagement we have not suffered more in men than the enemy. In the charge by General Thomas on the first day, the enemy lost as many as killed as we did in the whole day.
