MURINGER'S PATENT BEEF TEA,

BEEF AND VEGETABLES. Convertible immediately into a nourishing and deli-cious soup. Highly approved by a number of eminent Physicians. s admirable article condensed into a compact form

The admirable article condensed into a compact form, all the substantial and nutritive properties of a large bulk of meat and vegetables. The readiness with which it dissolves into a rich and palatable Soup, which would require hours of preparation according to the usual method, is an advantage in many situations of life, too obvious to need urging. Its highly nourishing qualities combined with its delicacy, renders it invaluable for the sick; while for those in health, it is a perfect substitute for fresh meat and vegetables. It will keep good in any silmate.

It is peculiarly well adapted FOR TRAVELERS, by land or sea, who can thus avoid those accidental depriva-tions of a comfortable meal, to which they are so liable. FOR INVALIDS, whose capricious appetite can thus e satisfied in a moment.

FOR SPORTSMEN and EXCURSIONISTS, to whom, both its compactness and easy preparation will recom-

A TRAGEDY IN LOVE LANE. An occurrence, involving painful conse quences in its effects on the peace and happiness of an estimable family, transpired yesterday afternoon. The facts have been misstated in some of the morning papers. As we learn, they are these: One of our citizens, Mr. Horace B. Wilcox, had entertained a belief, for two or three months, that his wife, a young woman of more than ordinary intelligence, vivacity and sparkling life, who had always been the centre and attraction of the social circles in which she moved, was on terms of improper intimacy with & near neighbor, young George Tiffany, some twenty years of age. On Thursday afternoon Mr. Wilcox was riding along on the Blue Hills road, and was just about to turn into the road that descends from the high point at the old Shepherd or Brinley place to Love Lane, when he saw shead of him, and approaching, the carriage belonging to his wife's father, and in it his wife, a female relative (a young girl of 14 or 15) and young Tiffany. The latter, seeing the husband approaching, turned and drove back down the hill at a rapid pace, but the husband, now infuriated, drove faster, and came against the other carriage at the point where Love lane meets Vine street. The shock stopped both vehicles, and young Tiffany jumped out and would have fled, but his pursuer was instantly out and after him. Wilcox presented a pistol at T.'s head, and fired. T. at the same time struck aside the pistol, the explosion cutting one of his fingers, and burning his hand with the powder. The blow, however, saved young T.'s life, who ran, bareheaded and bleeding, into the fields and woods, followed by Mr. W., who fired at him as he ran. Three shots were fired without effect. Just then a carriage driven by a lady, accompanied by another female relative, came by, and young T. came bursting out of the woods, bareheaded, bloody, and pale with fright, crying: "Take me in, take me in—I am shot." The ladies, supposing the injury to be accidental, took him into the carriage, when he seized the reins and whip and dashed madly onward. With difficulty the ladies succeeded in stopping the carriage at Mr. Gron's. One of the ladies went in to obtain the aid of Mr. Grou, when young T., looking back, saw the carriage of Mr. W. coming, and out he jumped, shricking: "He's coming! he's coming! he'll shoot me!" and dashed into the house, where he begged his unknown lady friend to hide him." Not knowing what to do, she opened a door which chanced to lead down into the cellar, and pushed him hastily down-but the cellar door was scarcely closed ere the front door was burst open, and in rushed W., demanding of Mra ***:--

"Where is that young man?"

Mrs. * * * seemed at a loss to know who he meant, and asked if he was a police officer.-W. replied—"Yes, I am a police officer." "Then," said the lady, "you will probably find him out there in the garden." him to jump into the carriage and drive to town for a police officer.

Meantime the carriage containing Mr. W.'s wife and companion came up. Then W., find-ing his search is vain, started for town, with a view to be home ahead of his wife, and get the child, a girl of about four years; but Mrs. W. drove rapidly in, and the two arrived at the south end about the same time, and the result of the interview was that Mrs. W. left her house and went to her father's with the child, refusing to give it up. Mr. W. then went voluntarily to the police and surrendered himself, saying that when he had fired he meant to kill Tiffany. Ample security being at once given for his appearance, he was not detained under arrest, and in the evening he was examined before Justice Peters on a charge of "assault with intent to kill." The result was that the case was postponed for a week, Mr. W. being held meanwhile in $2,000 bail, which was given. Tiffany has said that he should not appear against him. We learn that it is W.'s purpose to sue for a divorce, and that he will claim and have the child. He has already made a formal legal demand for it. It is a painful affair, in all of its aspects and relations, commencing at first in a flirtation on the part of the wife, to "punish" her husband for what she deemed inattention to herself, and imprudently progressing, step by step, to the present tragic end. Mrs. Wilcox is often blunt or indiscreet in her remarks and her manners. But that she has been criminal in her imprudent conduct with Tiffany we do not believe. Both of them solemnly aver that nothing of conceal their intimacy.—Hartford Times.

A HORRIBLE MURDER IN INDIANA. -A correspondent of the Illinois Staats Zeitung, in a letter dated Lafayette, Indiana, October 10, gives an account of the most revolting murder ever committed on this continent. The facts condensed are as follows: A German by the name of Stark with his family, consisting of a wife, two grown daughters, and three sons be-tween the ages of 16 and 24, resided upon a large farm about seven miles from Paoli. They were good citizens and highly respected. The farm was somewhat isolated, heing a mile and a half from any dwelling. Last Wednesday week a cattle trader from Salem went to Stark's farm and not seeing any one about the premi-ses he became suspicious that all was not right. We shall let the letter writer describe the He forced his way into the house through one of the back windows. On entering the house, his eyes were greeted by a horrible spectacle. On the floor, in a pool of half dried blood, lay the farmer with his skull terribly shattered. Not far from him, on the bed, lay his wife, also dead and bloody, while in different parts of the house were the three sons and two daughters, all murdered, either from cuts from a knife or blows from some blunt instrument. The house itself must have been the scene of a severe combat since everything movable was broken, and throughout the house traces of the most terrific violence were distinctly visible. The horror struck cattle dealer hastened to the nearest farm and alarmed the whole neighborhood. In the afternoon the authorities arrived at the spot. The most accurate inquiry furnished no clue to the perpetrators, other than that the crime was prompted by a desire for plunder.

This event has of course created an immense excitement among the people of the neighborhood. Every possible exertion was made to not succeeded in detecting the smallest trace of them. The physicians declare that the act over a pail which was half full of blood. He lay in his shirt sleeves with his boots off. The window and curtain, together with the sash and carpet under the window, was one mass of blood. The curtain was stained to the top, and the bed clothes and the chairs were bedaubed with blood. On turning him over on his back, the wounds were found. There was a cut in the wrist, an inch in length, which was wrapped up with a handkerchief. At the bend of the elbow, on the inside, was a huge gash, which must have produced death in a very few moments. Under him lay the razor with which he committed the rash act, and at one side the bottle of "chloroform" with which he sought to blunt his perception of the approach of death. An arm-chair lay in the mid-young man. It run as follows: To all whom it may concern: "Having come to the conclusion that my life is no benefit to myself or friends, but a disgrace to both, I have determined to put an end to it. God forgive me if I do wrong. I

ARREST OF CAPITAL PUNISHMENT.—Passing up Orange street, the other day, our attention was attracted to a boy who was climbing up a lamp post with a rope, one end of which was around the neck of a terrier dog and the other over the horns on which the lamp-lighter rests his ladder, when lighting the lamp. There were some half-dozen ragged urchins around cheering him. An old gentlemen present, supbling culprit. -N. O. Picayune. Is if a superstition?—A bridge broke down at Terre Haute a few days since, drowning a number of persons. The Terre Haute Express says: One incident connected with the recovery of the bodies is worthy of more general publicity. All had been found with the exception of that of Mrs. Thrall, and the approaching night was about to compel the search to be abandoned, when some one suggested that by placing quicksilver in a loaf of bread and putting it in the water, it would stop directly over the body. Accordingly, a loaf was procured and two ounces of quicksilver placed in it, then taken about fifty feet above the bridge and thrown into the water. It floated down in the current, which is quite strong at that place, when, suddenly, it stopped, and circling around, was, apparently, about to sink, when a gentleman in a boat caught it, and grappling hooks being put down, the body was found directly beneath, truthfully so. They have not attempted to read of this mode some years since, but supposing it one of the many superstitions, had almost forgotten it. What the philosophy is we cannot tell. Will some one afford some

> CURE FOR EPILEPSY AND PARALYSIS .- The London Medical Times and Gazette lately published a remarkable account of a curative treatment by Dr. John Chapman of epilepsy and paralysis, and diseases depending on the circulation of the blood, so far as that is affected by the "systematic nerve." He stimulates and depresses the systematic and cereobrospinal nervous system at will by applying heat or ice, in india rubber bags, to the back of the head and different ganglia or nervous centres, and gives an extraordinary account of the success he has had in this way with the worst cases of epilepsy and some of paralysis. For example, a girl aged fourteen, who came for treatment on the 24th of last April, was then having an average of four fits an hour or about forty-eight a day. In ten weeks after treatment she had only two a day. Other cases not so bad, but almost as striking, if accurately reported, are detailed. If the treatment produces permanent cures, it is one of the most remarkable discoveries of medical science. If it only alleviates for a time it is

Kentucky. HOBRIBLE SUICIDE—A Student at the University Kills Himself with a Razor.—On Monday morning the people of Ann Arbor were startled by the horrible intelligence that Ossian R. Ross, a member of the junior class of the University, had committed suicide with a razor. A gentleman who was one of the first to discover him furnishes us the following particulars: He lay on the floor, beside his bed, and with his head downward. His face hung dle of the floor overturned, in the seat of which was another clot of blood. On the table lay a note, in the handwriting of the unfortunate
