From the New York Heralds Wreck of the Steamer Empire.

The steamer Empire, while on her upward trip, Thursday night, and when opposite Newburg, about 10 o'clock, was run caused her to sink in five minutes after. In an instant, the greatest consternation prevailed, among the two hundred passengers on board, many of whom jumped in he river and of which number it is not yet known how many were saved. The steamer Rip Van Winkle was near by, at the time, and immediately went to the aid of the passengers, taking off all who were on deck. In the ladies saloon were several, who had retired, among whom an elderly lady, a young lady and a little girl, were her perilous condition by cutting a hole save another, who drowned before the necessary aid could be rendered. There were many small boats from Newburg, by which those who jumped overboard were picked up. The mother of the little girl had with her a young child, and her shricks for help for the lost one are said to have thrilled every heart on board, even in that moment of The elderly lady is believed to be a Mrs. Noble, and the young lady an em-

The Empire will be towed to this city to be raised. The damage done to the boat and furniture is estimated at about $15,000, upon which there was no insurance. At present, it is impossible to tell who were the passengers on board, the list being in the captain's office, and now under water. The only damage sustained by the schooner, was the loss of her bowsprit.

Capt. Hulse, of the steamer Hendrick Hudson, left Newburg at 12 o'clock yesterday. He saw Capt. Tupper of the Empire, but no further particulars were obtained other than those by the telegraphic despatch-

It is impossible, as yet, to give a correct number of the lives lost. A small boat has just come ashore, with the bodies of three ladies, who were just taken from the wreck.

The number of bodies found, up to 8 A M., is eleven. They have just pumped the water from the boilers of the Empire, and the body of another, a young lady, has come to light.

Among the persons drowned by the sinking of the Empire last night, and whose bodies have been recovered, the following have been recognized :-

Isabella Carson, aged 17 years. George L. Buckland, aged 2 years.

Mrs. Noble, of Troy, (sister of General Ross.)

One body, not recognized, is lying at Fishkill.

A large number are missing, but it is impossible to say how many. The steamer Empire is still submerged in water to the promenade deck. She lies on one of the flats of Newburg. Her cabins are supposed to contain dead bodies, which have not yet been reached. The whole number of persons drowned, is estimated to be between twenty and thirty.

Seven bodies have been found on the wreck, four of which have been identifiedall taken from the upper tier of berths in the ladies' saloon. 'The lower berths and genmen's cabin are supposed to contain 25 or 30 of the unfortunate passengers. A coroner's inquest sits here on three of the bodies. Another sits to-morrow, at Fishkill landing. It is intended to raise the boat to-morrow, when the true number of the dead can be

Later from California.

By the route through Mexico from Mazatlan to Vera Crutz, we have intelligence from San Francisco, California, to the 7th of March. A couple of very interesting letters into by the schooner Noah Brown, which in the N.O. Picayune, furnish us with the subjoined information respecting matters in SAN FRANCISCO, March 2. I have been on shore but a short time. and am heartily surprised with everything prices, and every lot holder is worth from fifty to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. There is an unnatural and fictitious be corrected. Merchandise and labor are extraordinarily high.

In relation to the mines, there is unquestionably an abundant supply of gold, and it is continually discovered in new places.— The gold, region is now believed to extend down as low as Lower California. There are two or three firms who monopolize the business of the place, whose original employment was selling their goods by retail to the natives, and taking their pay in tallow and hides—the former shipped to the drowned. Another lady was released from United States, and the latter to Valparaiso. Since the fever broke out, they have used through the deck, and an effort made to their money in speculation and buying goods from vessels, which arrive in abundance from Mexico, Chili, Peru, the Sandwich Islands, &c.

The steamer will be detained here a month, for a supply of coal.

There are not houses enough to contain George Meitzler* us in the town, and I shall camp out in the B. Yoder* neighborhood with some friends who came John Schall* general danger. The mother was landed at on in the steamer. Some few buildings are going up, but very few, as carpenter's wages are eight to ten dollars per day.

sand dollars. Wages of servants $150 to $200 per month, and in the course of two or three weeks, when it will be seasonable weather to go to the mines, none will be had at any price. You may judge what a state of things exist when common laborers can go to the mines and return in a month or six weeks with from one to three thousand dollars in gold. It is yet too early for the mass to start to the mines, the weather having been very inclement. We intend to go up to the mines and see the purpose. The great difficulty is in procuring conveyance. The price of passage to Sutter's Fort is $25 cach. and $5 per cwt. for baggage and provisions. We have an idea of buying a whale-boat; the price is $700, From Sutters's Fort to the Stanislaus the transportation is difficult and expensive, as a team of two oxen and wagon earn $100 per day.

Gold is selling at $14 per ounce, but is taken in trade at $16. It is worth in Valparaiso $18, and would nett in the States

$17, all expenses paid. Captains of coasters are much in the habit of destroying letters to avoid carrying mercantile information.
