Foreign Intelligence. Arrival of the Hibernia.

The Hibernia, Captain Stone, after a very rough passage, arrived at Halifax on the 3d of November, with 7 days later intelligence. TURKEY AND RUSSIA.

There is no later news, in the European Times, (the only paper has come to hand) from Constantinople or St. Petersburg, and of course, we have got no solution of the difficulty between the Porte and the Autocrat, the general belief, however, among well informed circles, is said to be that Russia will made about 13 miles and then laid down to pocket the affront rather than provoke a collision with France and England.

There is a rumor from Paris, that in consequence of the relation in which Louis Naleon stands with the Czar, he would gladly forego the support of the nation in behalf of Turkey. A correspondent, writing from Belgrade on the 1st inst., states that the Hungarian refugees were still at Widden, ready to set out for the destinations they may receive. They were divided into three camps-an Italian, a Hungarian, and a Polish one. Each camp is under the order of rations according to his grade, like the Brit-

FRANCE. The deliberations of the National Assembly were almost wholly devoted, on the 12th right down under the sun and could go no and 13th ult., to the report of M. Thiers on further. All was done that could be done B. F. Stroud, of Catasauqua, to Miss Hunthe Roman question. the latter ought to give way.

It is not believed that the views of M. Thiers will be responded to by the French nation, and it is certain that both the matter and style of the report are very unsatisfactory to the President of the Republic.

At a Ministerial Council had subsequently, it was decided that the Government would follow exclusively the policy laid down in the letter of the President of the affairs of Rome; the effect of which resolution will be, it is said, to cause M. Falloux and General Rulhieres, immediately to retire from the Ministry. No action had taken place on the part of the Assembly, to indicate the views of the majority on the report of M. Thiers; but there was a rumor from Paris, on Thursday, that the difficulty between M. Thiers and the President had been satisfactory adjusted.

The perfects of M Thiers state that there are seventy departments in which Red Republicanism is spreading to an alarming ex-

AUSTRIA AND HUNGARY. A treaty between Austria and Prussia was signed at Vienna Sept. 30th, and ratified by Prussia on the 10th ult., which provides that Austria and Prussia should assume the administration of the Central Power of the German Confederation, in the name of all the Governments of the Confederation, until the 1st of May, 1850, unless this power be transferred to a definite power before that period.

General Haynau, in his administration of the military affairs of Hungary, loses no opportunity to preserve the bloody epithet that has been so universally applied to him. He has thus far succeeded in murdering, under the guise of a court-marshall, thirteen Hungarian generals, who delivered themselves up at the close of the war, and induced their soldiers to lay down their arms; and to make the tragedy display a suitable denauement. Count Bathyany, the Prime Minister of Hungary, has been shot, under circumstances which forever will make the Austrian name synonymous with cruelty. treachery and dishonor. To render, the last hour of this brave and accomplished nobleman as bitter as possible, he was sentenced to a malefactor's instead of a brave soldiers

To avoid the agony of a halter, the wife of the patriot had a dagger conveyed to him in his linen, with which to anticipate his doom. The Count did not succeed in the suicide, but his throat, was so much injured by the wound he had inflicted, that he prevented his murderers from strangling him with a cord. He fell, pierced to the heart by the bullets of Austrian soldiers, his last words being "My Country forever" Some ladies of the highest class endeavored to dip their hands with the blood of the fallen patriot, but were prevented by the Austrian bayonets.

A letter from Remin, dated October 10th, says that the Austrian General, Kurlab, had arrived at Widden, from which the dates reached to the 6th inst., with a letter from Gen. Haynaw to the Pacha, by which the Hungarian refugees, from the sergeants downwards, are pardoned, in consequence of which the greater part of them returned to Hungary. Gen. Kurlab then proceeded to Constantinople. Several hundred officers of those furnished with passports from Comorn, have passed through Rerlin, on their way to the West. Terrible Sufferings of Gold-Seekers.

I am at last in the gold region and will attempt a description of my tedicus journey here. We arrived at Stockton after a fair passage, remained there a few days, and then started for this place. In coming here we crossed an arid plain of 32 miles-no vegatation, no shade, no water, except what we carried with us, and one of the hottest days I ever experienced; after taking on each of our backs some 60 or 70 lbs. and filling a little keg of water, some fifteen of rest our exhausted frames on the ground, with but a single blanket each for covering. The second day we traveled but 5 miles in the morning, and 5 or 6 in the evening. This day a man by the name of Hunt, from Massachusetts, gave out and could go no farther. As he was out of water I let him wet his lips with mine, and some others did the same; but all we could do to revive him proved unavailing. He was determined to die, and we to save our own lives were oblidged to leave him as our stock of water was getting very short. We had some 12 a colonel, and each man receives such daily or 15 miles to travel before we came to a river. I never shall forget the scene of leaving that poor man to die on the barren plain; but that was nothing to what follow-to a few drops. At 110'clock the sun was pouring down with unheard-of intensity, and not a breath of air stirring, when another very fine young man from New-Hamp ment for, on our short acquaintance, and when we were within 7 or 8 miles of the river, as near as we could judge, wilted . Ney. The conclusion at which M. we were about to leave him I hope never keep up courage, that we would go to the river where there was a tent, and that we would bring up something to carry him on and would be back as soon as possible; so we bid him good-bye and started. Before we reached the river I felt myself as if I must surely fail, but I knew if I gave out at all it was to die, and when such thoughts as halting came over me I would arouse as from a sound sleep. I never experienced such feelings. I think death from heat or Anna Dillinger, both of Upper Milford. exhaustion would be an easy one. Before ve got to the river two more dropped, but the survivors could do nothing for them, but were oblidged to press forward towards the river in order to save their own lives. We at last arrived in sight of the long-lookedfor river, and such feelings of joy as we ex-

We put him on a mule, and one of the other two was so weak that he could not sit alone, and so we trudged back to the tent, found an Indian blanket, sewed him up in it and buried him. I staid at the river two days to recruit, then came on to this place. There is one other route to cross this plain where there is water in one place, but we got on the wrong road and unfortunately missed it.

We arrived here on Thursday, and, looking about among the miners and making all two Harrows, Winnowing-mill, Cutting-box, the inquiries we could, found that this place a new patent Cultivator, a common Cultivator, a the inquiries we could, found that this place had been pretty well used up; it has been very rich, but now every crevice is dug to the bottom. In the evening I fell in with a Mr. Van Benschoten from New York who has a store here. He said that his partner had been out two or three days prospecting, and if he brought favorable news e would let me know; so while waiting or him I concluded, with two men from Schooharie Co. to go to work. When we had dug about three feet down a man came along who offered us an ounce for our place. We took it, and looked for another. We worked until last night, then weighed our earnings, and found we had $5 04 after working a day and a half. Digging does not pay here. There are about 1,000 Chilians and Mexicans in this place, who are satisfied with from three to five dollars a day, and spend it all gambling at night. They are the only men making money here. l'o-morrow we go to another digging, where this Mr. Van Benschoten goes with his store. Whether we shall be fortunate or not remains to be seen. The work is very hard. $1 per day in New York is better than $10 here. 81 a lb. for flour, $1 for pork, $1. for ham, 6s. for sugar, 6s. for coffee, 12s. for a meal, and all in that ratio.

A Romantic Elopement Story.

 Λ romantic elopement story is told by the ed at that place, as follows:

On Friday it was discovered by the father that his daughter had made an 'arrange-ment' to leave him, to marry a man he had forbidden her hand, and he was determined to keep 'an eye' on her. It had been arranged, and her father had found it out, and he knew it, that the young lady should meet the young gentleman and lover together at a certain place in a carriage, and go to Covington. After dinner, the father was asked, much to his surprise, to accompany his daughter to the very place of meeting which had been appointed, and they were to start at 4 o'clock! So, the father went about his business till the appointed time-returning, he found his daughter had

In vain he sought her, but knowing they would cross the ferry, he stationed himself on it, and hailed every carriage that passed, According to Lloyd's, Hungary is to be but no daughter. At length an empty carboat before! He was accompanied by a youthful looking personage in male attire. The ferry boat passed over, and the carriage stopped at the foot of the hill for the driver to arrange the harness (all pretext) and the ragged boy and the companion waited there until the boat again shoved off to return to this side. Then the disguised lovers jumped into the carriage, rode to the' priest, threw off their disguise, were mar-ried, and returned to the ferry on their way home. The young lady met her father, who was still on watch, and told him what had been done, and how he was cheated by the ragged boy and herself in boy's clothes and then she mildly asked papa's pardon, which, reluctantly, was granted, and the bride, bridegroom and the old gentleman, rode home together, making an end to an elopement quite agreeable, seeing he could

These romances are of such frequent occurence in the Cincinatti papers, that the reporters trust to their own imagination for items, or the city must be overflowing with romantic misses and young gentlemen.
