

A Card.
To the Christian People, and all who revere the Bible in Pennsylvania.

About one year ago, the Managers of the Pennsylvania Bible Society addressed you a letter, informing you that they had pledged the Society to contribute three thousand dollars towards the distribution of the Word of Life in Foreign Lands. They felt assured that such a pledge would meet the approbation of the great Christian constituency whom they represent. With devout gratitude to the Author of every good and perfect gift, they now report that their action was most promptly and nobly sanctioned by the response of God's people throughout the Commonwealth. Ample contributions to enable them to meet that pledge were at once poured into our Treasury. And though the Home supply has not been at all remitted, the Managers found the Society, at the close of its business year, in a better financial condition than ever before. The divine blessing manifestly rested on their new enterprise; and they became emboldened by the favor of God and his people, to distinguish the present year by another and increased pledge to the same holy cause. They have, therefore, resolved to appropriate for expenditure in the Foreign field, the increased sum of five thousand dollars.

The object of this address is to apprise you of the obligation we have assumed. Admonished by the past, we feel that we have but enacted your will in undertaking this duty; and, if in this expression of the supposed sentiment of our constituents, we have erred, we apprehend it has been in having counted no more largely upon the Faith and Charity of the Christian brotherhood in this noble and productive State. It is indeed true, that the aspect of the political world is not so promising of a free circulation of the Sacred Scriptures throughout nominal Christendom as it was a twelve month ago. It seemed then that the rod of the oppressor was about to be broken forever, and that, in all future time, Christian liberty and light were to be disseminated without restraint. Philantropists in this land girded themselves for the duty which appeared opening before them in every quarter of the habitable world. But by the inscrutable Providence of God, these prospects so radiant with promise, have since become somewhat obscured. The times, it now appears, are not yet fulfilled. How prolonged is to be this relapse in the flowing tide of civil and religious liberty, it is not for us to say. We have a plain present duty to discharge; and, by its efficient performance, may do much to dissipate the gloom which now overcasts the future. The freedom with which the Bible might be distributed throughout Europe is not yet materially abridged. Despotism and darkness are mounting again to their thrones; but they have not yet fairly resumed the sceptre and shut out the light. It is believed that there has never been a wider field of operation than that which now invites the its gracious truth to dispense abroad. We have reason to fear that our day of opportunity in certain districts of Christendom is on the decline. We know not when the night cometh" nor how long it shall abide. Let us work then while it is called to-day, doing what our hand findeth to do with our might. The forebodings which now afflict us, while we contemplate the deeds that millions of men claiming to be free have suffered within the last months, ought not to paralyze, but rather to stimulate our immediate efforts. Let us disseminate throughout the borders of their habitation the precious seed of divine truth so extensively, that it can never be rooted out. Let us apply ourselves to introduce into those unhappy countries, before the door shall be shut, that comforting and elevating word, which can soothe and sanctify the oppressed through the period of their suffering—and enable and fit them for freedom, when the hour of deliverance shall arrive. We know not what a day may bring forth. There is still "distress of nations with perplexity." The ferment of civil strife though arrested, has not yet subsided. Let our Institutions for doing be kept in condition for the most prompt and efficient action—supplied with ample funds, and ready a day's notice to put all their instrumentalities in force. When any considerable kingdom is in a state of agitation which may possibly involve war, every government in the civilized world, whose interests may be affected by its changes, at once has its arms pointed to meet any emergency. Let us emulate their forecast, and be as much alert to do good, as rival Dynasties ever are to do evil.

And, though the work in Christian Europe were entirely arrested, yet are there not enough still more degraded than those who receive a stunted Christianity, to task our zeal and means to the utmost, that we may relieve their heathen darkness with the light of Life? Surely there can never be lacking fields for Christian effort in the distribution of God's word, while Five Hundred Millions of the living generation do not even " profess and call themselves Christians." India and China are open; and through them the hordes of Central Asia may be reached. The colonies of Western and Southern Africa are inlets whereby the renovating power of truth may overrun the wastes of that vast Continent. Mahomedism no longer has a citadel wherein Christianity may not come and confront it. It will be time enough, to remit our efforts, when the Crescent of the false prophet shall have waned, and faded away in the light of the Sun of righteousness—when the Brahmins of the East shall have yielded their power to the Great High Priest of our profession—and when Ethiopia shall be seen stretching forth her hands unto God!

Brethren, we have thus uttered our " message from God unto you." "What thou doest, do quickly." We send this our appeal to our Auxiliaries, for such distribution and use in their respective districts; as shall be judged best by their officers; and upon them we urge promptness and vigor of action. Where collections can be had from assembled congregations, why not, with the consent of the Church authorities, solicit them at once? And let all that may be contributed by churches or by individuals, reach us through the Treasuries of Auxiliary Societies in the several districts wherein such contributions may be made.

We cannot for a moment indulge the apprehension that the Christian people of this Commonwealth will turn a deaf ear to the facts and considerations here presented.

The Rev. J. J. Aiken, at Pittsburg, and the Rev. S. N. Howell, are the general agents of the Society, in the Western and Eastern districts of the State, and as far as possible, will give their co-operation to any effort the friends of the Bible may make in their respective fields.

Please make all remittances of money to John W. Claghorn, Treasurer, Phila. On behalf of the Board of Managers of the Pennsylvania Bible Society, M. A. DE WOLFE HOWE, Com'ee.

Speech of Col. Baker.
Gentlemen when you threaten disunion, we shall doubt—when you protest, we shall disclaim, but no fervid declamations, no fiery appeals to southern feelings, no solemn invocations addressed to the Almighty, (as it is indeed, we were a God of disunion,) will make us believe that here in this hall there is one man who chambers in his secret heart a purpose so accursed and so deadly. Sir, we do not believe the Union can ever be dissolved. No evidence shall convince us till the deed is done. Yet, if such a thing be possible, it shall not be our fault. We shall not shrink from the calm expression of our deliberate judgment. We are here as freemen, to speak for freemen, and we will speak and act as becomes us in the face of the world and of prosperity. Gentlemen, who is there among us, amid all this talk of disunion, that does not love the Union? Is there a man in this vast assemblage who on the coolest reflection, would not give his blood to cement it? Is not this our country, and is not all our country? [Applause.] Sir, I confess this response gladdens my heart; and already I re-approach myself that I could waver in my confidence but for a moment. It was a mournful spectacle to a true-minded man, when threats of disunion, fierce and bitter, could draw forth shouts of applause from gentlemen on the other side of this House as triumphant as if disunion were glory, and as if indeed, the threat were already accomplished. And yet, sir, the echo contradicts the utterance. This shout for the Union will be taken up among the masses, till it becomes perpetual anthem of hope and joy. It will swell amid the mountains of the North, and travel with the winds across the prairies of the West.

It will reverberate through all the vast extension of the confederacy, and be repeated in the name of the men of the North, so rudely attacked—and speaking what I know to be their sentiments—I say a dissolution of this Union is, must be, shall be impossible, as long as an American heart beats in an American bosom, or the Almighty sends his wisdom and his goodness to guide us and to bless us.

From Oregon.
The Indiana State Sentinel has a letter from Judge Bryant, of Oregon, which contains some interesting intelligence from that new country, though the date of the letter (Aug. 18) is not so late by more than a month as our own advices. The territorial Legislature was in session, and the Judge says the body is composed of men of sense who will understand the wants of the people of the territory. Several of them have filled important stations in the States. The Indian tribes were generally quiet. The Judge continues:

I was up the Willamette valley as far as the Calapooz settlements. I never saw a richer valley of land, and the mountain scenery is captivating. The health of the country is good, and the harvest is abundant. This is the greatest country for wheat on the continent. I have never seen finer wheat grown than we have this year in Oregon, not near all of which will be saved for want of laborers. The ordinary wages for laborers in the harvest field is $6 per day to each man. Every kind of labor commands nearly any price asked for it. The Packers, in advance of emigration, arrived to-day. They report 8,000 wagons on the road; about 2,000 bound for this territory, the residue for California. The cholera had been fatal out from Missouri to Blue river, about 400 miles; about 700 deaths, and had abated; but there was much sickness of fevers among the emigrants and some deaths. We anticipate much sickness and distress among the land emigration. The packers are of opinion that they are rushing and pressing their cattle so hard in order to get out to the mines, that they will break them down. I hope there will not be sufficient emigration come here to make us a famine.

Our people are returning from California every day with large sums of gold, the product of the mines. It will surprise you I dare say to learn the trade of the Columbia river this year, in comparison with what it has heretofore been. I have before me a statement showing the arrivals and departures of vessels coming in and going out with freight over the Columbia Bar, which has heretofore been considered impassable. Since the 8th of May, ships of every size, from 10 tons to 700 tons burden, amounting to fifty-eight up to the 18th of this month, and not a single accident of a serious character has happened. The lumber trade of the river is quite an important trade; so of the wheat and flour.

The Legislature were this evening engaged in devising means to alleviate the sufferings of the emigrants. Many of them will not be able to get through, it is believed, will the best assistance we can give them.

We have no paper published in this territory. It turns out that there are several good harbors on the coast below the mouth of the Columbia river, although it has heretofore been reported an iron bound coast.

The Holydays are now approaching, and all are preparing for them. In making presents let no gentleman forget himself, but let him go to once and procure a suit of handsome clothes at Shepherd's, so that he may make a good appearance at Christmas.

HORSES.—We would call the attention of that portion of our readers who are in any way interested with horses, to the advertisement in another column descriptive of the celebrated medicine called Merchants Gargling Oil. From the peculiar nature of the article, and the unparalleled success it has met within the hands of those who have the care of horses, it is but justice to say, that of the great number of medicines which have been offered, none have been so well adapted to the prompt cure of most diseases to which horses are liable. A pamphlet of description may be had GRATIS of the Agent,

REVOLUTION IN PERIODICAL LITERATURE. HOLDEN'S Illustrated Dollar Magazine.
To be commenced on the First of January 1850, will comprise many important improvements on the best periodical publications of the country as it certainly is the cheapest. Among these improvements will be new and beautiful type, fine calendered paper, a higher order of illustrations than those heretofore given, and contributions from some of the ablest writers in America. It is the aim of the Proprietor to publish a Popular Magazine, adapted to the wants of all classes of reading people in the Republic, which shall be both instructive and amusing, and free alike from the grossness which characterizes much of the cheap literature of the day, and from the superiority of the "Ladies Magazine." The illustrations will consist of Original Drawings engraved on wood by the best Artists; Portraits of remarkable persons and views of remarkable places, illustrated by pen and pencil. A strict revision will be exercised that no improper article, or word, shall ever be admitted, so that the safety of children by persons of the utmost refinement, and read at the fire-side for the amusement or instruction of the family circle.

The Review department of the Magazine will contain brief critical notices of all the new publications of the day, and will form a complete critical and literary index of the literary and scientific world. From the business and literary connexions already established, that best assistance that the country can afford will be secured for completing the plans of the publisher, and nothing will be wanting that ample pecuniary resources and watchful industry can obtain to make the Magazine the leading literary periodical of America. The extremely low rate at which it is published precludes the hope of profit, except a circulation greater than that which any literary periodical has ever yet attained; but, with the new avenues daily opening for the circulation of works of merit; the constantly increasing population of the country; the cheapness of the Magazine, and the superiority of its literary and artistic attractions to those of any other work now issued, the proprietor fearlessly engaged in an enterprise which will be sure to benefit the public if it should not enrich himself.

The Magazine will be under the Editorial charge and supervision of Charles F. Briggs—who has been connected with it from the beginning. The "Pictorial Portraits," a series of Biographical Sketches, accompanied by well engraved Portraits of Eminent Divines of the American churches, which have formed a conspicuous feature of "HOLDEN'S" will be continued in the succeeding Volume of the Magazine, and will render it of peculiar value to religious people of every denomination.

The Fifth Volume will commence on the First of January next, but will be issued on the 15th of December. Each number will consist of 64 Pages, and numerous engravings. The Terms are
One Dollar a Year

In Advance; the Magazine will be plainly and carefully directed and sent by mail "at the risk of the subscriber." As each number will be a re-issued copy of the last number, it can be at any time supplied when ordered, but will be deducted from the time for which payment has been received. Remittances may be sent at the risk of the Proprietor, provided a description of the bills are taken, and enclosed in the presence of the Post Master, as evidence of the fact.
Five copies will be furnished for $4 and 50 copies for $15. Nos. for the year 1849, excepting the month of January, will be furnished at 4 cents each, and Bound Volumes in cloth with gilt edge, from July to December inclusive, at $1 each.

Newspaper Publisher, who will insert this prospectus four times, and notice the Magazine monthly, will receive a Bound Volume for the year 1849, and an exchange for the coming year; they are requested to send only those papers in which the Prospectus and notices appear. Letters must be addressed to "Holden's Dollar Magazine, No. 109 Nassau Street, New York, and post-paid in all cases."
W. H. METZ,
Proprietor.
