

Further Particulars of the 'Griffith'.

Buffalo, June 18, 1850. The names of the greater portion of those who perished on the ill-starred steamer Griffith, will probably never be known, as the register of passengers was lost, among other books. It appears from the most reliable information that can be obtained, there were over 300 souls on board at the time of the accident. The number of steerage passengers is stated to have been 261, and about 40 in the cabin. The crew consisted of 26. It appears but one female escaped from the burning boat, and not one of the children on board the boat was saved. The Griffith was bound from this port to Sandusky and Toledo. It may be safely estimated that two hundred and fifty lives were lost! When the Troy left, there were one hundred and fifty dead bodies lying on the beach. It was a sight which appalled the stoutest hearts. The Griffith was a new boat of medium dimensions, and of excellent character with the travelling public. She had just been purchased by Captain Roby, a worthy officer, who had entered in command of her. This we think, was his first trip, and it has proved fatal to himself and an interesting family, all of whom fell victims to the fire or flood.

ASHTABULA, June 17, 1850. By Mr. C. Spencer, of Ashtabula, who was a passenger on the Griffith, we learn the following: I saved myself by swimming ashore. There were 300 passengers on board, and out of that number 50 were saved. The steamer was about three-fourths of a mile east of Cleveland. The fire was supposed to have originated from the boilers or the furnace. The passengers were thick around the boat, and a great many that could not swim, would hold on to others and drown them as well as themselves. It was a sorrowful and heart-rending scene. The manner in which I got out of their way was by jumping about 20 feet into the water and took directly out into the lake, and then swam up a little distance to get out of the reach of others, and to prevent them pulling me down; I then swam for the shore. There were about 5,000 people on shore when I reached it, from Cleveland, Willoughby, Painesville and Fairport.

Important from New Mexico.

We received the important intelligence, (via Texas) that Robert S. Neighbors, styling himself commissioner of the State of Texas, has proceeded to Santa Fe, with the view of organizing counties in that district, under the authority of Texas, returned from Mexico with a very fat flea in his right ear, bringing the useful intelligence that he has been unable to organize the County of Santa Fe, by reason (as he says) of the interference of the U. S. Military there, and that Col. Atmore, in pursuance of fresher orders from Washington, has issued a call for a Convention of the People of New Mexico to meet at Santa Fe in May (not past) and form a State Constitution! And there is no doubt of the ready obedience of the New-Mexicans to this call. This is altogether the most important and gratifying news we have received for a long time. True though we long, impatiently, and for a time confidently, expected just such advice, we cannot yet reconcile them with the drift of Gen. Taylor's new Special Message, but we are very ready to waive that. If the Administration is fairly, fully, openly committed to the Independence of New-Mexico and the maintenance of her territorial integrity, we are with it heart and soul. Much precious time has been lost, but by frankness, energy and determination all may be regained. There will of course be a new call on the President for information, and we look for an answer very different in tone and bearing from that of Monday.

When it comes, look out for hurricanes in Congress! All we have yet had are nothing to them. If what Col. Munroe is reported to have done is avowed and justified by the President, the "divorce" between him and the last remnant of the Slavery Propaganda will be complete. We await with interest, but no longer with fear, the developments of the ensuing month. The sky brightens! Rejoice friends of Freedom! and press onward!

Fifteen days later from California.

The U. S. mail steamer Crescent City, Captain Stoddard, from Congress arrived at New York about 12 o'clock on Sunday night, bringing intelligence from San Francisco to the 15th May, $250,000 in gold dust, and 150 passengers. The steamer Isthmus arrived at Panama on the 16th inst., having left San Francisco on the 15th of May. She brought the mail, $300,000 in gold dust, and one hundred and thirty-four passengers. Reports from the mining portions of the country, both north and south, continue to be of the most favorable nature. The general state of health at the placers is also good. The citizens of Sacramento City are taking measures to protect their town from future overflow, by constructing a levee. It is done at the expense of the city. Another most destructive fire occurred in San Francisco, on the morning of the 4th of May, which reduced full one-third of the city to ashes. The loss is set down at $500,000. It is thought to be the work of an incendiary. A reward of $5,000 has been offered for his apprehension. Enlargement of Society.—We are pleased to notice by the arrivals from sea on Saturday, the appearance of some fifty or sixty of the fairer sex in full bloom. They are from all quarters—some from Yankee-land, some from John Bull country, and quite a constellation from merry France. One Frenchman brings twenty—all, they say, beautiful! The boy was dotted by bottles of young men, on the announcement of this extraordinary importation.—California paper.

"Employ your Pen."—This counsel is far from being superfluous. There is a marvellous power in writing down what we know. It fixes the thoughts; reveals our ignorance; methodizes our knowledge; aids our memory; and insures command of language. "Men acquire more knowledge," says Bishop Jewell, "by a frequent exercising of their pens, than by the reading of books."

The President and Mr. Clay.—The report of a bad state of feeling between President Taylor and Mr. Clay, can scarcely be well founded. The crowds of visitors to the President's square, the two last Saturdays, were gratified to notice these eminent gentlemen exchanging courtesies, and engaged in free and frank conversation. The incident on both occasions, was noticed by the friends of both with decided marks of satisfaction.

Milwaukee.—The growth of Milwaukee, one of the Lake cities, has been quite remarkable. Twelve years ago its population consisted of 700 inhabitants. Now, the population is about 20,000. In 1815, the exports of wheat were 95,510 bushels, and of flour 7550 bbls. In 1849, the exports of wheat were 1,138,807 bushels, and of flour 231,932 barrels. During the present year there has been a large increase.

Would not kneel.—On reading a letter from Italy in the N. York Commercial, which states that Mr. Cass, our Charge at Rome, on paying his congratulatory visit to Pius IX, at the Vatican, did not kneel and kiss the Pope's slipper, as was done by the other Foreign Ministers. To a rejoinder from his brother diplomatists against this breach of etiquette, he replied, that as a representative of a large and glorious republican government, he could not kneel to any monarch on earth; and as a Protestant he certainly could not perform such an act of homage to the Popacy.

Chemical Affinity.—This law in Chemistry, is remarkably illustrated in the restoration of the equilibrium between the supply and waste in diseased animal matter through the agency of G. W. Merchant's Celebrated Gargling Oil. It is well known that chemical action takes place only under certain circumstances; that some bodies have no tendency to unite chemically; and that others strongly influence each other's properties. The former are said to have no affinity for each other, their mixture is merely mechanical, and no change takes place. The latter class of bodies, in which is included the Gargling Oil, in its application to morbid animal matter, act by their affinity for each other; their action being productive of chemical phenomena, and the properties of one or both are altered. Hence the strong affinity of the constituents of the Gargling Oil to unite with the elements of the morbid matter, may be referred to the beneficial influence exerted over so great a variety of diseases, most of which were considered as incurable. This advertisement may be found in another column.

Advertising.—There is no fact better understood than that excellence of any kind in any business will not be rewarded unless it is advertised, while, by a liberal system of advertising, the public are soon enabled to test a man's merits and reward them accordingly. A well-known instance of this is to be found at Shepherd's cheap and fashionable clothing store, in Chesnut street above Third, which is now universally known as the best establishment of the kind in the great city of Philadelphia.
