BLACK BEAR HOTEL,
William Fry,
Successor to Housum & Schroyer,
No. 211 1/2 NORTH THIRD STREET,
Between Callowhill and Willow Streets,
PHILADELPHIA.
The undersigned respectfully informs his many friends and the public in general, that he has lately rented the Tavern Stand, No. 211 1/2 North Third Street, between Callowhill and Willow streets, well known in this section of the country, as the
Black Bear Hotel
which establishment he has fitted up in a superior style, and is now ready to accommodate all those who may favor him with their custom. The building is large and commodious, and is admirably arranged to suit the convenience of all persons who may favor him with a call for a long or short time.
His yard is large, and his stabling commodious, and an attentive hostler will at all times be found in attendance.
By punctual attendance to his customers, and a desire to render them comfortable, the proprietor expects a share of public patronage.

Stuttering and Stammering CURED!
In from Five to Twenty Minutes.
THE Undersigned would respectfully announce to the citizens of Lehigh and the adjoining counties, that he has located himself in New York for the purpose of
EFFECTUALLY CURING
persons who are troubled with
STUTTERING OR STAMMERING.
So confident is he of success, that no pay will be required until the utmost satisfaction is given. His method is so easy, that any child five years old may understand it, and yet so efficient, that he will forfeit One Thousand Dollars to any person who will stammer and apply to it.
Dr. J. V. Wyckoff,
No. 37 Chambers St., New York
P. S. For further testimonies as to the efficacy of his method, he refers to the Medical Faculty of New York, who witnessed the application upon a gentleman, who was an inveterate stammerer, and had been operated upon by other Physicians, without the least benefit, and astonishing as it may seem, Dr. Wyckoff cured him in 20 minutes, that he was able to speak and read with ease, without hesitation or semblance of Stammering.
The Doctor also has over One Hundred Certificates of cures performed, among which are several medical gentlemen.
N. B. All letters of inquiry, (post-paid) will be promptly answered by naming the Post Office and State where they reside.

Brandreth's Pills, FOR THE CURE OF Consumption, Coughs, Colds, &c., TO THE PUBLIC!
THOSE who are suffering from remitting or Intermittent Bilious Complaints, should read the following, and be guided thereby:
Cause of Pain.—Pain is the consequence of the exertion of the organ or part where it is present to throw off morbid or corrupt humors, for no pain can exist but from the presence of those matters which are of an unhealthy character. When we have pain in the head, in the bowels, or in any other part of the body, it only proves the presence of matters which the blood is trying to remove, and it is this struggle which is the occasion of pain. To be bled, only removes the anguish in proportion as the amount of life is reduced, and the same may be said of all lulling or soothing remedies. Not so with Brandreth's Pills; they at once go to the assistance of the blood in aiding it to discharge bad humors, to conquer the Death Principle. To relieve pain in this way does not leave any bad effects. The Life Principle is not reduced, nor are the teeth destroyed; but all the organs are cleansed and their health insured.
The above Pills are for sale by the dozen or single box at the Register Office in Allentown.
January 10. 1-1y.

PROCLAMATION.
WHEREAS, the Hon. J. Pringle Jones President of the several Courts of Common Pleas of the Third Judicial District, composed of the counties of Northampton and Lehigh, State of Pennsylvania, and Justice of the several Courts of Oyer and Terminer and general Jail delivery, and Peter Hans, and John F. Ruhe, Esqrs., Judges of the Courts of Oyer and Terminer and general Jail delivery, for the trial of all capital offenders in the said county of Lehigh. By their precepts to me directed, have ordered the court of Oyer and Terminer and General Jail Delivery, to be holden at Allentown, county of Lehigh, on the First Monday in September 1850, which is the 2nd day of said month, and will continue one week.
Notice is therefore hereby given to the Justices of the Peace and Constables of the county of Lehigh, that they are by the said precepts commanded to be there at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, of said day, with their rolls, records, inquisitions, examinations, and all other remembrances, to do these things which to their offices appertain to be done, and all those who are bound by recognizances to prosecute against the prisoners that are or then shall be in the jail of said county of Lehigh, are to be then and there to prosecute them as shall be just.
Given under my hand in Allentown, the 4th day of July, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and fifty.
God save the Commonwealth.
CHARLES HIRRE, Sheriff.
Sheriff's Office Allentown, 1-1c

Poetical Department.
From Holden's Dollar Magazine.
Evening Hymn.
Lord of the stars of night! Thy love Is ever beaming from above! Thy name is written in the sky, In characters that cannot die.
They are appointed to make bright, The silent corridors of night; And from the chambers of the west, To beckon me away to rest.
For if the realms of endless space Are Thine eternal Dwelling-place, Surely, Thou art upon the light Of thy bright seraph of the night.
And if thou art upon that sphere, I know that Thou art with me here— Giving the very life to me By which my soul now worships Thee.
Then, in the fulness of Thy power, Pour on the offering of this hour The healing incense of Thy love, And lift my sacrifice above.

Miscellaneous Selections.
The Poor Relation.
"Will you tell me," said a stranger, inquiring at the door of a descendant of the Worthingtons, "where the dwelling of Thomas Worthington, Esq. is?"
"It is that noble edifice which you see yonder beyond the long row of factories." "The inquirer moved slowly on, apparently scarcely able to sustain himself, from physical infirmity. He was met at the outer gate by a servant.
"Will you tell your master that a distant relation, from across the water, who has experienced many misfortunes desires to see him?"
The servant returned, and ushered the traveller into the outer hall; and in a few minutes, the owner of the mansion appeared.
"I am, sir, your supplicant," said the stranger, "you doubtless recollect that a brother of your mother, residing in Scotland, had many sons. Misfortunes have thickened upon one of them, he is poor, and from recent loss of every thing by shipwreck, is now penniless. He begs a lodging at your hands, and something wherewith to clothe his almost naked frame."
"I have nothing to give to stragglers," said the lord of the mansion. "Most persons like you are impostors."
"I am no impostor," said the petitioner, "here is a proof, that I am not," taking a letter from the American consul from his pocket; "but I am your unfortunate cousin; and if you will but believe my impressing wants, Providence may put it in my power to reward your kindness."
"I repeat, I have nothing to give; and I should advise you to get some daily work to supply your wants."
The stranger heaved a deep sigh, and left the house. He tottered on. It was impossible to pass many dwellings, without encountering one owned and occupied by a Worthington, or his descendant. He called on many, told his misfortunes, and solicited relief; but all were deaf to his petitions, and most of them shut the door in his face.
Late in the evening, an old Quaker gentleman, who accidentally heard the "poor relation's" story, while passing the door of one of the Worthingtons' offered him a lodging and some supper. He went with the benevolent old gentleman; and, on the following morning, he again wandered forth to renew his call of the day before. It was observed that he was very particular not to neglect to call upon every son of the deceased Mr. Worthington. He expended several days in this way, but every where there appeared the undisguised dread of a "poor relation."
At length he sought the magnificent mansion of the Honorable Benjamin Worthington, which was situated about two miles from the village of Weckford. It stood upon a commanding eminence, which overlooked the village, and was justly regarded as one of the most delightful rural retreats the country could boast. After going through the usual ceremonies of the door, he was introduced to the business office of the "Oaklands Mansion." Presently the Hon. Mr. Worthington appeared. The stranger revere his solicitations for relief, and his claim as a relation; but here, too he met nothing but coldness and neglect.
"Then," said the stranger, "if you'll not relieve the wants of your most unfortunate cousin, perhaps I can tell you something that will move your pity. You had a brother Thomas, who many long years ago mysteriously disappeared."
"Yes," said the honorable gentleman; "but he is no doubt dead, long and long ago."
"He is not dead," said the stranger; "but after an age of misery and misfortune, has returned in poverty and rags; and now solicits you to feed him."
"Impossible!" exclaimed the Hon. Mr. Worthington.

"Here is a mark upon my arm, received by a burn when a child, which proves the truth of what I say," said the long lost son.
Horror seemed to convulse the frame of the Lord of the Oaklands.
"Take this note," said he, "go to the Swan Hotel, a small tavern directly upon the road, about two miles beyond this, and I will come with some clothes, and money, to provide you a passage over the seas."
The stranger departed, but not to the Swan Inn did he bend his footsteps. He wandered to the confines of Weckford, where he was told a distant relation of the Worthingtons lived, in a small cottage a few miles beyond. Here he resolved to make himself once more known. He did so, and found the inmate the widow of a cousin who had come to this country, and settled many years before, in a neighboring seaport. He had died leaving a very small property to his widow and an only child. Mrs. Almira Perley—for this was the name of the young widow, was overjoyed to see a relative of her dear husband, although in rags. She bade him welcome to her table; provided some proper clothing for him at once, and with a sweet smile that added new pleasure to the effort, she proffered him a home beneath her humble cottage, until he could find one more congenial. The poor stranger accepted the favor of the kind-hearted widow, with becoming thankfulness, and remained under the roof a short time; but at length, suddenly and mysteriously disappeared.—Whither he had gone, this kind hostess knew not, and the rich Worthingtons took no pains to inquire. They were not a little delighted to be so easily rid of a "poor relation" who might have been a burthen and a shame; but most of all was rejoiced the Hon. Benjamin Worthington, to whom the disclosure of his relationship had been so alarming.
Time passed on, and the disappearance of the mendicant, was forgotten in the whirl of fashion, business and pleasure; although the honorable elder brother was now visited by a painful recollection of the unfortunate mark upon the arm of the returned wanderer.
It was a holiday in Weckford. Business was suspended, and the people were abroad participating in the pastimes of the day. A superb carriage with four white horses, and several servants in livery, drove through Pleasant Street, and stopped at the "Mansion House," the first hotel of Weckford. Parlors were taken in the name of Mr. Edward Perley and servants, from Scotland." Forthwith it went upon the wings of rumor, that the rich Mr. Perley had arrived from Scotland." As the Worthingtons were aware that the relations of their mother, were reputed to be very rich in Scotland, they gathered to the hotel in great numbers, to offer their respects, and solicit the pleasure of the Hon. Mr. Perley's acquaintance. Day after day, did the Worthingtons, and all the descendants, down to the lowest congenity of blood, pour into the Mansion House, to "beg the honor of the rich and Hon. Mr. Perley's visits." The carriage of the Hon. Benj. Worthington was out from the Oaklands, and the barouche of Edward Worthington Esq. from the "Worthington Mansion." There was neither end to the family outpouring, nor to the solicitude to bestow attentions. The stranger was polite in his replies; and at last, in return, he invited all his kind friends to honor him at his levee, at the mansion.
There was never such an outpouring of the Worthingtons. The great halls of the "Mansion House" were filled to repletion. All was gaiety, beauty, and fashion. It was a magnificent assemblage of the richest and most respectable families of the town; and each one was most anxious to outstrip the others in doing honor to the "rich and distinguished Mr. Perley, from abroad," when the "poor relation" made his appearance in the midst of the brilliant assembly, dressed in precisely the same clothes in which he wandered through the village, and holding in his hand the same uncouth stick, cut from the wilds, which supported his feeble steps from house to house!
It would be impossible to delineate the various countenances which were exhibited. We must leave the filling up of that picture to the imagination of the reader. It is only necessary to add, that the stranger was the long lost Thomas, who had made an immense fortune in the Indies. He now immediately took steps to carry out the will of his beloved parent, receiving all the property it gave him. In the year following, he purchased the delightful retreat of "Auburn Grove," where he erected a charming residence. He soon after led to the altar, the amiable and affectionate young widow Mrs. Almira Perley, who was not too proud to welcome him to her humble cottage, even though he appeared there in the borrowed tatters of poverty and misfortune. It was a lesson which is often repented by the villagers at Weckford, and will do no harm by being repeated elsewhere.
Old customs are rooted in and upheld by ignorance. Men cling to them because they are old, when, could they trace them to their origin, they would be ashamed to recognise them.
