The Slamese Twins.

Dr. Warren, of Boston, lately communicated the following among other interesting particulars in regard to the Slamese twins...

The connection between these twins might afford some very interesting observations in physiology, therapeutics, and pathology...

From the limited vascular nervous connection that can be discovered, Dr. Warren supposes that the influence of medicine, transmitted from one to the other, would be inconsiderable...

This harmony in corporeal functions would lead us to ask if there be a similar harmony in the intellectual functions...

They would come the question whether they could be separated with safety...
