

The Turkish Empire.

A very interesting article appears in the Boston Daily Advertiser, on the present condition of the Turkish Empire, showing the ameliorations which it has undergone during the reign of its present sovereign and that of his immediate predecessor. The article is presumed to be from the pen of Mr. Brown, who accompanied the Turkish Ambassador, Amin Bey, to this country.

He says the standing army of the Sultan is composed of about 120,000 men, divided into six corps, composed and commanded wholly by Mussulmen. Another corps is now being formed near Danube, on Hungarian frontier. Christians are exempted from military duty by the payment of a tax. The Sultan's navy is composed of from 80 to 90 vessels—of 2 three deckers, 11 seventy-fours, 15 frigates, 8 corvettes, 20 brigs and schooners, 6 steamers of from 400 to 450 horse power, and 14 others of various powers. Some of the best of these ships were built by Americans of New York, the late D. Eckford and F. Rhoads.

Steamers belonging to the Sultan and his officers ply between Constantinople and the southern shores of the Black Sea, Asia Minor, Syria, the Islands of the Archipelago, and Salonica; and through these facilities for travel, a new spirit for knowledge and inquiry is springing up among the most distant parts of the Empire. Steam is effecting important changes in the East. A large commerce has sprung up within a comparatively recent period between Turkey and Mesopotamia. It is wholly under the control of the English. The provinces of the Sultan, on the Southern shores of the Black Sea, and in fact of all Asia Minor, are new fields thrown open to the commerce of the United States; and the writer is confident that in the course of a few years this country will do for England, what since 1830 she has done for us, viz: supplant her cotton manufacturers there, by the introduction of those of our factories.

The whole revenue of the Empire is said to be $15,000,000; it has no public debt, and notwithstanding the urgent persecutions of some of the great European Bankers, backed by the influence of an interested government, it has constantly refused to make a loan.

Respecting the slave trade in the empire, the writer remarks as follows:

Black slavery is diminishing in Constantinople. The present Sultan abolished, in 1846, the slave market of the capital, and those slaves yet sold are disposed of at private sale. Mussulman slavery is the same as that of the Moslem period, and is a species of bondage for 7 years. White slaves—mostly females—are still sold, also at private sale, in Constantinople. They are the daughters of Circassians, who are brought by their own parents to—what is to them—a land of milk and honey—to become the adopted daughters and wives of Pa-chas, and even of the Sultan himself. Slaves, both white and black, when freed, possess all the political rights of every free born subject of the Sultan, and may rise, by their merit or good fortune, to the highest offices of the State. Amalgamation is not feared, nor is of frequent occurrence. The free blacks meet with no obstacle from his color, and is left to work his way through life like every other man.

The Indian Country in Canada.

A correspondent of the Rochester American, from Brantford, Canada West, gives the following picture of life among the Mohawks in Canada:

A few leisure moments enable me to send you a word of greeting from the Indian country upon Grand River. We came up here to spend a few days among the Mohawks, away from the perplexities of civilized life. At the commencement of the Revolution it is well known that this Nation abandoned their establishments upon the Mohawk, and retired to Canada. The British Government eventually assigned them a large and beautiful tract upon Grand River, where they have since resided, and from appearances have enjoyed a large degree of prosperity. At present their number about seven hundred. Soon after their establishment upon this river they were joined by bands from Onondaga and Cayuga, and also by large numbers of Tuscaroras, Senecas and Oneidas. The settlement of Western New York pushed a tide of population upon the Indian Districts which the Iroquois Nations were unable to resist, and the largest part of each Nation, except the Seneca, emigrated to this country and to the West. There is now upon the Grand River a miniature representation of the Six Nations, still divided by boundary lines, preserving their national names and affinities, and many of their ancient customs. The Mohawks are upon the upper part of Grand River, near Brantford. Next below them are the Tuscaroras, numbering about three hundred, and next to them are the Onondagas, numbering about four hundred. Descending the river, you next enter the reserve of the Cayugas, who number about seven hundred. About two hundred Oneidas, Senecas, and Chippewas are situated among them, thus making the total Indian population upon the banks of this river about twenty-three hundred. The Oneidas removed to the river "Thames, and to Green Bay."

The river, called Swagway by the Iroquois, is a beautiful stream a little larger than the Seneca. The soil is extremely fertile, yielding abundantly with careful tillage, and very respectably under Indian husbandry; and the general appearance of the country is very attractive. The Indians have no villages but their habitations, which are principally upon the west side of the river, are scattered along the stream within six miles of the river, and from Brantford down for about twenty miles below. The Mohawks are mostly christianized, as also are the Tuscaroras, but the larger part of the Cayugas and Onondagas still adhere to their ancient faith. This portion of the Iroquois family are rapidly advancing in their social condition, if external appearances are to be trusted, and something highly creditable may be expected of them hereafter.

ter as a people. It should not omit to mention that a steamer plies up Grand River as far as Brantford.

We have had the pleasure of several conversations with Catharine Brandt, the youngest daughter of the celebrated Joseph Brandt. They quaintly. She is the last surviving child of this distinguished chief, and is herself quite advanced in years. Having been familiar with English society from childhood, and received an early education, the results of both are quite apparent in her graceful and dignified deportment, and general intelligence upon a great variety of subjects.

California Affairs.

A correspondent of the New York Courier, writing from San Francisco, says: Several failures here, and at Sacramento City of late, excited a panic, which lasted but a few weeks, however, and has now entirely subsided. The assignment of Messrs. Simmons, Hutchinson & Co., was a surprise to many, and helped to give currency to rumors affecting the credit of other houses; strong in resources and abundantly able to sustain themselves against the pinching state of the money market. The course pursued by the house above named, is severely, but justly censured. Banking had no legitimate connection with their other business and their success in obtaining deposits by direct and personal solicitations, did not warrant them, in using such funds, with which to speculate in city lots, new cities, a failing lumber market, steamboats and ships; nor will their creditors, many of whom must be great sufferers by so gross and palpable a violation of confidence, hold them guiltless. Of the head of this house, it may be due to say, that most of the operations bringing embarrassment and bankruptcy upon it, and beggary upon others who have earned their money hardy, were not acts of his, or having his consent, he being absent from the country. The stoppage of the Banking House of H. M. Naglee, is supposed to be but temporary; and that his assets are ample. He, however, stands accused of wild speculation in city lots at San Jose, Sacramento City, and elsewhere. These few instances of failures, it should not be forgotten, afford no just cause of apprehension as to the general soundness of the mercantile community here; the worst, it is believed, having already passed.

Coinage here by a United States Mint, had it been established twelve months ago, would have done much for the financial condition on the Pacific side and greatly benefited California, and her interests been promoted to a degree not conceivable by those who have interposed negro questions, and any other irrelevant question, when any Bill for our good came up.

We are hoping soon to learn that the route to the United States, via Tehuantepec, will have steamers on both sides—a perfected through arrangement, in order that the low latitudes may be avoided and the travelling time greatly reduced, without losing sight of that prominent consideration, safety. As yet, nothing has been heard this side, definitely, with regard to it. Definite information would oblige Californians.

The Mayor vetoed last evening the corporation ordinance, in which our fourteen Aldermen and Assistants provided themselves with salaries of four thousand dollars per annum. This measure was before us some time since, when the six thousand dollars in the original ordinance was most unequivocally and unmistakably condemned by the citizens, and in spite of so clearly expressed public opinion on it, the Common Council has had the effrontery to pass it again, after reducing one-third.

Our streets are covered with men grading, sewerage and planking, preparatory to the winter rains, which are expected to open on us early next month as last year.

But little has been done to our public docks—none so far finished as to admit of vessels of any considerable draft to discharge at them, and yet the corporation have been engaged at this work over a year, and had under pay an engineer at the moderate price of one thousand dollars per month.

Nor can this engineer be dispensed with—he is a pensioner until the completion of the works as the Council have decided, although his services are not really needed, and but faint prospect of completion.

Gen. P. F. Smith is spoken of here for President for 1852.

ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC WONDER.—Pepsin, an artificial Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice! A great Dyspepsia Curer, prepared from Bonnet, or the fourth stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houghton, M. D., No. 11, North Eighth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constipation, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own agent, the Gastric Juice. See advertisement in another column.

TO OWNERS OF HORSES.—This may certify that I have had for many years the care of from 100 to 200 horses, and have made use of Merchant's Gargling Oil for two years past, and can safely say, that for all the diseases that horses are liable, I never saw its equal. I use about one bottle per month, and recommend it to the public, as the best medicine for horses now in use.

New Store and Tavern Stand FOR RENT.

The undersigned has lately erected, at considerable expense, a large and convenient brick building, near the old Tavern Stand, at Guthsville, in South Whitehall township, Lehigh county, expressly calculated for a Tavern and Store.

The Centre Hotel and Store Stand can be rented together or separate. A man of family, who would prefer renting the Store alone, can also be furnished with a dwelling near by the Store.

The building is one of the most convenient in the neighborhood, at the junction of four main roads, which are travelled as much as any in the county. A small stream of water runs near by the house, besides other conveniences that cannot be excelled by any house in the country.

The Store Stand with an enterprising business man, can be made a first rate one, as the neighborhood is thickly populated.

Further information can be given by the undersigned, who resides at Guthsville, near the above stand.

AARON GUTH. November 8, 1850.
