Facts for the People!

A Jenny Lind Song.
By Samson, Wagner & Co.
TUNE—"SHE HAS COME."
1. An appeal to the judgement,
A candid appeal;
With facts on our side,
An assurance we feel
Fact, Fact, is our maxim,
On facts we rely,
And to facts we appeal,
In the Goods we supply.
2. In this town our Store,
Is seen to attract,
A triumph in trade,
And still it shall stand,
As it ever has done,
A glorious fact,
For the name it has won.

Readers! We are not about to carry you away with any false or unfounded assertions. We intend, in appealing to your judgement to state facts and facts only without the slightest fear of contradiction. One prominent fact is, that the articles of Samson, Wagner & Co. are distinguished by unequalled style, in proof of which we would call your attention to our second purchase of Fall and Winter Goods, which we have just received and unpacking. And the prominent fact is, that at our store you will find an extensive assortment of every thing which is usually kept in a country store. But the fact of all facts is, that Samson, Wagner & Co. sell goods cheaper than any other Store in Lehigh county, but don't take our word for it, but come and see.
Come men of all stations,
Each rank and degree,
Come old maids and young maids,
Who yet are so free,
Come Jews and come Christian,
Come Gentiles and all,
Come each and come every one
And give us a CALL,
SAMSON, WAGNER & Co.

True Freedom.

A Tyrant needeth not a throne,
To win the hated name;
Who ruleth not his household well,
Must own the tyrant's shame.
Who tramples down of slaves but one,
Is e'en a worthless thing;
No matter be his title great,
Or be he one of small estate,
Or master, lord, or king.
The husband loving not his wife—
Parent to child unkind—
Who shuns his home for brutal joys,
To suit a brutish mind,
Whoever harms a brutal thing,
Whatever may be his name—
The ass that bears his daily toil,
Our meanest worm that crawls the soil,
Must own the Tyrant's shame.
When peace prevails—in every home,
When kindred love is found—
And each to all shall feel the tie,
Brother to brothers bound;
When none shall dare a deed to do
Which others' wrong may be,
But each shall govern well his heart,
And shun himself the Tyrant's part,
Then—then mankind is free.

Miscellaneous Selections.

Abuse of Health and Wealth.

BY HON. HORACE MANN.
The young man walks in the midst of temptations to appetite, the improper indulgence of which is in danger of proving his ruin. Health, longevity and virtue, depend on his resisting these temptations. The Providence of God is no more responsible, because a man by improper indulgence becomes subject to disease, than for the picking of his pockets. For a young man to injure his health, is to waste his patrimony and destroy his capacity for virtuous deeds.
Should a man love God, he will have ten times the strength for the exercise of it, with a sound body. Not only the amount but the quality of a man's labor depends on his health. Not only lying lips, but a dyspeptic stomach is an abomination to the Lord.
The productions of the poet, the man of science, or the orator, must be affected by his health. The man who neglects to control his appetites, is to himself what a state of barbarism is to society—the brutish part predominant. He is to himself what Nicholas is to Hungary.
Med by pains, and the purveyor and market man bring home disease. Our ancestors used to bury the suicide where our roads met; yet every gentleman and lady who lay the foundation of disease with turtle soup and lobster salad, as really commit suicide as if they used the rope or the pistol; and were the old law revived, how many who are now honored with a resting place at Mount Auburn, would be found on the cross roads? Is it not amazing that man, invited to a feast worthy of the gods, should stop to feed on cabbage; or when called to partake of the Circian cup, should stop to partake with the swine.
If young men imagine that the gratification of appetite is the great source of enjoyment, they will find this in the highest degree with industry and temperance. The epicure, who seeks it in a dinner which costs five dollars, will find less enjoyment of appetite than the laborer who dines on a shilling. If the devotee of appetite desires his high gratification, he must not send for beef tongues, but climb a mountain or swing an axe. Without health there is no delicacy that can provoke an appetite. Whoever destroys his health turns the most delicate viands into ipseum and aloes. The man that is physically wicked does not live out half alive while he does live. However gracious God may be to the heart, he never pardons the stomach.

Tact and Talent.

Talent is something, but tact is everything. Talent is serious, sober, grave and respectable; tact is all that and more too. It is not a seventh sense, but it is the life of all the five. It is the open eye, the quick ear, the judging taste, the keen smell, and the lively touch. It is the interpreter of all riddles—the surmounter of all difficulties—the remover of all obstacles. It is useful in solitude, for it shows a man his way into the world. It is useful in society, for it shows him his way through the world. Talent is power; tact is skill. Talent knows what to do; tact knows how to do it. Talent makes a man respectable; tact will make him respected. Talent is wealth; tact is ready money. For the practical purposes of life tact carries it against talent, ten to one. There is no want of dramatic tact; there is no want of dramatic talent; but they are seldom together; so we have successful pieces which are not respectable, and respectable pieces which are not successful. Take them to the bar and let them shake their learned curls at each other in legal rivalry; talent sees its way clearly; but tact is first at his journey's end. Talent has many a compliment from the bench; but tact touches fees from attorneys and clients. Talent speaks learnedly and logically; tact triumphantly. Talent makes the world wonder that it gets on so fast—the secret is, it has no weight to carry; it makes no false steps; it hits the right nail on the head; it loses no time; it takes all hints and by keeping its eye on the whether cock is ready to take advantage of every wind that blows.
Take them into the church—talent has always something worth hearing; tact is sure of abundance of hearers. Talent may obtain a living; tact will make one. Talent convinces; tact converts. Talent is an honor to the profession; tact gains honor from the profession.
Take them to court—talent feels its weight; tact makes its way. Talent commands; rupted; his pure breath that he has never yielded his digestive apparatus for a vintner's cess-pool; his extract language and keen apprehension, that his brain has never been drugged or stupefied by the poisons of distiller or tobacconist. Enjoying his appetites to the highest, he has preserved the power of enjoying them. Despite the moral of the school-boy's story, he has eaten his cake and still kept it. As he drains the cup of life, there are no less at the bottom. His organs will reach the goal of existence together. Painlessly as a candle burns down, in the socket, so will he expire, and a little imagination would convert him into another Epoch; translated from earth to a better world without the sting of death.

But look at an opposite extreme, where an opposite history is recorded. What wreck so shocking to behold as the wreck of a disolute man; the vigor of life exhausted, and yet the first steps in an honorable career not buried! Rogues have had the initial letter of their title burnt into the palms of their hands; even for murder, Cain was only branded on the forehead; but over the whole person of the debauchee or the inebriate the signatures of infamy are written. How nature brands him with stigma and approbrium! How she hangs labels over him, to testify her disgust at his existence, and to admonish others to beware of his example! How she loosens all his joints, sends tremors along his muscles, and bends forward his frame, as if to bring him upon all fours with kindred brutes; or to degrade him to the reptile's crawling! How she disfigures his countenance, as if intent upon obliterating all traces of her own image, so that she may swear she never made him! How she pours rheum over his eyes, sends foul spirits to inhabit his breath, and shrieks, as with a trumpet, from every pore of his body, "Behold a Beast!" Such a man may be seen in the streets of our cities every day; if rich enough, he may be found in the saloons and at the tables of the "supreme ton;" but surely, to every man of purity and honor; to every man whose wisdom as well as whose heart is unblemished, the wretch who comes crooked and bleeding from the pillory, and redolent with his appropriate perfumes, would be a guest or a companion far less offensive and disgusting.

Now let the young man rejoicing in his manly proportions and in his comeliness, look on this picture and on this, and then say after the likeness of which model he intends his own erect stature and sublime countenance shall be configured.
Society is infinitely too tolerant of the wretch whose life-long pleasure it has been to debase himself and to debauch others; whose heart has been spotted with infamy so much that it is no longer spotted, but hell-black all over; and who, at least, deserves to be treated as travellers say the wild horses of the prairies treat a vicious fellow; the noblest of the herd forming a compact circle around him, heads outward, and kicking him to death.
