

Nashville Convention Resolutions.

The telegraph announced the adjournment sine die of the Nashville Convention on Monday last, after adopting a preamble and series of resolutions reported by a standing committee, to whom the resolutions presented by the delegates from each State had been referred.

Resolved, That we have ever cherished and do now cherish a cordial attachment to the Union, which the constitution of the United States created; and that to preserve and transmit such a Union, this convention originated and is now assembled.

Resolved, That the Union of these States is a Union of equal and independent Sovereigns; and that the exercise of powers delegated to the General Government can be resumed by the several States, whenever it may seem to them to be proper and necessary.

Resolved, That we deem it unnecessary to notice the various acts of aggression inflicted upon the South. A simple reference to the wrongs perpetrated since the first meeting of this Convention will suffice; and they are:

- 1. The failure to extend the line of thirty six degrees thirty minutes, north latitude to the Pacific Ocean.

- 2. The admission of California as a State.
- 3. The organization of Territorial Governments for Utah and New Mexico, without adequate protection to the property of the South.

- 4. The dismemberment of Texas.
- 5. The abolition of the slave trade in the District of Columbia.

Upon these facts, we solemnly adjured the people of the South to unite in one concerted effort to save the Union and the Constitution. We recommend to them to go into Convention, and each State to determine her position on the questions and exigencies of the crisis.

Resolved, That in view of the aggressions and outrages inflicted upon the South and those threatened and impending, we recommend that each of the Southern States, in the mode she may adopt, do appoint delegates to a General Convention of all the assailed States, to be held at — on — day of —, clothed with full authority to deliberate and act with all the sovereign power of the people, with the view of arresting further aggression and restoring the constitutional rights of the South—if possible—and if not, then to provide for the safety and independence of the South in the last resort.

Resolved, That we urge, as a defensive course, forced upon us by our assailants, and as not only unavoidable but essentially just, that the Southern people do immediately adopt the following protective measures:

- 1. That every county, district, parish, or other civil division of each of the assailed States, do hold a primary meeting and form a society or association, to adopt and execute any and all lawful measures and means, whereby the resources of the South shall be employed toward domestic manufactures and internal improvements, and whereby all social, commercial and political intercourse between the South and North shall be wholly suspended, until the North shall become prepared to concede and guarantee to the South the full measure of her constitutional rights.

- 2. That such local societies do appoint and empower committees of vigilance and safety; each to exert observation over its locality in respect of incendiaries and incendiary publications, pamphlets and papers; to bring such incendiaries, or the disseminators of such productions to public justice; and to act generally as policemen in respect to the assailed institutions of the South.

- 3. That it is incumbent upon the Southern people to build up Southern institutions and foster Southern literature, by giving all possible preference to them. Especially we would discourage the expenditure of large sums by our citizens in their towns, in the North and East, preferring not to favor those who return our gratuities by wrong and insult.

Resolved, That we earnestly recommend to all parties in every State of the South to refer to go into or counter-act any National Convention whose object may be to nominate candidates for the Presidency and Vice Presidency of the United States, under any party denomination whatever, until our constitutional rights are secured.

The place of holding the great Southern Convention, which is left blank in the resolutions, has been stated by telegraph to be Montgomery, Alabama, but the time of holding it has not been announced. With regard to the last resolution, relative to the South refusing to join with the North in the forming of a convention for the nomination of candidates for the Presidency, the Washington Union says, —

"Destroy all organization for the nomination of a President, and the result will necessarily be, as the constitution now stands, to throw the election into the House of Representatives—representatives—a mode of election which has been in every way obnoxious to the just objections of the most enlightened statesmen. The only alternative is, either a nomination by Convention or an election by the House of Representatives."

Interesting Pilgrimage.

The visit of Mr. Custis, of Arlington, the aged adopted son of Washington, and M. Edmond Lafayette, the youthful grandson of General Lafayette, to the tomb of Mount Vernon, on Wednesday, the 6th instant, was a pilgrimage to that venerated spot of peculiar interest and character.

While offering the homage of their hearts to the sepulchre that contains the ashes of the Pater Patrie, the veteran relic of the past called up to his young companion the "time-honored" memories of the days of Washington, narrating recollections of the glorious career of his public services, together with endearing memories of the virtues of his private life and domestic retirement, amid the tranquil shades of his beloved Mount Vernon.

Mr. C. then spoke to the pilgrim from La Grange of his illustrious grand parent, and how his fame and memory were cherished in the hearts of the American people; and that his early and chivalric devotion to the cause of their independence, and good and gallant services in the war of the Revolution, had earned for him the title of America's benefactor.

Mr. C. pointed out the spot of his first interview with the Marquis De Lafayette, in 1781; for although but a child at that remote period, Mr. C. well remembered the arrival of the Marquis at Mount Vernon, accompanied by Count Deux Ponts and the Chevalier Couranin; they had called to pay their parting respects to the chief, preparatory to their embarkation for France.

Forty years after this event had passed away, and the Father of his Country had long been called to his great reward in a better world, when Mr. Custis had the singular happiness to present to the nation's guest, at the tomb of Mount Vernon, a ring containing a lock of Washington's hair; the group assembled at the old tomb where rested the remains. The address on presenting the ring, with Lafayette's reply, and indeed the unique and imposing spectacle that Mount Vernon exhibited on the 15th of October, 1821, as detailed in the journals of that period, forms one of the most distinguished features in the memorable triumph of the nation's guest.

M. Edmond Lafayette was much interested in all that was told him touching his estimable father, Geo. Washington Lafayette, (late deceased) of his first arrival in Philadelphia in 1796, and introduction to the President of the United States, when Washington embraced him, and told him, "while in America, God will consider me as your father;" also of his long and happy sojourn as a member of the family of Mount Vernon, until his departure for Europe.

The pilgrim of La Grange, when bidding adieu to the spot, venerable in the estimation of the good and wise of all countries, and endeared by so many memories to the family of Lafayette, declared that he felt deeply impressed by all that he had seen and heard; that it was a bright day in his existence; that he would be cherished in all his after life by the reflection, that he had performed a sacred duty in making his pilgrimage to the tomb of Mount Vernon.

The Predicted Plague in England!

Some of the English papers are raising the alarm cry, and predicting that a great pestilence will follow closely on the heels of the great Industrial Exhibition of 1851, and they cite various historical facts to show that by analogical reasoning such will be the case, great gatherings of foreigners being always followed by pestilence! Indeed, some go so far as to say that every occasion in which the rulers of any country have so far forgot Providence as to invite the general attendance of the world, has been punished in the same way. Edward the Third made such an invitation, when he established the order of the garter, and the consequence was the black death. Henry the Seventh brought with him "a motley crowd to delude the country from a so-called tyrant." The sweating sickness immediately ensued.

The most curious part of the statement is, that the visitation has been in each instance produced, not by the crowd in itself, but because it was a crowd of foreigners. "The black death," declares an earnest pamphleteer, "is traceable to the sudden and enormous influx of foreigners." The sweating sickness was consequent upon the introduction of "an army of aliens." The great plague of 1665 is due to the restoration of Charles the Second, which brought with it "a motley influx of foreigners." It would seem that a peculiar pestilence hangs in the breath of a Frenchman or a German, singularly apt to affect the vital organs of Englishmen. But on the occasion of the great Industrial Exhibition of 1851, it is to be hoped that this extraordinary effect will be neutralized by the presence of a host of Yankees.—Boston Journal.

Alabama and Tennessee Railroad.

The Selma Reporter announces that contracts have been made on favorable terms for the graduation, masonry, and bridging of this railroad to Monteicello. The contractor is Colonel Waller D. Kiddle, of Talladega, the able and efficient contractor on the Mobile and Ohio Railroad. All the surveys, making an aggregate of 1000 miles, and all the estimates, etc., necessary to determine the location of the road, have been made, and about 56 miles of the road are under contract. We challenge a comparison, says the Reporter, with any enterprise in the country, and we are assured that the next Fourth of July we will have the pleasure of celebrating the advent of the Iron Horse in the Mulberry Valley. Arrangements are making to place under contract from fifty to sixty miles of the road in Talladega, Benton and Cherokee counties early this winter.—Mobile Register.

A New Speculation.—According to the "Courrier des Etats Unis," a speculator is at present mustering, in Paris, some three or four hundred women, with a view to take them to California where gold is, and the fair sex are not abundant. The furniture of more than two hundred of these young fugitives was sold at the Place de la Bourse on the 15th ultimo, they being unwilling to incur a new term of rent. The speculator in question, who is an ex-actor, is going to establish a matrimonial office at San Francisco, after the fashion of the renowned Monsieur Foy, at Paris.

To Fatten Fowls.—The best food for fattening fowls is potatoes mixed with meal. Boil the potatoes and mash them fine while they are hot, and mix the meal with them just before it is to be presented. They fatten on this diet in less than half the time ordinarily required to bring them to the same condition of excellence on corn, or even meal itself.

Imports.—In 1848 there were imported into the United States, 8,965,604 bushels of salt, 248,201,117 pounds of brown sugar, and $12,526,854 worth of iron, which at an average value of four cents per pound, would give 313,171,500 pounds.

Poul Convention.—A great Hen Convention or Fair has been holding at Boston. At the closing sale of fowls on Friday, one Cochon China cock brought thirty dollars. There were pure and beautiful Cochon Chinas, Javs, and other fowls represented.

ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC WONDER.—Pepsin, an artificial Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice! A great Dyspepsia-Curer, prepared from Rennet, or the fourth stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houghton, M. D., No. 11, North Eighth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constipation, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own agent, the Gastric Juice. See advertisement in another column.

BETTER LATE THAN NEVER.—You that have suffered and have failed to obtain relief from the use of all other remedies for Rheumatism, read what Betsey A. Ranney, of Elbridge, Michigan, says about Merchants' celebrated Gargling Oil. "I have used your Gargling Oil for inflammatory rheumatism, and found immediate and perfect relief from a painful attack by a few applications. I had previously used other remedies without any benefit, and the relief which I received from the use of your oil was too apparent to admit of a doubt of its value as a remedy for that painful disease." Get a pamphlet of the agent, and read more about this wonderful remedy. See also advertisement in this paper.

Capital.—Every species of business requires a certain amount of capital to go on, but there is no kind of capital so admirable as the capital style of the various articles of gentlemen's clothing sold by Shepherd, at his store in Chestnut above Third street, Philadelphia. Cold weather drives every one thither to procure their winter supplies, and his stock is so large and varied, and the quality and fit of the various garments so excellent and their price so low, that every one goes away well provided and perfectly satisfied.

THE GLOBE, A Congressional, Literary and Agricultural Newspaper.

The undersigned submits to the public his proposals for the Globe and its reports for the next session of Congress. Congress has now so liberally patronized the undertaking, that it will be established as a standard work worthy of its official imprimatur, unless the undersigned fails in his duty. This will not be the case if earnest effort can avail. The Globe is the only paper that will furnish full reports of the proceedings and debates of the two Houses of Congress, and having received their sanction as such, the best Reports will be engaged to write out the debates of each day, which will undergo the revision of the Members. The work after passing through the Daily Globe and receiving correction, will be presented, as finished, in the CONGRESSIONAL GLOBE and APPENDIX.

The debates will probably increase in interest during the next session. The one subject which engrossed the last, will doubtless give way to others of great variety, which, in this progressive country, the conflicts of party and the ambition for place and distinction, necessarily produce. Vast interests will be at stake upon the decisions of the next Congress, and there is great talent in both branches, which will be evoked in their discussion. All the honors of the Republic dependent on the succession to the Presidency, as well as all the great and permanent interests which go to the advancement of the power of the country, will give impulse to the action of the next session of Congress.

The Daily Globe will be published daily during the session of Congress, and weekly the remainder of the year. It will contain full and faithful reports of the proceedings of both Houses of Congress; and miscellaneous articles on those general subjects to which it is devoted.

The Weekly Globe will contain Agricultural and miscellaneous articles; and will occasionally give debates of such importance as command universal interest. The price of the Weekly Globe is reduced to one dollar, with a view to obtain a more general circulation.

The Congressional Globe will embody, as it has done for the last seventeen years, Congressional proceedings and debates exclusively.

The Appendix will embrace the revised speeches separately, and the messages of the President of the United States and the reports of the Heads of the Executive Departments.

The Congressional Globe and Appendix will be published as fast as the proceedings of Congress will make a number. Subscribers may expect one number of each a week during the first four weeks of a session, and two or three numbers of each a week afterwards, until the end of the session.

Complete indexes to the Congressional Globe and Appendix will be sent to subscribers soon after Congress adjourns.

Nothing of a political party aspect will appear in the Globe save that which will be found in the Congressional reports. A paper assuming to be an impartial vehicle for all sides, cannot maintain its character if the editorial columns reflect a party hue.

TERMS: For one copy of the Daily Globe (daily during the session of Congress, and weekly during the recess) a year, $5 00

For the Daily Globe for less than a year, at the rate of $1 cents a month.

For one copy of the Weekly Globe for one year, 1 00

For one copy of the Congressional Globe during the session, 1 50

For one copy of the Appendix during the session, 1 50

For four copies of the Congressional Globe or Appendix, or part of both, one of each, or 3 of 1, and 1 of the other, 5 00

The same rate for a greater number of copies.

The prices of these papers are so low, that advance payments are indispensable to carry them on, and no order will be attended to unless the money accompanies it.

Subscriptions may be remitted by mail, at our risk, in money at par in the section of the country where subscribers reside. The money should be here by the 15th December to insure all the numbers. The Congressional Globe and Appendix, or the Daily Globe, as they may elect, will be sent to all editors who may publish this Prospectus as often as three times before the first Monday in December, and send us one copy of their paper containing a distinct mention to it. JOHN C. RVES, Washington City, Nov. 21.
