From the Plough, Loom, and Anvil. APPEAL TO THE FRIENDS OF THE AMERICAN SYSTEM, OF WHATEVER OCCUPATION OR PARTY.

We unite in the belief that the prosperity of American industry depends on the question—Shall the laws of the country protect American labor against the dawn-trodden labor of Europe; and so diversify our employments, and secure for our products a steady market at home? or, shall we, by releasing the government from the obligation to develop our own resources, drive the country still further back on subjection to what General Jackson denounced as "the policy of British merchants?"

Under a system of steady protection, capital and labor are invited to go into the use of our own fuel and the manufacture of our own cloth, and iron, and china, and glass; employments become diversified, population concentrates; and with that concentration comes facility of combination, from which springs agricultural and every social improvement.

Old party-lines are becoming fainter and fainter. The people for the time are dividing into Unionists and Disunionists. But amalgamate or separate as we may, disclaim or assume what names we may, the people will at last resolve themselves into friends or opponents of a policy that will encourage domestic industry against the whole world—a policy under which we may realize or forego the profit of manufacturing for ourselves the raw materials with which God has blessed our country.

Those who are opposed to protection, bring out on their banner, "Let trade be free—let us contend against the world, for the markets of the world!" to do which successfully, we must "prepare" to under work and out-starve the world.

Now, friends of the American system, be not discouraged. Parties may see-saw and fluctuate—up to-day and down to-morrow—but under whatever name, the party that struggles on for the protection of our own industry—for the encouragement and elevation of our own labor, must ultimately succeed. It must be, sooner or later, the established policy of this country. It is the cause of our country, of humanity, of truth, and finally it must prevail.

Here, in the "Plough, the Loom and the Anvil," you have the first journal established expressly and avowedly to prove to the agricultural community, whose representatives regulate the policy of government, that agriculture never did and never can reach a high degree of prosperity, in any country that exports its raw materials, and depends on foreigners for its supplies of manufactures. Foreigners whose power to consume is small in proportion to the cheapness of their labor!

New, is it fair to leave me to maintain this contest, in an agricultural journal, single-handed, and without adequate assistance? Is it fair, is it just, I won't say it is generous, to demand of a man who has been more than thirty years laboring to promote all the great industries of the country, to earn, to collect, and to pay away nearly $1,000 in support of this common cause, before he can secure enough to buy a loaf of bread? I say common cause, since all are interested in the question, who live, by their labor. If other industries are put down by the competition of the labor of foreign countries, must not those who are driven from them, become the rivals of the farmer, and to swell the surplus products of the Plough?

If I may believe assurances that reach me from the South and West, the disposition to draw the loom and the anvil to the side of the plough, under the influence of arguments urged in every number of this journal, is spreading fast and taking deep root—but as far as depends on me and this journal, I must have more support. I ask if then frankly and respectfully, I have forborne to call on Americans until I put my own shoulder to the wheel. Cannot 100 gentlemen be found, in all the States, who will contribute $10 each, and find subscribers, or indicate to whom the numbers shall be sent? What say you, friends of domestic industry? Here I, without a dollar, am laboring for the cause, day in and day out, most willingly, for I know there is no other guarantee for general uniform improvement and prosperity for those whose labor and capital are employed in agriculture; but, I must have bread, and what I here ask will barely give it. I ask no man's charity—I offer a full equivalent, and contribute to the cause the hard earnings of my own labor to the amount of hundreds where I ask for tens. I will keep, and if allowed, publish, the names of all who respond to this call. Time will soon decide.

JOHN S. SKINNER, Editor of the "Plough, Loom, and Anvil." Dec. 19.

LOOK HERE! A Certain and Effectual Cure.

The subscriber, Druggist in the Borough of Bethlehem, Northampton county, adopts this method to inform sufferers of a Rheumatic complaint, be it Inflammatory, Chronic or Acute, that he prepares an article of medicine, that will effect a certain cure of this wide spread and painful disease. It is put up in Quart bottles, each bottle accompanied by a box of Ointment. The liquid to be taken internally, and the ointment externally. The genuine article can be had only by the undersigned, a practical Druggist and Chemist, and originator of the medicine. Price two dollars per bottle, or six bottles for ten dollars—which will be sent, to invalids, in any part of the county, free of charge. All orders must be accompanied with the Cash, or they will receive no attention.

This medicine needs no puffing, it speaks for itself, while perfectly harmless in its operation it eradicates the system from the effects produced by unskillful treatment. It has already produced some astonishing cures; and of cases where the patient has been confined to the house for years, and those that got abroad only with the use of Crutches, were set at liberty by the use of from one to six Bottles. Certificates of cures can be shown from the most respectable citizens. None is genuine without his written signature in blue ink. HENRY GANGWER, Proprietor, Bethlehem, Penn. December 12.

The Shoe, Cap, and Wig, and other business are continued at the old stand by Lockman & Leh, who will be pleased to receive lots of new customers. December 12.

Religious Troubles in Turkey.

In Asiatic Turkey, the religious zeal of the Turks prompts them to fanatical excesses against the Christian population. In European Turkey, an obstinate struggle for political supremacy has already commenced between the respective followers of Christ and Mahomet. The Sultan seems fated soon to be no more than the protector of European Turkey, for Bulgaria has been already made a principality as little dependent on the Porte as Serbia and Bosnia—the Herzegovina and Albania are evidently aiming at the same privilege. Indeed the present position of Turkey appears anything but satisfactory.

The persecution of the Christians in Asiatic Turkey is terrible. On the 18th of October an attack was to have been made on the Christians at Lwino, and one actually did take place, on the 10th, at Aleppo. A body of Turks and Arabs fell upon the Christians during the night, and a fearful massacre took place. Few escaped with their lives, and such as did were wounded. The Greek Bishop was among those murdered. The Pascha locked himself up in the fortresses, and the troops did not interfere.

Avoid Reception.—It is not generally known, that no means have been left unemployed by that class of persons who attempt to counterfeit every good medicine that has acquired public confidence, to mislead the public into a belief that their oil is the same as Merchant's Gargling Oil.

Do not be deceived, therefore by such knavery, and be not satisfied except you find the marks of the genuine article upon the bottle. Of this celebrated medicine one gentleman affirms that he cured a valuable horse of a WINDGALL, which had become callous.

Another says he has cured a fine horse of the Sweeney which nothing else would effect. Another has cured himself by the use of the Oil, of Rheumatism, and in his family has used it for all complaints requiring an external remedy.

Another who had it "on hand," says that he relieved himself immediately of severe and continued pain, resulting from the setting of a dislocated knee joint which every application made for twenty four hours had failed to perform; he soon obtained sleep.

It has cured Founders, and is a certain remedy for Galls, Sprains, Bruises, Strains, Cramps, Weakness of the Joints and Limbs, Frozen Feet, Contraction of the Muscles, Scalds, &c., and if all the facts were told they are so remarkable, they would probably not be believed, except by those who have become acquainted with the Oil. See advertisement and get a pamphlet of the facts.

Michael D. Embury, Druggist, Allentown, Pa. Great numbers are taking the Plough.
