

Report on Common Schools.

We have received a copy of the seventh Annual Report of the Superintendent (A. L. Russell, Esq.) of Common Schools of Pennsylvania, for the year ending June 1st, 1860, and we find it contains matters interesting to the friends of education in the State, and the citizens generally.

The principal cause of complaint against the present system is the incapacity of teachers, and the report proposes a remedy by appointing a superintendent for each Congressional district, whose duty it shall be to establish and supervise in a teacher's seminary for thorough instruction in the Common School branches. They could be established and supported at trifling expense, and through their instrumentality much of the fund now squandered could be advantageously employed. An alteration of the mode of collecting the tax is recommended, and a reduction of the number of directors from six to three suggested.

The main feature of the report, and that for which it is to be most commended, is the proposition which the Superintendent makes of establishing a State Agricultural School. The propriety and usefulness of such an institution is ably argued by the Superintendent, and the duty of government to extend every possible facility to the advancement of agricultural science is strongly enforced. The plan in its details embraces an institution large enough for the instruction of 500 pupils at a time, three hundred to be supported by the State, and two hundred at their own personal cost. The State pupils selected from every county, in the ratio of three pupils for each member of the House of Representatives, the selection to be determined by the standing of the candidates in the common schools, so that admission to the State institution should be the highest reward of merit. The term of instruction for the State pupils should be not less than six years, commencing about the age of twelve years. After the organization would be completed and the system in regular operation, fifty pupils, would therefore, enter, and fifty be discharged every year. A Board of Regents, consisting of three persons, to be elected by popular vote, to regulate the fiscal affairs, appoint professors, &c. One thousand acres of land to be purchased, affording to all the pupils a sufficient area for the practice of tillage, after deducting space for woodlands, orchards, pleasure grounds, yards and buildings; suitable buildings to be erected for the domestic and school accommodations of the pupils; a library and philosophical apparatus. Eight professors, with sixteen assistants, for the various branches of instruction, and for the maintenance of discipline among the number of pupils.

The course of instruction is indicated in the following list of teachers: A Professor of English Literature and Mental Philosophy, ex officio President of the Faculty, with two assistant teachers in the primary departments; A Professor of General History and Political Economy, with one assistant; A Professor of Mathematics, with two assistants; A Professor of practical Farming and Rural Architecture, with six assistants; A Professor of Agricultural Chemistry, General Chemistry, Geology, and Botany, with two assistants; A Professor of Natural Philosophy, Mechanics, and Engineering, with two assistants; A Professor of Comparative Anatomy, and ex officio Physician of the Institution; A Professor of the German Language, with one assistant.

In this list the number of professors is eight, and of assistants sixteen. Six of the latter should be females, who are not only thoroughly competent as teachers, but whose influence on the morals and manners of boys is essential to their proper cultivation.

The financial features of the project make the total original outlay for lands, buildings, implements, &c., $250,000; current outlay, interest, $15,000; salaries of Regents, $3,000; President, $2,000; seven Professors, $1,200 each, $8,400; ten male assistants, $5,000; six female assistants, $1,800; salaries of overseer, steward, matron, and seventeen female domestics, $3,300—total expenses, $33,500. The gross annual expenditures, including salaries, clothing, food, &c., $74,500; annual income, at $150 a year, for each paying pupil, $30,000—total net cost to the State, $44,500, or about one hundred and fifty dollars for each State pupil. This fund, the Superintendent thinks, will attract a large number of pupils from other States.

The Agricultural School at Germantown, a private enterprise, and necessarily limited in resources, has pupils from the most distant parts of the country, and its merited success proves the correctness of the opinion expressed in the report, that a State Institution, on the comprehensive scale proposed by the Superintendent of Common Schools, would be eagerly sought by students from other States.

The report fixes the annual charge for such students at one hundred and fifty dollars, covering every item of education, and maintenance, clothing only excepted. This charge is certainly too low. There can be no doubt that the institution, founded and conducted as the Superintendent proposes, would at once command two hundred paying students from our own and other States, at two hundred dollars a year each. This would yield forty thousand dollars a year, reducing the cost of the institution to the Commonwealth to thirty-four, instead of forty-four thousand dollars, as the report estimates. There is no college in the country that offers equal advantages for the same charge.

GOVERNOR QUINCY, of Mississippi, as we learn by Southern papers received, resigned his office on the 3d of February. On the 7th he appeared in the United States Circuit Court at New Orleans, and entered the plea of not guilty on the indictment pending against him; he requested a speedy trial, which was promised him by the Court; and recognised in the sum of $1000 for his appearance.

Description of the Nicaragua Route.

We copy the following graphic description of the new California Route from the New York Sun:

Passengers from California land on the Pacific side, at the Port of Realajo in Nicaragua. Here a great many Americans have settled, and several fine American hotels are opened, where the best fare and accommodations are had at moderate prices. From here passengers go by horse or stage for $10 to Granada, which is a small town at the northern end of the Great Lake. The road from Realajo to Granada passes through one of the richest and most fertile territories on the Continent. Midway is the city of St. Leon, the capital of Nicaragua, where passengers will also find first rate American hotels. Several days may be spent here to some advantage in examining the curiosities of the city.

Arriving in sight of Granada, the heart of every American traveller thrills with delight as he beholds the flag of his country flying from the stern of a trim little steamboat anchored not far from the shore, and almost under the shadow of the great volcano of Mombacha. The steamer proves to be the Director, and he prepares for a voyage down the lake to San Carlos, through scenery the most grand, majestic and sublime, which the eye of a man has ever gazed upon. The distance from Granada to San Carlos is about ninety miles.

Leaving Granada, the steamer dashes out far into the lake, in order to pass the point of Mombacha, rounds up for the city of Nicaragua, and steers to pass midway between the two great volcanic islands. The scene which now bursts upon the vision of the traveller is unutterably sublime. On the right, and close on board, the mountain island of El Zapatero towers up from the clear deep, and just beyond, the mountains of old Granada and old Mombacha likewise loom.

On the left, seemingly but a few rods distant, the majestic volcano of Omotepetzi rises to the height of seven thousand feet. Just beyond this is seen the volcano of Madeira five thousand feet high! Right ahead is seen the city of Nicaragua, behind which tower up another chain of noble mountains.

The United States abound in beautiful scenery, it is true; but of all the deep, soul-mooving sights which mortal man ever saw, none compares with that from the deck of the Yankee steamer Director, as she plows in between Napatero and Omotepetzi, towards the anchorage of Nicaragua.

As the boat draws near to Nicaragua, the steamer bell is rung, the small boat lowered, the engine stopped, and the landing made in real North River style.

It is strongly pleasing to an American to observe with what wonder and awe the Nicaraguans look upon a steamboat. The Director is the first steam propelled vessel which has ever broke the silence of their Great Lake, and while we think their mountains rather "small," they believe our steamboat is an actual miracle. The Nicaraguans would do anything for the Americans, but they hate and with good reason the English.

From here the boat makes a straight course for San Carlos. The lake is studded with many islands, some very high, and clad with a perpetual covering of luxuriant trees and tropical plants.

At San Carlos the outlet of the lake to the Gulf of Mexico commences, being called the river San Juan. Here passengers leave the steamer, and proceed in boats down the river to San Juan, which is the Atlantic terminus of the route. The influx of Americans has infused new life into the country. As an instance, we may mention that a Company has been organized at Leon, for opening a new and shorter road from that city to the harbor of Realajo. In granting them a charter, the Secretary of State says: "I witness with much satisfaction this advance in the improvement and civilization of the country by a company of Nicaraguan citizens. It is the first industrial association which has yet been organized, and marks a line between the depression and dissolution of the past, and the prosperity and hope which providence now extends to us."

Sir John Franklin.

Despatches have been received at the Admiralty from Captain Kellett, C. B., of Her Majesty's ship Herald, dated at sea the 14th of October, 1850, on his return from Behring's Straits. The Herald had communicated with Her Majesty's ship Plover, on the 10th of July, at Chamisso Island, where the Plover had passed the preceding winter. The two ships proceeded to the northward until they sighted the pack ice. When the Herald returned to Cape Lisburne, in quest of Captain Collinson's expedition, and on the 31st fell in with Her Majesty's ship Investigator, which had made a surprisingly short passage of 28 days from the Sandwich Islands. The Herald remained cruising off Cape Lisburne, and again fell in with the Plover on the 13th of August, on her return from Point Barrow. Commander Moore having coasted in his boats, and minutely examined the several inlets as far as that point from Cape Lisburne without gaining any intelligence of the missing expedition. Commander Moore and his boat's crew had suffered severely from exposure to cold. Captain Kellett having fully victualled the Plover, ordered her to winter in Grantley Harbor, (her former anchorage at Chamisso Island not being considered safe) and then returned to the southward, on his way to England.—Wiltner & Smith's Liverpool Times.

CONTESTED ELECTION.—The investigation into the frauds by which Wm. B. Reed was defeated last fall for District Attorney of Philadelphia, is now going on in the Court of Common Pleas, and exhibits one of the most astounding series of frauds that have been perpetrated upon the ballot box. Much more than sufficient has already been discovered to elect Mr. Reed. Both Democrats and Whigs denounced the fraud.

Outrage upon an Idiot Negro.

A few weeks since an individual in Ghent, Carroll county, Ky., purchased three negroes—a mother and her two children—one of the latter, a girl some eight or nine years of age, being an idiot. In consideration of his taking the idiot child off the hands of the former owner, he got the mother and the other child at a very low price. The child was given into the hands of an old negro woman, in a cabin some distance from the owner's residence, to be taken care of.

Having occasion, however, for the services of the woman about his premises, the idiot was left in the cabin alone. Finding it a great burden he offered to give any one who would take it a hundred dollars. This offer was promptly accepted by a man standing by, who in his turn, offered fifty dollars to any one who would take it from him. The offer was accepted to by a third person, who immediately offered twenty-five dollars to any one to take it on the conditions on which he had done. A customer was not long wanting—the bargain was struck, and the twenty-five dollars, paid. The fellow into whose hands the idiot last fell in company with another, proceeded to the cabin, some two miles distant, on a cold frosty morning, took the child out almost naked and barefooted, and drove it before them almost the whole distance—her feet covered with blood from having been cut by the hard, frosty ground. The monsters took the child to a flat or store boat, lying up there, and for a while amused themselves by placing her on a hot stove with her bare feet, burning them most horribly, and by lighting pieces of paper, and applying it to different parts of her body. The owner of the boat coming in, ordered the fellows to leave his premises which they did. One of the rascals then procured a skill, put the child into it and proceeded down the river. He shortly after returned without the child; and upon being asked what he had done with it, refused to give any satisfaction. A flat boat coming along in the course of a few hours, he jumped into it, and has not since been heard of. The child was doubtless drowned, or left upon the bank of the river to die. The affair has created considerable feeling among the community in which, it took place, and the individual who purchased the family is greatly distressed. He doubtless offered and paid the $100 in good faith, believing it would be amply sufficient compensation for the trouble of taking care of the idiot. He has offered a reward for the recovery of the child. It is to be hoped that the villains concerned in torturing and making away with the idiot will be arrested and severely punished.

P. S.—Since the above has been written, we find a paragraph in the Madison Banner, in which it is said that a fellow named Ross, alias Crawford, has been arrested at Madison, supposed to be the scoundrel who took the girl off in the skiff. He is now in jail in that city.—New Albany (La.) Ledger, January 30.

There are four acres of the best meadow land, through which the beautiful Cedar creek stream flows. The improvements consist in a large double of stone, besides a large frame building adjoining the Barn, in which is placed a stationary wooden Horse Power, Wagon-house, Corn-crib and Hog-stable, besides all other necessary outbuildings.

TWO STORY

STONE HOUSE,

There is also a never failing well with excellent water, in the rear of the house, two Cisterns, one at the House and one at the Barn, are on the premises.

It is also necessary to mention, that the cattle can be driven through a by-road to water at the Cedar creek.

There are also on the premises TWO EXCELLENT APPLE ORCHARDS, in a bearing condition.

ALSO—At the same time and place,

No. 2. A LOT OF GROUND, situate in the aforesaid township and county, adjoining lands of Henry Laros, lands of No. 1, and on the Reading road, containing 12 acres, more or less, good arable land, in an excellent condition.

On Thursday the 27th of January, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Public House of George Moyer, in the Borough of Allentown, Lehigh county.

No. 3. THE VERY VALUABLE

And Beautiful REAL ESTATE,

situate in Northampton township, county aforesaid, adjoining the Borough limits, on the Reading road, directly opposite the well known Hotel, formerly kept by Solomon Weaver, the improvements consist in a new Store and Dwelling containing in front 41 feet, and in depth 80 feet, the Store room is shelled and counter-ready to commence the store business, and is one of the best locations in the Borough, to purchase and store Grain. The lot on which these buildings are located is 62 feet front by 210 feet deep, and thereon is erected also a large frame Barn, besides other outbuildings.

A large cistern is on the property, and the Hydrant water can be tapped at several places. The lot adjoins the Borough line on the east, Hamilton street on the south, another lot of the deceased on the west, the north by a public alley. It is one of the best properties in the Borough.

FURTHER,

FURTHER,

On Friday the 28th of February, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, at the Public house of George Moyer, in Allentown,

No. 6. AN EXCELLENT

Mill Property,

with the best Water Power in the county of Lehigh, situate in Salisburg sp. Lehigh county, near the Borough of Allentown, the power is supplied by the never failing "Little Lehigh" stream. The power is one of the best in a circle of 50 miles—the Mill has lately undergone a thorough repair, and will compare with any in the neighborhood in conveniences. There are three pair of Stones in the Mill, and it is admitted, that better Stones were never laid in any Mill before. A new Snut Machine, a new Corn Braker, and one of the most convenient Flour Packing Machine is in the building; a full supply of Alligators and other conveniences, besides the gearing are such as will convince any one at all acquainted with milling, to be one of the best establishments of the kind in the county.

The mill is prepared to do custom or merchant work, and at present enjoys a large share of the former.

This property should receive the particular attention of purchasers, as it is without question one of the best stands for business, either for merchant or custom work that can be found in the State.

To the mill belongs about 2 acres of land, part of which is meadow, and on part of the balance is erected a two story

STONE

Dwelling House,

with kitchen attached to it, a large barn, and other outbuildings, besides two large gardens, with valuable fruit trees thereon.
