Life of St. Mark.

This Evangelist was of a Jewish family, and of the tribe of Levi. Eusebius tells us that he was sent into Egypt by St. Peter to preach the gospel, and that he planted a church in Alexandria, the capital of Egypt. St. Mark did not confinehimself to Alexandria and the oriental parts of Egypt, but removed westward to Lybia, passing through the countries of Mennacia, Pentapolis, and others adjacent, where, though the people were both barbarous in their manners and idolatrous in their worship, yet he prevailed on them to embrace the tenets of the Gospel.

After this long tour, he returned to Alexandria, where he reached with the greatest freedom. But the ruthless enemy of the souls of men would suffer the apostle to continue in peace and quietness, for while he was assiduously laboring in the vineyard of his master, the idolatrous inhabitants, aboutthe time of Easter, when they were celebrating the solemnities of Serepis, tumultuously entered the church, forced St. Mark, then preforming divine service, thence, and, binding his feet with cords, dragged him through the streets and over the most cragby places, to the Bucelus, a precipice near the sea, leaving him there in a lonesome prison, for the night, where it is said the Saviour appeared to him in a vision, composing and encouraging his soul, under the ruins of his shattered body.

The next morning early, the tragedy began afresh, for they dragged him about in ie same cruel and barbarous manner till he expired. But their malihe did not end with his death ; they burnt his mangled body after they had so inhumanely deprived it of life ; but the Christians, after the horand ashes and decently interred them near he was adopted as the tutelary saint and pat- | might be dissipated ; ron of that State.

He suffered martyrdom on the 25th of Gospel was the only writing he left behind him.

Some time was of course required for this operation, which did not terminate before a quarter to twelve. It was probably to shorten the agony of the pit and boxes that two brigants went from speciator to speciator, was gathered, and the booty had been heaped up on the stage, the brigands allowed the curtain to fall, and quietly withdrew, carrying all with them. The money thus obtained amounted to 7,000 Roman plasters, or about 40,000 francs, and the bijoux, objects of art. &c., at double that sum. The next day an Austrian detachment set out in pursuit of the band, which probably had dispersed by that time in the mountains, or passed the Tuscan frontier. Pheir number is supposed to have been about three or four hundred. It is probable that they-were in-lengue-with some of the inhabitants.
