

Useful Information.

Recording Deeds promptly after the sale and transfer of property, would save parties long and tedious law suits. A writer in the Lancaster Intelligencer, with a view of showing the importance of this matter, gives the present law in this State in relation to the subject:

"A deed should always be recorded; but a deed not recorded is still valid provided the same property has not been conveyed to different parties. If so, the party having his deed first recorded within six months of execution, has the best claim to the property so conveyed. This is the law in Pennsylvania—hence the necessity of recording land titles within six months of executing them. But there are many more reasons why deeds should be recorded. For instance, in the destruction of a title by fire or otherwise, what a difficulty and expense it occasions to obtain another title which if the deed had been recorded, could all have been saved with the exception of two or three dollars for a copy at the Recorder's office. Another great reason why deeds should be recorded is, that persons often pretend to own property for which they hold no title, and defraud honest persons by giving judgment. It has happened heretofore, that persons hold titles for properties and on the strength thereof obtained money, for which mortgages and judgments were given, the holders of which thought themselves perfectly safe; yet upon a thorough investigation, no title could be found, and the persons who had advanced the money were defrauded out of the same. Had the title been recorded, this could not have happened. All bond titles should by all means be recorded; it secures the purchaser as well as the money lender, and prevents fraud."

A Man who Advertised for a Wife.

The Watchman of the 25th March, published at Greenport, on the east end of Long Island, gives the following history of a hasty marriage, occasioned by advertising for a wife in the newspapers:

"An affair, somewhat novel and exciting, took place in the village of Cutchogue, a few days since. It appears that Joseph Baker, of that place, and late of Greenport, went to New York a few weeks ago, for the purpose of obtaining a wife. His first move was to publish a notice in the New York Sun, stating that a young widower, about 25 years of age, having one child and a farm at a short distance in the country, wished to enter a second time into the matrimonial state with some respectable lady of about his own age."

This notice attracted the attention of a young girl in the city, aged some 18 or 19 years, by the name of Elsie Craig, who soon responded to Joseph's notice. This was followed by an interview between the parties.

"According to the account which the girl gave at Cutchogue, Mr. Baker represented himself to her to be a gentleman of character and respectability in the community where he lived; that he had a valuable farm down on Long Island, with a good house, pleasantly situated, and all the necessary improvements and appurtenances; that he kept cows and other stock, together with a horse, carriage, &c."

"After a negotiation of a number of days, a matrimonial engagement was entered into which was finally consummated in due form, by a clergyman of the city, on Saturday morning last. After the marriage ceremony was solemnized, the parties, accompanied by the mother of the bride, immediately left the city, and took the accommodation train to visit the splendid establishment of Mr. Joseph Baker, at Cutchogue, on Long Island, with high hopes and pleasing anticipations, no doubt."

"On arriving at Mr. Baker's handsome country residence, behold it was not there! Nothing but a little shanty, situated in a lonesome, out-of-the-way place, with every indication of indolence and poverty, instead of a neat, comfortable dwelling, presented itself to the astonished strangers. The poor girl and her mother, after taking a fair view of the premises, and discovering the imposition, and the manner in which the daughter had been duped, overwhelmed with disappointment, mortification and disgust, at once decided to return to the city."

"They found a friendly shelter at the house of Mr. Hallock, at no great distance; and after making proper inquiries respecting the character, habits and circumstances of the said Joseph Baker, as they were understood in that community they declared that the marriage was brought about by false pretences, misrepresentations, and hypocrisy. A lawyer and a justice were soon called in to unloose the matrimonial knot which had so recently, and so imprudently and foolishly on the part of the girl, been formed by the parties. Writings were duly executed, by which the young lady relinquished all claim and right of power to any property which the said Joseph Baker might have with a consent on his part that the marriage contract, so all intents and purposes, might be dissolved. The mother and daughter took the cars on Monday, and returned to the city."

"We understand that Miss Craig now Mrs. Baker is an industrious respectable girl—a waitress in New York, and of respectable connections, and the matrimonial alliance between herself and Baker was with the advice and consent of her mother, whom it seems gave too much credit to fair pretensions without proper proof, the girl we apprehend, has learned that answering an advertisement of that description is a silly and somewhat dangerous practice."

Unruly Prisoners.—Geo. W. Niles, the swindling lawyer, and the notorious Ashley, with some others, in Sing Sing penitentiary, New York, have been detected in keeping up written communications, the former was only made to confess after three applications of the shower bath. Previously his head had been shaved, and both he and Ashley are now decorated with an iron collar, with a prong about five inches projecting upon each side of the face, and one at the back of his head.

The Inquisition.

A correspondent of the New York Journal of Commerce, writing from Italy, gives the following thrilling description of a few of the horrors of the Inquisition.

"In Turin I met the American Consul of Rome, who had passed through the entire revolution in the Eternal City, and who was present when the doors and dungeons of the Inquisition were opened by the decree of the Triumvir, its prisoners released, and the building converted into an asylum for the poor. It was interesting to hear from the lips of an intelligent eye-witness the most ample confirmation of the published statements relative to the condition and appearance of this iniquitous establishment. The Holy Inquisition of Rome is situated near the Porta Cavalleggeri, and under the very shadow of the sublime dome of Saint Peter's Cathedral, and capable, in case of emergency of accommodating three thousand prisoners. The Consul was particularly struck with the imposing dimensions of the 'Chamber of Archives,' filled with voluminous documents, records and papers. There were piled all the proceedings and decisions of the holy office from the very birth of the inquisition, including the correspondence with its collateral branches in both hemispheres. Upon the third floor, over a certain door, was an inscription to this effect:—'Speak to the first Inquisitor.' Over another—'Nobody enters this chamber, except on pain of excommunication.' They might as well have placed over that door the well remembered inscription of Dante over the gates of Tartarus—'Abandon hope, all ye who enter here.' That chamber was the solemn Hall of Judgment, or Doom room, where the fates of thousands have been sealed in death. Over a door directly opposite another inscription read, 'Speak to the second Inquisitor.' Upon opening the door of that department a trap door was exposed, from which the condemned, after they left the Hall of Judgment, stepped from time into eternity."

The well or pit beneath had been built in the ordinary cylindrical form, and was at least 80 feet deep, and so ingeniously provided with projecting knives and cutlasses that the bodies of the victims must have been dreadfully mangled in the descent. At the bottom of this abyss quantities of hair and bits of moulder-rins bones remained. Not only at the bottom of the pit, but also in several of the lower chambers of the building, were found human bones. In some places they appear to have been mortared into the walls. The usual instruments of torture in such establishments were likewise manifest. The consul presented me with a bone which he brought with him as a memorial of his visit. The Pope fled from Rome on the 21st of November, 1848. The Roman Republic was proclaimed on the 11th of February, 1849, and immediately after its installation the Assembly solemnly declared the abolishment of the Holy Inquisition, and by a special decree charged the Triumvirate with the duty of erecting a lofty column to commemorate the overthrow of one of the greatest evils that ever darkened the face of the earth. But the scenes of this world change. On the 1st of July, 1849, the Roman Republic, after a brief existence of five months capitulated to the French, and in May, 1850, Pius IX., after an exile of one year and six months, returned to his capital, proscribed the Triumvirate, and re-established the Inquisition in all its former power."

A Wise Suggestion.—The Atlanta (Georgia) Republican, in noticing a statement of Columbia (S.C.) Telegraph, that its purpose is South Carolina to manufacture her own arms, very wisely suggests that she had better propose to manufacture her own cotton. It would doubtless prove to be a much more profitable and wiser undertaking.

Constitution of Ohio.—Ohio has just completed a new Constitution, upon what is termed a liberalised basis; but with all professions for Free Soil and exquisite tenderness for the blacks, she has not admitted them to the right of suffrage. According to the "high law" doctrine, then, these Ohio negroes are under no allegiance to the State or her ordinances, and will be a law to themselves, to do whatever may seem good in their sight.

ANOTHER SCIENTIFIC WONDER.—Pepsin an artificial Digestive Fluid, or Gastric Juice, A great Dyspepsia Curer, prepared from Rennet, or the fourth stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. Houghton, M. D., No. 11, North Eighth Street, Philadelphia, Pa. This is a truly wonderful remedy for Indigestion, dyspepsia, Jaundice, Liver Complaint, Constipation, and Debility, curing after Nature's own method. By Nature's own agent, the Gastric Juice. See advertisement in another column.
