

Gen. Wayne's Opinion of Arnold.
A kind friend has pleased in our hand an original letter written by Gen. Anthony Wayne, to a gentleman of this vicinity, which will be read with interest as containing the opinion of one of the bravest of our revolutionary officers upon the treachery and previous character of Benedict Arnold. We give the letter entire:—Phil. Sun.
HAVERSFRAW, NEAR STONEY POINT,
1st October, 1780.

My Dear Sir:—Will you do me the justice to believe that neither want of affection or inclination, but a thousand other intervening circumstances have prevented me from writing sooner? Indeed my dear sir, we have hitherto had but a very disagreeable campaign;—what with private feuds and public misfortunes, I am almost distracted and worn down. Just as I had effected a temporary reconciliation among the officers of this line to measures which had wounded their feelings, and beginning to feel a little happy—the perfidy of Gen. Arnold has opened a new field for anxiety of mind, and distrust of some others, both in the Cabinet and the Field.

I can't say that I was much shocked on the occasion. I had long known the man; as early as 1770 he produced a conviction to me that honor and true virtue were strangers to his soul—and however contradictory it may appear, he did not possess either fortitude or personal courage. He was naturally a coward and never went into danger but when stimulated by liquor, even to intoxication, consequently not capable of conducting any command committed to his charge. But however that may be, had he succeeded in the dark affair—Charleston and the other recent military check we have experienced in South Carolina, would be trifles to the loss of West Point and its dependencies—for by possessing that pass, the Enemy would effectually separate the Northern and Middle States, and prevent any possible communication short of half moon, situate 12 miles north of Albany. By this means they might direct their whole force to any point without being in danger of a junction of the forces of these States to molest them in their operation.

The storm was to have taken place last Tuesday night or the next morning. The garrison of West Point was so detached and the works so wretchedly manned and provided, that the whole must have been carried in twenty minutes. His Excellency fortunately—very fortunately—arrived at that place about half an hour before the treachery was discovered—but Arnold made his escape in a boat and proceeded down the river as a flag, and got on board the Vulture Schooner-of-War. The General expecting that, as the enemy were embarked, and every thing in perfect readiness, for the enterprise, Sir Henry Clinton would (notwithstanding the discovery) attempt to carry the works by assault, well knowing the debilitated state of the garrison and the proper points of attack, and that our army was not within supporting distance—he therefore dispatched an express at 7 o'clock that evening, which reached us by 12 at night, directing Gen. Greene to order the Pennsylvania Line to proceed with all possible dispatch under my command, and endeavor if possible to get possession of the files leading from Stony Point to West Point. We immediately marched, leaving our camp standing, and by sunrise passed that pass, being upwards of sixteen miles in four hours, performed in the night, without a single man left behind.

Here we yet remain, waiting for Sir Harry's motions—but knowing our position, he will not be hardy enough to persevere in an enterprise (although a very favorite one) that would be the price of much blood. I shall not commit myself to the fortifications, but will decide the fate of the day at the point of the Bayonet in the gorges of the defiles, through which the enemy must pass before they reach the works.

My kindest wishes to sister Sally and her little people—present my best respects to mother Penrose and believe me Yours most affectionately.
ANTY. WAYNE.

Last Words of the Presidents.
When Washington was 67 years old he laid upon his death-bed. "I find I am dying," said he; "my breath cannot last long." And again: "Doctor, I die hard, but I am not afraid to go: I believed, from my first attack I should not survive it; my breath cannot last long." And so he ceased to breathe.

More than a quarter of a century elapsed before a similar scene was witnessed. Then on the same day, the first jubilee of the nation, Adams, at 90 years of age, and Jefferson, at 83, came down to their last hour. "I resign myself to my God," said Jefferson, "and my child to my country." Soon after Adams exclaimed, "Independence forever!" and all was over. They, too, had ceased to breathe.

MARRIED.
On Sunday evening, by the Rev. Mr. Brisbane, Mr. Nelson Weiser, to Miss Elmira R. Massey, both of this Borough.
Our young friends, in the excess of their own happiness, were not unmindful of their friends. A liberal share of the good things which are the usual accompaniments of marriages of hearts and hands, proved that we were held in kind remembrance. We thank them for this most welcome present and will only add that those who thus remember the printer in the days of their youth, "cannot fail to be happy in their old age."
On the 20th of April, by the Rev. Daniel Zeller, Mr. Manasses Schiffert, to Miss Sabina Moyer, both of Allentown.
