Kossuth in Washington.

Louis Kossorii, his lady and suite, ar-rived in Washington, City on the 30th of December. Kossuth was received at the depot by the Senate committee of invitation by the Marshal of the District, in behalf of the Executive government and by the Mayor and several members of the Common Council, after his arrival at Brown's Hotel, in behalf of the Corporation. There was no parade no cannonade, no procession no decoration of the streets and houses in Turkish and Hungarin flags (with the exception of Brown's Hotel,) no overwhelming multitude crazy with excitement cheering the great Hungarian to the echo; no groups of enthusiastic ladies, filling the windows with beautiful, and waving white handkerchiefs by thousands in taken of their approval of the new docume of non-intervention -nothing of all this. On the other hand, the illustrious exile was taken from the depot to his hotel as unceremoniously as any other lion, and though there was a crowd the distinguished stranger, than from any

The sudden retirement of Lord Palmerston from the office of Foreign Secretary, caused the greatest amazement and most profound regret of the whole nation. His successor, it is officially announced, is Lord Granville.

The withdrawal of Lord Palmerston from the government is imputed to the dissensions which have been known to exist in the Cabinet for several months past, and was probably, precipitated by the significient reception and emphatic avowal of opinion to the Kossuth deputation, to whom his Lordship used language by no means complimentary to the absolutists of Europe. The fearless position assumed by his Lordship proved distasteful to the majority of the ministry, and hence the result.
