Whig National Convention.

The Washington correspondent of th Philadelphia North American-an extreme advocate of the nomination of Gen. Scottmakes the following calculation of the vote | La Fayette :of the Whig National Convention, on the first ballot for President:

For Gen. Scott.—Delaware 3; Maine 8; New Hampshire 4; Vermont 4; Rhode Island 3; Connecticut 4; New York 30; New Jersey 7; Pennsylvania 26; Ohio 23; Indiana 13; Illinois 11; Iowa 2; Wisconsin 5; Michigan 4; California 2-total 150. For Mr. Fillmore .- Vermont 1; New York 3; Pennsylvania 1; Iowa 2; Michigan I; Maryland 8; Virginia 15; North Carolina 10; Florida 3; Kentucky 12; Missouri 9; Louisiann 6; Tennessee 12; Mississippi 7; Arkansas 4; Texas 4-to-

For Mr. Webster. - Rhode Island 1; Connecticut 2 ; New York 2 ; New Hampshire 1; Massachusetts 13; California 2-

The Baltimore Patriot says, the Convention-will consist of 295 members, of which 148 would be a majority, so that the writer in the North American thinks that General Scott could be nominated on the first ballot but he suggests that there are considerations which may induce his friends to yield a part of even this original force; so that no choice will be made on the first ballot; and then he calculates General Scott will get 182 votes on the second ballot, among them two from Maryland and five from Virginia.

We publish this statement as showing the expectation of the advocates of the nomination of Gen. Scott. Critically examined, it would be impossible to prove its correctness, even in stating the probable vote of the Convention on the first ballot. California, for instance, is divided with General Scott, when the declaration of the Whig Convention of that State was decidedly for Mr. Webster. Vermont is claimed for him, though the delegates from that State are believed to be for Mr. Webster or Mr. Fillmore. Iowa, Illinois, Wisconsin, and other States, which are set down wholly for Gen. Scott, are at least doubtful, while the signs indicate clearly that Mr. Fillmore is certain of some of the votes from those States. And then on the second ballot two votes are taken from Mr. Fillmore in Maryland and transferred to Gen. Scott. If this is the basis on which his friends rest their hopes of his nomination, they will surely be disappointed. We could make a calculation that would show that Mr. Fillmore will be the nominee of the Convention, on more plausible grounds than the writer in the North American assumes against him; but the Convention will be in session here in less than a month, and we will refer the matter to it for decision, confident it will decide rightly.

Immigration to the Pacific.

at A letter in the Journal of Commerce, dated the constant immigration Offodgif Hir Hills of the State of Iowa for California and Ore

"Judging from the wagons crossed at the ferries over twice as large as it was in the cattle, sheep, &c., and making himself acspring of 1850, when six hundred teams report twenty-eight wagons and the third terry, that has no register of the number crossed together with the teams now daily crossing, will make the immigration of this season propably fifteen hundred teams or over; and the teams will average about known better. three persons, including men women and children, and about five animals, attached or loosed. It is absolutely pitiful to see such a mass of human beings and animals worth publishing—showing as not starvation, before the immense immigration on the way shall reach its destination. It is confidently affirmed that neither the persons nor their animals, in such uncounted numbers as are pressing on to California and Oregon, can survive the passage by land, and that, too, by men who have once been through. It is apprehended that the distress of 1850 will be nothing in comparison with this year's calamity; and that neither the United States Government nor California assistance will prove adequate to prevent untold misery and death on the route. Time only can tell the result."

Strawberries for the Season.

One of the Editors of the "Soil of the South," Charles F. Penbody, says he has, raised Strawberries from May till near Christmas, simply by united Hovey's Seedling and Early Scarlet's planting 9 of Hovey's to one of Scarlet's. He selected new land, and applied no manure-except a slight dressing of forest soil, in the fall covering them with leaves. He attributes his success, to watering the plants every day when it does not rain-and says by this treatment, but little grass, or weeds grow - few runners are produced-transplanting is entirely unnecessary - that the whole strength seems to go towards producing fruit, and that the vines will bear plentifully from Spring till Winter. Were this so, a revolution in rais ing Strawberries might soon be expected.

The Goosberry.

The mildew so common to this fruit has induced many persons to leave their cultivation .- A correspondent of the Bucks County Intelligencer, gives this as a certain preventitive-easy and cheap enough it is too,

If the soil around the roots of goosberry bushes, is kept covered with hay, wet occasionally in a weak solution of salt water, or better still perhaps, with marsh or "salt adequate penalties, the attendance and the confined or shady place the fruit will never by the officer charged with the execution of be injured by the disease. The following is the letter, written by President Washington to the Emperor of Germany, in relation to the imprisonment of

"PHILADELPHIA, May 15, 1798. "To the Emperor of Germany : - II will readily occur to your Majesty, that occations may sometimes exist, on which official considerations would constrain the chief of a nation to be silent and passive, in relation even to objects which affect his sensibility, and claim his interposition as a man. Finding myself precisely in this situation at present, I take the liberty of writing this private letter to your Majesty, being persuaded that my motives will also be my apolosense of the services rendered to them by the Marquis de La Fayette; and my friendship for him has been constant and sincere. to have quiet, as a man frequently refuses thize with him and his family in their misfortunes, and endeavor to mitigate the calamities which they experience; among which, his present confinement is not the submit to your Majesty's consideration whether his long imprisonment, and the confiscation of his estates, and the indigence and dispersion of his family, and the painful anxieties incident to all these circumstances, do not form an assemblage of sufferings which recommend him to the mediation of of Mr. Tooms. humanity? A writer in the Ohio Cultivator, discoursing on the above subject, thus hits at some of the prominent benefits derived from shows of this character:

The Finalty of the Compromise. The Legislature of a Slave State is the first to propose a reopening of the dangerous discussion on the Fugitive Slave Law.-Mr. Liggert, Chairman of the Select Committee appointed by the Maryland House of Delegates, to consider so much of the Governor's Message as relates to the murder of Edward Gorsuch, and the trial of the treason case in Philadelphia, has made a report accompanied by resolutions, instructing its Senators and requesting its Representatives in Congress to urge an amendment of the Fugitive Slave Law, so as to enforce, by unless the bushes stand in a very aid of the "posse comitatus" when required the ends of justice, and allay all irritation and excitement between the citizens of Ma-Ex-Senator Hannegan has been placed ryland and that State, should pass a law 2d section of the 4th article of the Constitu-

We confess to no small degree of surprise at this movement. What does the South want? First it insisted that the Compromise is a finalty. All the Democratic aspirants for the Presidency have so asserted in their letters to Mr. Scott of Richmond. Gav. Johnston was soundly abused for saying that the Compromise measure must be enforced while they were the law of the land but that he thought the Fugitive Slave Law could be profitably amended. Now the Maryland Legislature wants to unsettle the finality and open the question again. Let the South beware ! If ever the law is again gy for it. In common with the people of before Congress on its merits the North will this country, I retain a strong and cordial insist on the incorporation of the trial by jury and the habeas corpus.
