Terrible Catastrophe :

Burning of the Steamboat Henry Clay.

Out city was startled on Wednesday afternoon with the report that the North Rivbeen lost. The story was at first thought to be a hoax, similar to that last season concerning the Reindeer; but by the successive arrival of the Hudson River Railroad mense excitement immediately followed.

"The Henry Clay had been totally destroyed by fire, at a place a short distance | the King had made a grant of nearly all the below Yonkers, and a great number of persons had lost their lives by drowning."

Our reporters left in the 6 P. M. train and remained on the ground until half-past O during which time twenty-two or twentythree bodies had been recovered, and the work of grappling was still going on. - The particulars and incidents of this territle catastrophe are briefly detailed below. The Henry Clay left Albany at 7 o'clock yesterday morning, having on board, as near as could be ascertained, some 300 passengers. The Armenia left the same place a few minutes afterward. On the passage down the river there was, as witnesses testify, a continuous strife or race between the two boats. At one time the Clay crowded the Armenia almost upon the western shore, and forced her to drop astern, &c. The passengers on board the H. Clay, finally became greatly alarmed on account of the racing, and some time before the fire a number of ladies were crying and running about the cabin, as if sensible that some catastrophe was impending. Some of the officers of the boat went among them, assured them that there was no danger, and tried to pacify them.

We are assured that the race had been so hotly contested that the boats had purposely missed some of their landings. The runners of the boats at the various landings appear to have been aware of the racing, since. they were freely offering bets upon their lavorites.

However, no accident, or outrage occur red until a few minutes after the Henry Clay passed Yonkers, when it was discovered that the woodwork near the boilers and flues was on fire. The alarm spread, but the officers of the boat (judicously without doubt,) told the passengers that there was no danger.

The pilot, however, say that no time was to be lost, and-headed the boat for the eastern shore. The river here is nearly two miles wide, and the boats in her regular course would have been a mile and a half from the cast bank.

Before reaching the shore, the flumes had spread so as almost to prevent communication between the fore and aft parts of the boat.

At about three or quarter-past three o'clock, the boat came ashore, lying at right angles with the river, and the bow driving up some twenty-five feet on dry land, and plunging with tremendous force into the quantities elsewhere. railroad embankment which is there some six or eight feet high.

The sheek overthrew the smoket ipe, dislittle to the spreading of the flumes. While the bow was high and dry, the greater porheld nearly all the passengers, was in deep water.

The passengers immediately began to safely, and began to help the others. A board fence, near by, was instantly stripped and the boards thrown into the water .--- y all with loss of clothes, trunks, &c. forced the passengers at the stern overboard extensive. was the cause of the loss of a larger number of lives. The scene was one of the most terrible chartrying to save some child; children struggling in the waves without a hand to help them ; husbands and wives drowning together rather than seperate, and the remorseless fire destroying the last standing-place of the helpless victims.

Great Land Case.

The great land question concerning the Alagon grants in Florida, has been decided in the United States District Court, held at St. Augustine, in favor of the United Sates er Steamer HENRY CLAY had blown up and of Alagon. The case involves the construction of the treaty with Spain, in 1819, and the powers of the Spanish King under the quasi Constitutional Government which then existed .- In the treaty it was stipulated that trains, the story was confirmed, and an im- as valid all grants of land made by the Spanthe United States would recognize and treat ish King previous to the treaty. During the pendency of the negotiation, however lands not previously granted in Florida to the Duke of Alagon, and when the treaty came to be ratified, our Minister, or we rather think Mr. Adams, the Secretary of State protected against the validity of the Alagon grants and obtained from the Spanish King, in the act of ratification, a disavowal of the grant. But a citizen of the United States, had obtained an assignment of the grant, and he and his heirs have insisted upon its validity, and contested the question before Congress and in the Courts ever since .---They deny the authority of the Spanish King to set aside a grant duly made, and insist that these rights are so vested that the United States are bound in law to confirm them.

The recent suit was brought in the nature of an ejectment, against a person holding under a title derived from the United States. The Court charged against the plaintifl both as to the form of the suit and the merits of the claim. It ruled that a suit in ejectment would not lie, and charged further by the Spanish law that this was a grant upon conditions, and the Duke of Alagon having failed to comply with these condition, the grant had become void ; that the sale of Hackley

(the first American purchaser) was in violaion of the Spanish law, and the lands became forfetted to the King; that annulment the court of Over and Terminer and Geneof this grant by the King was a good an- ral Jail Delivery, to be holden at Allentown nulment in Spain, and that the grant would county of Lehigh, on the not have been recognized by the Spanish

The lands in question cover more than half-of the State of Florida, and the uncertainty of the titles has materially obstructed and all those who are bound by recognizanthe settlement of that State. - New Orleans ses to prosecute against the prisoners that
