NORTH CAROLINA.

The whigs of North Carolina are making preparations to thoroughly organise and canvass the State. Meetings are held nightly at Raleigh, and in other important towns .-Committees have been appointed to correspond with the Executive Committee at Raleigh, to see that the State is thoroughly organized, and distribute documents. Raleigh Register noticing the Webster Meeting in Boston, remarks :

If our friends in Massachusetts are in carnest, we can assure them they are laboring boring under a most unaccountable delusion. If they expect the whigs of North Carolina to assist in defeating the nomince of the Baltimore Convention, by uniting in a factious opposition, they will be disappointed. A Webster and Graham ticket will not command 500 votes in this States.

THE CONTEST IN KENTUCKY.

Col. Thomas F. Marshall-the erratic but eloquent Tom-who was a leading stumper for Cass against Taylor in 1851 is now a Whig State elector and making powerful speeches for Scott and Graham. The Covington Journal of the 21st inst., gives an account of a regular meeting of the Chippewa Club of that city on the preceeding Thursday evening, and says:

"During the evening John F. Fisk, Esq., introduced to the club six gentlemen of the Democratic party who declared their intention to vote for Gen. Scott. The announcement of each name was received with rapturous manifestations of approbation, and, when all had signed the constitution, three hearty cheers were given for Scott and Gra-

Paris, Ky., Sept. 20. General Scott was received, yesterday with great enthusiasm by a crowd of 30,000 or 40,000 at the Agricultural Fair in this place. Gen. Wool and Gen. Lawson were also present, and were introduced to the Agricultural Society by Hon. G. W. Williams in a highly complimentary speech. After the applause had subsided, General Scott rose, and was greeted by a hearty outburst of enthusiasm. He said :- Mr. President and gentlemen directors, my fair countrywomen, and fellow citizens of Kentucky in general-It is a proud thing for my associates in arms, to stand before you on an occasion like the present. It is the most agreeable incident of my life that I chanced the Catawissa railroad, open a communication and domestic features, the character and to be here at this time and until I approached tion with Williamsport. thankful for the hospitality extended to us. I have known something of the events of Kentucky before now. Your eloquent President has alluded to the deeds of arms of the three old soldiers who are now before you .-Gentlemen, Kentucky is not the place in which to ground claims to extraordinary distinction of arms. Military heroes are too general among her citizens. Through the wars with Great Britian, and more recently in Mexico, they have, been distinguished on every field, of battle, and have, by their valor, contributed greatly to the success of the American arms. Upon this soil, then and in such an assembly as this it is vain for any soldier to lay claim to unusual distinction among men who are born to arms, and ever great in deeds of arms. I need not make any reference to my poor faculties as a public speaker—faculties which I never had an opportunity or inclination to cultivate.-Again and I reminded that I am now before citizens who excel all others in their power of oratory and in their able statesmanlike qualities. It is indeed a happy thing to find ourselves in the midst of a presence such as this in Kentucky, celebrated for the beauty of her forests, for the fertility of her soil; celebrated, in fact, for everything; great in the growth of cattle, great in the growth of horses, and still greater in the growth of women and men of the first eminence and worth. Oh! that I had a voice to reach you all. Oh ! that I had some of those gifts of eloquence which would enable me to convey to you the warmth and sincerity of my feelings. My countrywomen and countrymen, now in my view, will, however understand and appreciate these feelings and receive my heartfelt thanks for the kindness they have extended to me.

The General concluded amidst very enhusiastic cheers.

Gen. Wool also made a neat speech, and the distinguished men remained on the ground for some time.

In the evening Gen. Scott attended a grand ball, and this morning he received many visits, till 11 o'clock, when he went again to
