The Wilmington (Delaware) Journal of Tuesday inform us that a Democratic "mass meeting" held there on Saturday last, the British national flag floated over the platform on which the speakers stood! And under that flag a Democratic orator is reported to have denounced General Scott as a coward

The Democratic party is entitled to all the benefit that can accrue from a general knowledge of these facts. They bring together two of the distinguishing features of Democratic organization in the canvass, and appropriately symbolize the influences that are at work to promote the election of the Democratic nominee. It is proper that a party which is hailed by Britian and her colonies as peculiarly favorable to British interest, should display the British flag wherever Democratic machinery is in motion. It is natural that the men who are not ashamed to rally under a foreign flag at an American meeting, called to discuss American politics should be bold enough to heap epithets on the name of General Scott. British intrigues, and mayhap British gold, deserve some acknowledgment; and the Delaware Democrats have only played a candid part in hoisting the British flag, and in outraging the character of one whose carlier glory is associated with the humiliation of that flag upon the American continent.

The American people will readily comprehend the whole affair.
