

The New Empress of the French.

We are in possession of some interesting details in the history of the lady, who, as is officially announced, was to be united to Louis Napoleon by civil act on the 22d, and by religious rites on the 29th of last month. These details we have received from a foreign gentleman, who is perfectly acquainted with the facts and persons in question; and they may be relied on as authentic.

Senorita Engenia de Teba, or as she is more usually known, M^{lle}. de Montijo, is the daughter of a nobleman, who belonged to one of the most eminent families of the Spanish aristocracy, that of Palafox and who distinguished himself in the civil war of 1823, under the title of the Count de Teba. At that time he became acquainted with Miss Maria Kirkpatrick, the dashing and handsome daughter of a Scotch gentleman, who held the post of Consul of the United States at Malaga. A love affair and romantic marriage was the consequence. The new-made Empress is the daughter of this Spanish grandee, and Maria Kirkpatrick, who is still living, a widow and who accompanies her daughter on her present visit to Paris, where she has appeared under the title of Countess de Teba. After the marriage, in 1823, the death of an elder brother conferred upon the Count, along with a score of other titles, that of Montijo, by which name, since her first appearance in fashionable life, the daughter has been generally distinguished. She also inherits a handsome fortune, her independent income being something like $30,000 a year. The father died some years since, leaving two daughters; the elder now wears, by marriage, the title of Duchesse de Alva and Berwick, than which the Spanish nobility can boast nothing more elevated.

For some years the young Countess de Teba or Montijo, who is now about twenty-five, has enjoyed at Madrid the reputation of an exceeding fast woman. Tall, graceful, of statuesque symmetry of person with luxuriant auburn or rather red hair, a pale complexion which has latterly shined in need of a little rouge, great electrical eyes of a brown so deep and radiant, as to pass for black, rather long and aristocratic features, large but exquisitely sculptured nose a lovely mouth, and teeth of dazzling whiteness, she is a type of admirable beauty, which a languid and base air hardly diminishes. Dowered with uncommon wit and spirit, she speaks French, English, Italian and German with as much fluency as Spanish. A proficient in exercises of strength and address, she rides with the boldest, and drives four-in-hand with the most skill.

At Madrid it was the habit of our heroine to bid defiance to public opinion as the whim might seize her. She used to appear alone in public, driving her own carriage. She had a separate establishment in her father's palace inviting and receiving any company without consulting her mother, and often refusing access even to her relatives. Once her mother forced her door, despite the remonstrances of the servant, who protested that the Countess wanted to be alone. To her great amusement, she found that her daughter was missing. For twenty-four hours the young lady did not appear, and when she returned coolly informed her afflicted parent, who had loudly expressed her fears that there had been an elopement, that she had been away on an errand!

On another occasion, the whim takes her to pay a special compliment to literature, and her carriage stops at the door of Señor Escosura, one of the most prominent of living Spanish authors, who was some years since a Minister of the Crown. "Good morning, my dear sir," was her salutation to the astonished literature; "I have come to breakfast with you in order to have a talk on literature and poetry." A few weeks later Escosura gave a dinner to a number of literary men, artists, and actors, at which the Countess was present without her mother or any other lady as chaperone. She was the life of the party, making speeches and giving toasts with the loudest. Among the guests was a first-rate French actor, named Laferriere, who had great success in Madrid. He was from the Theater Historique in Paris. She took a fancy to him, and had a long conversation with him. When the time for leaving came, "Well," said the Countess, "my carriage is here, and I will take M. Laferriere to his hotel." The young man was a little abashed at such a courtesy from such a lady; but she insisted and they departed together.

M^{lle}. de Montijo was also a great sports-woman, and very popular, of course, among the terriers or bull-fighters. She was present at all the bull-fights in Madrid, where she used to wear the most magnificent costume of a Maja de Sevilla, something like that of M^{lle}. Soto, in the ball of the same name at Niblo's, but much more characteristic. A very large and high comb at the top of the head, with wreaths or roses falling on each side, mixed with the hair; a profusion of diamonds, necklaces, bracelets and rings; a very showy and tight waist, cut low in the neck, and with bare arms; a very short skirt, open-worked stockings with colored embroidery, and very small embroidered slippers. When she appeared in the circus, she was saluted by all the terriers, and exchanged with them the most cordial greetings. "To thee, Countess de Teba, I dedicate my love and my prowess!" they would exclaim, waiving kisses toward the young lady. "Bravo, Antonio! Bravo, Jose! Well fought, my boys, and other words of most liberal approbation, were the answer. In all such scenes there was a considerable display of Spanish frankness, which would have been very shocking to the sense of propriety of American ladies.

Like all fast women, our Countess found a matrimonial establishment difficult to obtain. Once she courted the Duke of Osuna, the richest grandee of Spain, but he declined the honor. Disappointed in this scheme, she received the addresses of a young noble of Castile, and was nearly engaged to marry him. But she could not help flirting at the same time; and once when this young man was in her drawing-room, she went so far in her coquetry with another, that the former aspirant for her hand seized a chair and threw it at her head saying, with the most opprobrious epithets, that he would not marry her for the world. The insult was represented by the last object of her attentions, and two or three duels were the consequence. The result of all these acts of dashing eccentricity, and of all these scandals, and of others quite as notorious, was that it would have been little less than impossible for M^{lle}. de Montijo to marry a gentleman of her own rank in Spain.

For three or four years past M^{lle}. de Montijo has been wont to spend the winter in Paris, where her conduct has been much circumspect than at Madrid. Still, she has never gained an entry into the aristocratic circles of the Faubourg St. Germain. But she was compensated for this exclusion by knowing she was received at the Elysee, and by the profound impression she made upon its master. From the first she inspired Louis Napoleon with an ardent passion, which justified her resolution to become his wife and share the glories that destiny had in reserve for him. In accordance with this determination, she steadily rejected other proposals without regard to their magnificence. It was currently reported at Paris a few months ago, that her reply to his prostration of love had been:—"Prince I am of too good a family to be your mistress,"—and, if the saying be not exactly true in fact, there is no doubt that it is so in spirit. Lately the intentions of the lover have increased in zeal, and the position of the lady in his Court has been more marked than ever. She was the heroine of every festival; during the recent excursion of the Court to Compiègne, she stood at its head as the bright particular star of the imperial admiration and there were not wanting those who predicted her marriage with Napoleon. Still the love hesitated. He adored, he worshipped, yet he didn't come up to the mark. But the Countess was not discouraged. She is too skillful an actress to be at fault in such an emergency. She announced the approaching departure of herself and her mother for Madrid. The result was the proposal of marriage, the appointment of the day, the announcement to the Ministers and the world that the Countess was to be his wife and no doubt ere this the Reine de Madrid and the grand-daughter of the former U. S. Consul at Malaga has become Empress of the French. It is said that a gipsy once predicted that she would be elevated to a throne, after the fashion of famous prediction of the negroes to Josephine. It remains to be seen how far the future will complete the parallel between the wives of the two Napoleons.—N. Y. Times.

The New French Empress. The New York Commercial publishes a communication (from one who was formerly a resident of Spain) giving the following sketch, which seems to explain the family origin of the new Empress of France very satisfactorily. Her history is no less romantic than that of Empress Josephine:—

"By to day's advices from Europe, we are told that the Emperor Napoleon III. has espoused a Spanish lady, whose grandfather was British consul at Malaga, and whose mother was an Irish lady by the name of Fitzpatrick; also, that this new Empress was in her own right, Countess Teba, although bearing the name of M^{lle}. Montijo. This much by telegraph. Now the plain English of all this is no doubt, as follows:—

A worthy Scotchman, by the name of Wm. Kirkpatrick, was for some time the American consul at Malaga, and failing in business, was succeeded by George G. Bartol as United States consul at Malaga. This was, I think, under President Monroe's administration.

"Mr. Kirkpatrick's eldest daughter Maria or 'Marinetta,' as she was familiarly called and known by all Americans there, was a very fine, dashing lady, and married the Count de Teba, a younger brother of the celebrated Palafox, who behaved so gallantly at the siege of Zaragoza, and who in reply to a demand of surrender, declared he would continue the defence by "War to the knife."

"The Palafox family embraced numerous titles, and was singularly brave and noble. "This husband of Maria Kirkpatrick (Count de Teba) was a gallant soldier, and so cut up by wounds as to be unable to mount his horse without aid, and when in the saddle looked more as if he was hooked on than seated there.

"The new Empress of the French is no doubt the daughter of this Countess Teba, 'Marinetta Kirkpatrick,' who was the daughter of Wm. Kirkpatrick, late, United States Consul at Malaga—not British Consul—not Fitzpatrick—and not Irish.

"The British Consul at Malaga was William Laid, another, old Scotch gentleman, and he was followed by Mr. Marks, an Englishman. "If the new Empress of France was Countess Teba, as stated, then her mother is dead, as also is her father, and she took the title of her mother. The name Montijo, under which she passed in Paris, is perhaps one of the family names, or titles of the Palafox family."

Air Engine in France.—A French paper contains an account of the development of a new motive power in Paris, on the 12th of December. The invention consists in the compression of atmospheric air within one thirtieth of its natural space, and confined in a bottle placed under the seat of a miniature carriage, it served as propelling power. The paper states that two large carriages were being constructed and soon we shall see the curious spectacle of an omnibus traversing without noise, without fire and without smoke the Boulevards of Paris, and transporting, at a cost of a cent, or less, fourteen passengers from Bastille to Madelaine—about four miles.

Georges Gezz, Esq. Mayor of Reading City, died on the 10th instant. He served with distinction in the last war with Great Britain.

Sugar Making in Havana.

Mr. Fuller, the editor of the New York Evening Mirror, has been visiting some of the sugar estates in Havana, and concludes one of his interesting letters as follows:

I must here close these hurried notes of my five days' ramblings among the sugar estates in the north of Cuba, having seen in this short period a sufficient quantity of "saccharine matter" to sweeten the Atlantic Ocean. From the mill at Amistad, "juice" flows at the rate of sixteen hundred gallons per hour—in a stream almost equal to the water power that turns the wheel. At the Aldama estate, they are preparing to send the juice a distance of three miles, in iron tubes, to be boiled. On a plantation of two thousand acres, you will see cane enough growing to fill the Croton Reservoir with sap. I have seen stalks upon the Alfonso estate fifteen feet in length, and large round in proportion. When it is added that ninety per cent. in weight of the cane, is juice, some idea may be formed of its marvellous richness. The best mills such as the Amistad, only obtain from seventy to seventy-five per cent. It is quite probable that some chemical means will yet be discovered of extracting the last particle from the bagazo.

Woman's Rights, &c.

A bill has been introduced into the Senate of New Jersey, proposing some radical changes in regard to the rights and privileges of married women.

Sec. 1. Gives married women the power of devising and conveying their property without the consent of their husbands.

Sec. 2. Makes the separate property of married women liable for their ante-nuptial debts, and exonerates the husband.

Sec. 3. Allows married women to prosecute in their own names and demand in their own right.

Sec. 4. Relieves husband from support of wife when living separately, except alimony on order of Chancellor, and authorizes Chancellor, on application for divorce, to decree custody of children, to either husband or wife, and decree support out of the estate of either.

Sec. 5. Enables married women, by express contract in writing, to bind their separate estate for their debts.

Section 6. Directs succession between husband and wife in case of intestacy, to remain as heretofore.

The Aztec Children.—A very beautiful gold comb, weighing fifty-seven pennyweights, and ornamented with twenty three diamonds has been presented by Mrs. President Fillmore to the Aztec girl. This mysterious little creature, in company with her diminutive and equally mysterious male companion, having visited the Presidential Mansion, excited a very lively interest in the estimable donor, who gave expression to her kindly emotions by directing the manufacture, and bestowal of the generous gift above described. Valuable as it intrinsically is, it will no doubt be most highly prized by the recipient as a memento of the happy hour she spent at the White House. The inscription upon the comb is, "President Fillmore's family present to Bartola."

The Telegraph.—The extent of telegraphic communication, completed and in operation throughout the world, at the beginning of the present year, may be estimated at nearly 40,000 miles. Of this amount there are nearly 4,000 miles in Great Britain, and in America 20,000 miles completed and in operation, with 10,000 more in process of construction. Russia has just commenced her system of telegraphs between St. Petersburg, Moscow and Cracow, and the ports of the Baltic and Black Seas. About 4,000 miles are about to be constructed in India. The only uncompleted portions that will soon present themselves on a telegraphic map of the world, will be Australia, Africa and China.

What can be got for Five Dollars!

The undersigned have entered into an arrangement by which they agree to furnish the Knickerbocker Magazine, (monthly), the Home Journal, (weekly), and the Musical World and Times, (weekly), to new subscribers, at the very moderate price of five dollars a year for the three publications; all orders, enclosing that amount to Dyer & Willis, will be promptly attended to.

Published of the Knickerbocker, MORRIS & WILLIS,
Publishers of the Home Journal,
Dyer & Willis,
Publishers of the Musical World & Times,
No. 257 Broadway, New York.

GRAND LITERARY AND ARTISTIC COMBINATION.

Arrangements have been made to furnish the KNICKERBOCKER MAGAZINE, the HOME JOURNAL, and the New York Musical World and Times, to new subscribers, for five dollars a year! This is cheap literature with a vengeance. The Knickerbocker is $3 per annum; the Home Journal, $2; and the Musical World and Times, $3; making $8 a year at the usual rates. That three such works can be obtained for five dollars a year, is a fact truly worthy the Caloric age, which is just now being ushered in. Of the Knickerbocker Magazine, edited by LEWIS GAYLORD CLARK, it is unnecessary to speak. For twenty years it has been the most genial, humorous, and spicy "monthly" in the world; and the present volume will be better than any which preceded it. The Home Journal, edited by Geo. P. Morris, and N. P. Willis, is well known as the best family newspaper in America; and the Musical World and Times, edited by Richard Storrs Willis, with Lowell Mason, Geo. H. Curtis, Thomas Hastings, Wm. B. Bradbury, Geo. F. Root, and other musical writers contributing; and which gives, among other things over $25 worth of music and a full course of instruction in harmony annually, is the very best musical Journal, ever published. These three publications will post a family up in regard to nearly everything worth knowing; Art, Science, Literature; Music, Painting, Sculpture; Inventions, Discoveries; Wit, Humor, Fancy, Sentiment; Newest Fashions and other attractions for Ladies; Choice New Music for the Sabbath, the Church and the Fireside; Reviews and Criticisms of Musical Works, Performers and Performances; in short the very pick and cream of Novelty, Incident, History, Biography, Art, Literature, and Science; including whatever can be given in periodicals to promote Healthy Amusement and Solid Instruction in the family, and help to make it Better, Wiser and Happier; may be now obtained for five dollars. Address DYER & WILLIS, 257 Broadway.

Editors publishing the above three times, and sending the papers containing it to Dyer & Willis, will receive the three works named, for one year.

Valuable Real Estate

AT Public Sale.

Will be sold at Public Sale, on Thursday the 24th day of February next, at 12 o'clock at noon, on the premises in Salisbury, township, Lehigh county,

A Valuable Tract of Land, situate in said township and county, adjoining lands of Jacob Keck, Solomon Keck, Jesse Keck, and others, containing 10 acres more or less, of which several acres are of the best meadow land, and the balance of the best farm land, conveniently divided in fields, and under good fencing. The improvements thereon consist in a two story stone Dwelling House, with convenient kitchen attached, frame barn, carriage house, wood house, and all other necessary outbuildings. Also an excellent spring with springhouse is on the premises, and the so called "Trout Creek" winds its way through the land.

Persons wishing to examine the above property, will please call upon the Executor who resides thereon.

It is a part of the property of the late Andrew Keck, of said township and county—A good title and possession can be given on the first of April next.

The conditions will be made known on the day of sale and due attendance given by

CHARLES KECK, Executor.
At the same time and place, shall be sold the following personal property to wit: Beds and Bedsteads, Tables, Chairs, Cupboards, Bureaus, Stove with Pipe, Tubs, Copper Kettle, and a large variety of other articles too numerous to mention.

Great Hat, Cap and Fur Store

IN ALLENTOWN.

Wm. Keck, Truly thankful for the liberal patronage heretofore extended to him by his friends, and a generous public, requests a continuance of that patronage from them and that they should now call, and examine the most extensive stock of HATS, CAPS AND FURS, that has ever been brought to the public, at his established and lately refitted Hat Emporium, No. 14, Wilson's Row, East Hamilton street.

He has just returned from the City of Phila., with the latest Fall style of Hats and Caps of all kinds and varieties.

The Ladies he would particularly invite to an examination of his new and select stock of Furs; consisting of MUFFS, BOAS and TIPPETS, of Fitch, Lynx, Genet, Stone-martin, Silver-martin and Siberian Furs, Swans-down, all splendid in quality, superb in appearance, and cheap in price.

The people of this neighborhood, have found it expensive to go to the great neighboring cities. Hereafter, to think themselves in either of them, will be very cheap. They will merely have to call into the above mentioned Hat store, observe the late improvements, and hear of the uncommonly low price, when at once, their imagination will impress them with the belief that they stand in one of the best and cheapest Hat stores of New York or Philadelphia.

Call, see, examine, judge, inspect, choose, price, and buy for yourselves.

TO HUNTERS.—Highest cash prices paid for all kind of furs.
