Important from Europe.

The following extraordinary and highly important Russian manifesto, reached Lon-

"By the Grace of God, we Nicholas I., Emperor and Autocrat of all the Russians. Czar of Poland, &c. &c., inform all people,

"Be it known to our beloved faithful subjects -- the defence of our faith has always been a sacred duty of our blessed ancestors. From the day it pleased the Almighty Fathers to call us to the throne, the maintenance of our holy obligations with which it is inseparably connected, has been the object of our constant care and attention. There, acting on the ground work of the famous treaty of Kainadjii, which subsequent solemn treaties with the Ottoman Porte fully confimed, have ever been directed towards upholding the rights of our Church.

"But to our extreme grief in latter times, notwithstanding all our efforts to defend the inviolability of the rights and privileges of our orthodox church, the numerous and wilful acts of the Ottoman Porte have infringed upon these rights, and threaten finally the entire overthrow of all that ancient disciplin so precious to the orthodoxy.

All our efforts to restrain the Porte from such acts have proved vain, and even the word of the Sultan solemnly given us by himself, is soon faithlessly broken. Having exhausted all the means of conviction-having in vain tried all the means by which just claims can be peaceably adjusted, we have deemed it indispensable to move our armies into the province on the Danube, in order that the Porte may see to what his stubbornness lead. But even now we have no intention of commencing war. In occupying those provinces, we will hold a sufficient pledge and guarantee for ourselves for the reestablishment of our rights under any circumstances whatever.

Conquests we do not seek for. Russia does not require them. We seek to vindicate those rights which have been so openly violated. We are even yet ready to stop the movements of our armies if the Ottoman Porte will bind itself solemnly to respect the inviolability of the Orthodox church, but if obstinacy and blindness will it otherwise, then calling God to our aid we leave it to Him to decide the quarrel, and in the full confidence in the right hand of the Almighty we shall move forward on behalf of the Or thodox faith.

Sealed at Senate, St. Petersburg, the twenty-sixth of June, 1853. RUSSIA .- A letter from St. Petersburgh, dated June 25th, says: "To judge by the aspect of society here, there can be but little intention of involving the state in war at the present moment. It is true it is far enough from here to the Danubian principalities for our troops to have passed the frontier, and we to beliving here in blissful ignorance of the fact. A number of high officials have received leave of absence, in pursuit of health and pleasure, and everything at court betokens profound peace .-There is at least an absense of war and war's alarums.

The latest telegraphic despatch, dated Vienna, July 5th, states that the Pruth was passed by the Russians at Devva, by a corps destined for the occupation of Waluchin, and at Skouliany by a corps which was to invade

Gen. Gortschakoff was to arrive at Buck-

But the old Russian party is working faith in Turkey.

It is this party-the old Russian-the Sclavonian, properly speaking-that Prince Menschikoff lends, as Count Nesselrode does the so-called German party. Any success would render the government more popular than at present with the Muscovite party, which is not now attached to the former by any good will.

It is stated that the occupation of Moldavia by Russia, had caused Austria to unite cordially with England and France.

Prussia remained neutral. TURKEY .- Letters from Constantinople, under date of June 20, say : In a month more the Porte will be able to have on foot 200.000 men. M. DeBruck is actively engaged in the work of conciliation, and is endeavoring to have his government accepted as Mediator. There are extensive movements in operation among the English and French. -Every day the discharge of cunnon announces some new arrival. The English steamer Retribution lest this morning to take up a position with the Turkish fleet at the mouth of the Black Sea, and two Admirals are momentarily expected. Important intelligence has been received from Servin which states that the Prince offers 45,000 men-of whom 15,000 are for the protection of the fortress of Belgrade, and 30,000 for that of the frontiers of the principality.

Gold is being coined in great abundance at the Mints in Turkey, and four machines are at work day and night.

Four ships are being fitted out for immediate service at the Arsenal.

The Redifs of Constantinople have ceived orders to muster.

The Turkish semi-official journal, after speaking in most flattering terms of the high qualities of the Emperor Nicholas, and the earnest wish of the Porte to oblige him, observes: "Turkey has made all the sacrifices which are possible. If it went further, it would sacrifice its dignity, fortune, independence, and existence (future.") The arti cle concludes with the expression of an ar-

Russia.

The following statement exhibits the state of the political parties at the Russian Court: There exists at the Court of St. Petersburg, in the Russian Empire, two parties, who are broadly distinguished by their respective descent from the German or Baltic provinces of the empire, or from the old Muscovite stock. A large proportion of the statesmen who have done honor to the policy of the empire, belong to the former class; among them Prince Lieven, Count Nesselrode, M. de Berkendorf, M. de Meyendorf, Baron Brunow, Baron Krudener, and many others. The reigning house of Russia is itself divided by only two generations from the German origin and the Emperor Alexander never concealed his prediction for men who screngthened his connection with the manners and ideas of Western Europe. The Emperor Nicholas has pursued an opposite course. His policy has been to identify himself with the passions, the peculiarities, the political aspirations, and the religious fanaticism of the Muscovites, and far more than his ministers, he has adopted the spirit which he chose to represent. His second and favorite son, the Grand Duke Constantine, has espoused the same great national party, with even greater fanaticism and intensity than the Emperor; in both of them, the cause of the church and the empire finds a champion, and perhaps un instrument. It is certain that the strong ambition of this party, inflamed by religious enthusiasm and the pride of a dominant race, has for years looked to the present year as the fourth centenary of the overthrow of the Greek empire, and to Constantinople as the prize of war; and, whatever may be the intrinsic worthlessness of such mystical associations and prophecies, it will not be denied that they contribute to the feelings which may lead to their fulfilment. In the impassioned indulgence of these men, the circular of Count Nesselrode which has been condemned in the rest of Europe for its illogical temerity, is denounced as a feeble and unworthy declaration of Russian supremacy. War in the shape in which it is presented to them is not an invasion, but a crusade; and the question of the Holy Places combined with a claim to the protection of the Greek Church, are precisely the subjects most culculated to kindle their ardor. If, in an evil hour for the world and for himself, the Emperor Nicholas has roused this spirit, which it is beyond June, in the year of the birth of Christ, his power to curb and subdue; if, as we have reason to fear, the advance of the army is accompanied with fresh appeals to the pride and caring of the nation, this calamitous and destructive force may break forth and lead to the most deplorable consequences. Such passions are just as lawless and hostile to the best interests of mankind as those revolutionary commotions to which the Emperor Nicholas conceives his policy to be diametrically opposed; and it matters but little whether the world is threatened by the intemperate proselytism of the French Convention, or by the popular superstition and barbarous irruptions of the Muscovite race. The triumph of might over right, and of force over law, especially when it is assisted by popular excitement, is the essence of political revolution, and, paradoxical as it sounds, the Emperor Nicholas is rapidly becoming the chief enemy of the established order of things in Europe. That is our chief danger, for the revolution which he represents is armed with enormous military orces and directed by absolute power. But, on the other hand, as its ambition is insatiable, this spirit once let loose, must sooner, away beneath the surface, and is endeavor- or later come into collision with the constiork up an interest for the orthodox tuted rights of other nations, and if Europe remains united and true to her common interests and duties, she has it now in her power to prescribe to Russia those limitations which that empire seems at present so little disposed to respect.
