

How to make one Farm equal to three.

G. T. Stewart, Esq., in a recent address before the Ohio Agricultural Society, thus speaks on the subject:

Many farmers who are destroying the productiveness of their farms by shallow work, as they find that their crops are diminishing, think only of extending their area by adding acres of surface, as if they supposed that their tillage deeds only gave them a right to six inches deep of earth. If they will take those deeds, study their meaning, and apply the lesson to their fields they will soon realize in three-fold crops the fact that the law has given them three farms where they supposed they had but one—in other words, that the sub-soil brought up and combined with the top soil and enriched with the atmospheric influences, and those other elements which agricultural science will teach them to apply to their ground, will increase three-fold the measure of its productiveness. To show to what extent the fertility of the soil can be increased, I refer to a statement in the last patent office report. In the year 1850, there were nine competitors for the premium corn crop of Kentucky, each of whom cultivated ten acres of land. Their average crop was about 122 bushels per acre. At this time the average crop of wheat per acre in the harvest of Great Britain, on the soil cultivated for centuries, is about double that produced on the virgin soil of Ohio. Why is this? Simply because British farmers are educated men, and apply work wisely. They pay back to the earth what they borrow. They endeavor by every means in their power to enrich their ground, and in return it enriches them. If our farmers, instead of laboring to double their acres, would try to double their crops and find it a vast saving and an toil, of increase of profits.

Many of them never think of digging ten inches into the soil, unless they have dreamed about a crock of gold hid in the earth. But if they would set about the work of digging in earnest, every man would find his crock of gold, without the aid of dreams or divination. We have a great advantage over our British farmers in the fact that our farmers nearly all hold the lands which they cultivate, in fee simple, while in England they are chiefly tenants, hiring the land of the nobility, paying enormous rents to the proprietors, besides heavy taxes to government. Takes here are comparatively light and our farmers are their own landlords. Hence they have been able to pay three-fold wages for labor to those paid in Europe, pay the cost of transportation, and yet undersell the British farmers in their own market.—Ohio Farmer.

The Office of Governor.

A correspondent calls attention to the 14th section of the second article of the Constitution, which relates to the contingency of the death of a Governor before the expiration of his term of office. It says: In case of the death or resignation of the Governor, or his removal from office, the Speaker of the Senate shall exercise the office of Governor until another Governor shall be qualified. But in such case, another Governor shall be chosen at the next annual election of Representatives, unless such death, resignation, or removal shall occur within three calendar months immediately preceding such next annual election in which case a Governor shall be chosen at the second succeeding annual election of Representatives. This clause of the Constitution presents some curious features. If the present Governor should die, at the present time, there could be election of his successor till 1850. If he were to die the day previous to the election, there could be no choice of his successor at the next election. Even if he were not a candidate for re-election, his death at either of the periods mentioned would prevent a choice; but if he were to die the day after the election, and another Governor had received the suffrages, the election would appear to be valid. Though the death of a candidate makes no difference in the election, the death of a Governor does.

MARRIAGE A LA MODE.—Person D., who was distinguished as an avaricious and a battery of run-away couples and Gracia Green marriage was once aroused at a late hour of the night when all had retired, by a long slab sided Yankee who was exceedingly anxious to get "whipped, as the gal's father was after them." The eager applicant stood on the door-sill, while Jimima was restlessly moving in a lumber wagon not far distant. The night was cold, and the parson, who did not much relish the idea of unrobing himself to attend to their wants, soon appeared at the window, and remarked to Jonathan, that if it made no difference to him, he would read the ceremony where was, and the parties might retain their respective positions. All agreed to the arrangement, and Yankee Jonathan performed his part, while Jimima shouted from the wagon her replies to the interrogatories. The ceremony was quickly performed, and the happy couple were about to drive away, when Jonathan, who seemed to think that all was not right, shouted from the wagon, "What's the damage?" The minister told him, that if he had anything to give, he would be obliged to him if he would slip it under the door, and he would come down and get it in the morning. Jonathan fumbled for a moment in his pockets, and then approaching the door, carefully deposited something beneath it, and went on his way rejoicing. The parson in the morning, on opening the door, discovered a "fip-penny bit" and a piece of tobacco, accompanied with the gentleman's card. Parson D. officiated at no more marriages of this character.—Journal of Commerce.

ANTI-KNOW NOTHING.—A Democratic Meeting was held in Washington City, in opposition to the Know Nothings, but when the vote was taken on the resolutions, the K. Ns. were found to be so largely in the ascendant among the Simon Pures that it was impossible to pass it.

IMPORTANT DISCOVERY.—A correspondent informs us, that a gentleman of this city, who has devoted much time to the subject, has at last made a discovery which promises to be of the highest importance to agriculture. It is no less than an effectual exterminator of all the insects which usually infest hot houses, gardens, &c. The experiment has been applied with the most signal success, and has the same effect in the open air, as under cover. The inventor is at present in Washington, patenting the discovery, and we understand it will be brought before the public at the State Agricultural Society's exhibition, at West Philadelphia, next week. We are not told as to what is the character or substance of the new remedy.

THE PURCHASE OF CUBA.—The New York Express says it has it from authentic sources that Mr. Soule has been renewing the offer to Spain for the purchase of Cuba; and that he agreed to give more than $100,000,000, the sum said to have been tendered during President Polk's administration. The Spanish Ministers, who are greatly in want of funds, although sorely tempted by the jingle of so many millions, gave the proposition some little attention, but only to reject it.

PERHAM'S GREAT GIFT ENTERPRISE.—Notwithstanding the thousand and one reports to the contrary, this great enterprise, we see, has been flourishing like a green bay tree. In the present issue we publish the proceedings of the Shareholders, in Mass Meeting, held on the 27th of July. They are of the most interesting character, and will repay a careful perusal. Mr. Perham's card also should claim the attention of all, being liberal in the extreme, and cannot fail to ensure the sale of the remaining tickets in a very limited time. Send in orders for tickets without delay and thus hasten the desired consummation of the enterprise.

Allentown Seminary.—Rev. C. R. Kessler, A. M. Principal. This Institution will commence its 14th session on the 1st of November next. On the same day the dedication of the new house will take place; at which occasion Professors Porter, of Lancaster and Mullenburg of Gettysburg, will deliver Addresses in English, and some gentlemen from the neighborhood in German. We trust that a large number of the friends of the Institution and Education in general will favour us with their presence. A considerable number of applicants for admission into the school and boarding establishment, could not be received during the past school year, because there was no room for them. This fact, as well as their own commendable zeal in the cause of Education, induced the proprietors of the school property to accede to the Principal's wish of having the school and boarding accommodations enlarged. Consequently a large additional building has been erected during the past summer, standing between the Principal's residence and the late school house, connecting with both. And now we venture to say, that both the situation and accommodations of the Allentown Seminary are of such a superior order, that but few, if any, similar Institutions in the State surpass it either in beauty of scenery, or in comfort and convenience of the buildings, both for boarders and day scholars. Of the former we can conveniently accommodate 100 and of the latter more than that number. Pupils of all ages are received, are thoroughly instructed in all the branches of a solid English Education; and, in the Latin, Greek, German and French languages, Music and Drawing. French, Instrumental Music and Drawing are the only branches, which must be paid extra. Young men and boys are prepared for advanced Classes in College, or for the various pursuits of practical life. The health, morals and manners of the boarders will be carefully attended to; and all the pupils will be required to obey strictly the rules and regulations of the school. The Rev. J. S. Kessler, D. D., the father of the Principal, will take charge of the instruction in German; and such opportunities of acquiring a thorough knowledge of this useful and beautiful language will be furnished to those pupils, who desire it, as they will rarely be met with in any similar Institution. The Principal imparts instruction in the Ancient Languages and History; and will also have associated with himself a sufficient number of competent teachers in all the branches, taught in the school. The Young Ladies' department has its own separate rooms, entrance, play ground and teachers. Besides all the branches requisite to a good English Education. Ornamental Ladies' work is taught without extra charge. Suitable private boarding houses for Young Ladies can generally be found in town. The Seminary has two sessions, each of five months. Terms: $70 per session for Board, Tuition, Fuel, Light, Washing and Mending. Persons that wish to enter this school, either as boarders or day scholars, and such as desire further information, will please to apply as early as convenient to the Principal. C. R. KESSLER, Principal. Allentown, Sept. 27.
