

From the Milwaukee American, Oct. 19. -
Heathendom in Milwaukee.
A DEAD BODY TO BE BURIED.—For the sake of the fair fame of the city, and the reputation of the better portion of our citizens, who profess to be Christians and enlightened people, we should like to have the record which follows wiped from our memory, and blotted from the list of horrible acts of which our city has too long been the scene. But this is impossible. Already the meagre accounts have flashed to the borders of our country, and the whole civilized community have shuddered with horror at the terrible thoughts suggested, and any attempt to cover it up or apologize for its enormity, would make us, in a degree, parties to it.

“Free Love Society.”
One need not go so far as Salt Lake city, to find public dissolute conduct, and morals the laxity of which is most detrimental to the interests of society. In New York city, the Society of America, a society has been organized, for the purpose of corrupting still more the already corrupted society of that city. Under the above interesting title, the members meet, and from accounts published in New York papers, one would imagine that their meetings were of quite an agreeable character, to those disposed to throw off all restraints imposed upon them by social custom. The Tribune gives the following sketch of their mode of doing things and the object of their organization:—
The Club meets on Monday and Thursday evenings of each week, over Taylor's upper saloon, No. 555 Broadway. This club is composed of between five and six hundred members with an average attendance of one hundred and fifty; though the attendance has been much larger than usual since the affair has gained some general notoriety. There were, as we understand, some three hundred present at the last meeting. At these semi-weekly meetings, the members of the Club and the strangers whom they introduce, walk, talk, waltz, sing, flirt, and endeavor to enjoy themselves as best they may—each selecting his or her associate according to attraction and infidelity, and always with a due regard to Individual Sovereignty. Occasionally, the audience is amused, entertained, or bored—as the case may be—by a speech from the chief, or some other great man in the Free Love Israel, who may be pressed with the idea that he has an important message to communicate. Although the exercises, topics, and amusements indulged in take a wide range, the main idea which draws and holds together this motley party is Free Love, Passional Attraction, as some of them prefer to call it. They repudiate the present system of marriage, deny the right of society or the State to interfere in any way with the subject any further than may rightfully interfere with any civil contract, and contend that marriage may be limited for life partnership, at the option of the man or woman who are sole and rightful judges of the time and manner of its beginning and termination. One of their favorite dogmas is that a woman has the right to choose the father of her own child. This theory has, we understand, been reduced to practice to a considerable extent in this city. One young man, whose name we withhold, had considerable difficulty in converting his wife to the new theory, but finally succeeded, and was rather crest fallen when he discovered, a few months later, that his wife was “attracted” in another direction than to himself. He took the matter philosophically, however, and by the inflexible law of passionate attraction, finally discovered his true partner in the person of another man's wife; and the four re-named are now said to be living loving under the same roof.

Horrible Murder and Suicide.
About three weeks since, a young man, a stranger, who stated that his name was Auburn, and that he was from Boston, Mass., came to this city and sought and obtained work at the cabinet establishment of Messrs. Binford & Porter, as a designer and carver. After working a few days, and proving himself a first rate carver, and earning $38, which were paid him, he rented a house on Main street, near Twenty-second street, and employed a carpenter to fit the same up for a grocery, oyster and drinking house. He also employed a young man to assist him in the grocery, which was to be opened on Monday, (to-day.)
On Friday night last, Auburn was arrested on a charge of enticing away and harboring two negro men, belonging to Messrs. Jesse Williams and H. Grant, and who had disappeared a few days previous. The time of arrest was about 12 o'clock, Friday night, and was effected by the police, who stationed themselves around Auburn's house, and awaited his return, which was at the late hour named. He resisted the officers with pistol and bowie-knife in hand, but was overpowered and taken to the cage. On his way to the prison he drew from his pocket a phial of strychnine, and drank a portion of it, and spit out a portion of it in the face of the officers who had him in charge. Two physicians were immediately called to his relief but he died from the effects of the strychnine about two hours after swallowing it; and the Coroner held an inquest over his body on Saturday morning.
The charge on which he was arrested was satisfactorily established, as follows:—He had received about $100 from the two negro men, under a promise to convey them to the North, and had concealed them in the third story of his house, preparatory to sending them away. One of the negroes having complained of being unwell, he gave him what he said was a dose of medicine, but which was no doubt strychnine, as the negro died soon after taking the dose.—Auburn then dug a grave in his cellar, and, with the assistance of the other negro, buried his murdered subject, first cutting his throat, ripping open his abdomen, and horribly mutilating the body in other places. This was done, it is supposed, to prevent the negro from recovering from the effects of the strychnine.
These bloody scenes occurring before the eyes of the other negro, naturally produced much alarm and uneasiness in his mind, consequently, he embraced the first opportunity to escape from confinement, which he did by leaping from a window in the third story of the house. He then returned to his master, and revealed all he knew about this most singular and horrible transaction. It is believed Auburn was in league with others engaged in the business of running off slaves, but no accomplices have yet been detected.
Auburn was a young man of genteel appearance and manner, and had capacities, as a carver and designer, to earn from $5 to $8 a day. He gave as a reason for renting a house and opening a grocery, the expected visit of his mother and some of her family from the North, to reside with him in this city.—Richmond Enquirer, 17th.
