There is no charlatanry in his pretensions.
Unless all the civilized world are deceived,
Holloway's Pills and Ointment will drive disease from the human system, under the most infavorable circumstances, and in all climes. Other men have sprang into an ephemeral notoriety by advertising their remedies. Like butterflies of the day they heve buzzed for a while and then expired; both their names and their medicines have sunk into an obscurity from which they never emerged. Others have met with a limited success, perhaps as much as they deserved. No man, though he may have the wealth of Crossus, can long deceive an intelligent people with a worthless remedy for discesse. If health follows the administration of per cent. a remedy for disease, almost without an expectation, though it is prescribed in a million of instances, and in all forms of disease, all the doctors on the globe could not make the people believe that it was not a good remedy, or that the inventor was not a benefactor and no empiric or charlatan. Professor Holloway's remedies occupy this position before the citizens of the world. The inventor is a man of enlarged powers of mind, who has seen disease in all its should be in character.
