THE LEHIGH REGISTER, FEBRUARY 11. 1857.

(From the New York Horald, 1st inst.) Horrible and Mysterious Murder in Bond Street, New York.

A very dreadful tragedy was enacted at the No. 31 Bond St., either on Friday night frared for his (Burdell's) life, and had also spo-meanly vesterday (Saturday) morning, ken of Mr. Eckel, alias Van Dolan. y early yesterday (Saturday) morning, resulted in the death of Dr. Harvey Bura dentist, who practised there. The boy to attended to the work room of the deceased on going to the above named boarding house yesterday morning, found a little after eight o'clock, the body of his employer lying on the suspicion p floor of his bed room, dead and surrounded and Eckel. with clots of congealed blood.

Much alarm naturally existed, and Dr. Francis was called in to make a post mortem exami-nation. He found that Dr. Burdell had been strangled by a ligature applied around the throat, and that the murderer had inflicted besides fifteen deep wounds with a sharp, instru ment on his person, any one of which was almost sufficient to cause death alone.

found in a room near the garret, but great caution will be required in affixing the suspicion of having committed such a diabolical crime on any person. However, the officers should not and we hope will not, rest until the perpetrator or perpetrators of the deed are made amenable hour. to justice.

Coroner Connery is now investigating this horrid affair. It has already appeared that deters with his landlady. The following testimony was taken. John Burchall, a boy, who attended to Dr. Burdell, testifica to finding him, in the morn-ing, lying on the floor with blood around him, wn stairs and gave the alarm.

Allen Smith, a partner of Burdell, testified to having heard angry words between Dr. Burdell and Mrs. Cunningham, his landlady relative to some papers and notes to a considerable nniount Never knew of anybody sleeping with the deceased at night, neither did I hear that a doctor from Havana slept with him last summer ; I never heard or knew that any female slept with him; I have never heard from him that any one owed him ill will, except the difficulty between him and Mrs. Cunningham about the notes ; the doctor told me the day before yesterday that he was very anxious to preserve some papers, that the key of the safe was taken. and that he thought he would deposit them in the bank ; the nature of the document was an agreement between him and Mrs. C. in relation to the giving up of the house on the 1st of May next to Mr. Burdell, exonerating him from all indebtcdness.

The Mrs. Cunningham alluded to is Emma Augusta Burdell, the pretended wife of deceased. She was under examination, and presented a certificate of her marriage.

From a post mortem examination of the body, it appears strangulation had been used as a mea of destroying the life of the deceased. His tongue was also found to be protruding distance from his mouth, which also proved that the deceased had been sufficated. heart were found two wounds one in the ventricle and the other in the suricle. The lungs were also cut ; also the carotid artery and first vertebia.

There were fifteen incised wounds upon the body, all of which were deep and appeared to have been made with a very narrow bladed instrument. There did not appear to be any injuries on the head. Around the neck there was a discoleration of the skin, as though the deceased had been seized by the throat while the murderer was plunging the knife with fatal dexterity into the body of the victim.

The room wherein the murder was committed was the reception room and office of the deceased. The death struggle appears to have taken place in the corner of the room nearest the door, for here the walls are stained with streaks and spots of blood. It was here too, that the jugular vein was severed, for there is a perfect stream of gore upon the wall in this of the case. Much testimony has been taken for the last eight days but as yet nothing has been elicited to fix the crime on any one, although suspicion points strongly at Mrs. Cunningham

> MACHINE FOR CUTTING DOWN TREES.-There toachine for cutting down trees. It belongs to that class of inventions which are manifestly practical and useful, and convinces the observ-er at a glance that inventive genius has achieved a great result from the simplest means. An CIRCUMNAVIGATING THE WORLD. Senators Seward, of New York, and Rusk, of Texas, will on the expiration of the session, start on a nine months' tour round the globe. They will pass across the Isthmus by Nithingua, thence to the Sandwich Islands, (where Senator Seward will deliver an agricultural address.) thence to China, and, after passing through India and Asia Minor, Egypt, and possibly Southern Europe, will sail through the Straits of Gibralter to the United States, so as to attend Congress n the early part of next session.

SPANISH COINS .- The New York Herald states that $500 of Spanish coins-quarters, shillings and six pences -yielded, by melting at the Mint, a s m in silver of $479, in other words, that $5 of these coins yielded $4.79, a loss of only 2.15 per cent., while the standard at which the government proposes to take them for dues, in the law before Congress, is at 20 per cent. discount. pear to have been any incentive to robbery in the commission of this most foul and crucl mur-Moreover none of the deceased's papers were discovered to have been touched. Every thing was in order. so that the presumption that he might have been murdered by the burglars is entirely out of the question.

Dr. Burdell was quite a wealthy man, being possessed of $80,000 in stocks and real estate. He has been married twice.

From later testimony we gleaned the follow ing particulars:

From the appearance of the room, it seems he had been sitting in his chair, looking over his papers, while some one came from behind. evidently from the closet door. The design probably was originally to strangle him, and then carry the body into the street. From the room the marks of blood were traced up along the entry and stairs into the fourth story, into a store room, where lay a man's bloody shirt and night shirt, and a bloody sheet. From there the blood was traced into the front room of the same story, where, upon the floor, the stains had been carefully covered with sperma-A grate in that room had contained a fire during the night, which had evidently been extinguished suddenly by pouring water upon it, as the coal was only partially consumed, and the mantel, &c., covered with ashes. In this story the murderers must have cleansed themselves. It appears in evidence that the Doctor was jealous of one of the male boarders, a Mr. John Eckel, whom he seems to have detected in secret with Mrs. Cunningham. On Tuesday night Mrs. Cunningham went with this man down into the basement, and told the servant down into the basement, and told the servant girl to go to bed. She went. The next morn-ing Mr. Eckel did not oppear at the breakfast, though he usually did so. The knife found in the room where the murder was committed, is said to have belonged to him. Mrs. Cunningham confessed, in her evidence, the sendin the servant to bed, and also admitted that Eckel was with her. The minister who married her, could not identify Burdell as the man to whom the was married, and said that he supposed at she time that the person wore false whiskers. Burdell's name was wrongly spelt in the certificate.

It has been ascertained that on the morning when the murder was discovered, Mr. Ecke left the house at an carly and unusual hour and proceeded to his place of business. Cunningham followed in a carriage, and he stood talking with her half an hour or more at the carriage door, opposite his factory. He was seen to give her a roll of bills. This transpired before breakfast.

California who is a marvel among snakes. The Alta Californ a says :

It is well worth while for our readers to look in and judge for themselves of his omnipotent power over the fiercest and most venomous of rentiles. His handling of his "pets" as he styles them, cannot fail to convince the most skeptical that he certainly possesses a wonder ful power over the serpent species, and the manner in which he treats the poisonous rep tiles shows that he is as fearless as the animals are timid. On yesterday, while witnessing his bold performance, we noticed that he placed in his bosom three rattlesnakes. Afterward he kissed the mouths of the rattlesnakes, pinching them meanwhile, and by every means exciting them to resistance. But the subtle snakes would crawl up his face, and wind themselves most affectionately around his neck, but make not the slightest offensive demonstration.

Since the invention of the new sewing machine it has been proposed, as they are of much less expense than women, to abolish the latter, there being no further use for them. The affair has been referred to the Committee on Ways and Means, who are now engaged in deliberating its expediency. We understand from a private dispatch, that on the only seriou objection brought against a favorable report is : "Where would we have been if such a law had been passed in 1757 ?"
