No attempt was made, and at the Charlotte junction of the city, the Vigilance Committee took him in hand, stripped him to the waist, inflicted thirty-nine lashes and a coat of tar and feathers. Hence he was forwarded by railroad to Charleston." The same journal has this paragraph under the head of its leading articles:

"THE TARRED STONE-CUTTER .- The tarred the Tarrot stone-cutter, alluded to in the Mercury's Columbia correspondence, duly arrived in this city, consigned to the Chief of Police. He walked to the guard house voluntarily in his unique dress. He relates his adventure in the simplest (mainer, concluding with the assertion that he don't care a d—n for the tarring and feathering, but the nine and thirty adminand feathering, but the nine and thirty administered to him was a little tight."

He told his history in long hours of that Saturday afternoon and a very simple, straightforward way to this effect, after denying the editor's statement that storm, and to the chilling atmosphere of a window storm, and to the chilling atmosphere of a window storm. he did not care for the tarring and feathering. ter day, on a bleak mountain, with the nearest He was born in Ireland. He came to this house miles away, and their friends ignorest country and settled in Philadelphia. He learn- of their condition; what that mother must have ed the trade of a stone-cutter. He was working with Mr. Waters, West Chestnut street, Philadelphia, a year since; but dull times growing out of the financial revulsion, caused him to leave there and seek employment else-where. He went down the Ohio and Mississippi, but could not at any or the towns and work. He, however, saw blacks employed.—

He went to New Orleans, Mobile, Augusta, his departure. Some fears were entertained that the infirmity of years would render the marriage was rised as the strength, but and other places, but was still unsuccessful.— Arriving at Columbia, S. C., he found work on the State Capitol now building there.

Among the workmen were Irish, English,
Germans and Americans; but only one South Carolinian as he recollects. At his boarding-house, accustomed as he had been to speak his mind, he among his brother mechanics spoke on more than one occasion in favor of the employment of white mechanics, and thought the black should be confined to the fields and swamps. He does not recollect ever having stated that he thought slavery should be abolished. He had east his vote in Philadelphia for Mr. Florence, the Democratic member of vas a sober man; had not drank any spirits for four months, but was one night lately "on a frolic with a brother workman. That workman testified against him as an Abolitionist, and on hearing that the Vigilance Committee was after him, he attempted to escape but was arrested at a railroad station ton miles from Columbia, and brought back to the place; was thrown into prison for some days, and then taken before the Mayor.

Four men on the trial, testified, against him.

One swore that he han stated that J. C. Fremont made a speech at Mobile, saying that in case he (Fremont) were elected President, he he came to th pears to have been laboring under the delusion that liberty of speech is moderately allowed in South Carolina; of this the Mayor, the Hon. A J. Greene, also a member of the Legislature disabused him by recommitting him to prison, where he remained for six days, up to Saturday fortnight. He was then taken by "two arshals" from his cell, and delivered into the hands of two negroes. One of the murshals said "as you are so fond of negroes, I'll give you a negro escort." He was then led through the main street by the two negroes, a great crowd following. He passed the State House yard, where the workmen were. The Carolinians about him said to the workmen. Send word to the Northerners to come her and we can whip them." He passed the Hall of Legislature; many members were on the steps—among them the Speaker—who looked on, some of them laughing. He was led three miles to the railroad junction. There, were thousands present; he thinks about half the population of the town must have been there. Troops of horse, and men armed in various Troops of horse, and men armed in various ways, were there. Some cried "Spike him!" "Shoot him!" "Hang him!" &c. He was stripped to the ankles, and a negro, under threats of being lashed himself, gave him thirtuing lashes. ty-nine lashes. The blood flowed, and the marks of this yet remain. The contents of a tar-bucket were then applied to his head and his body diwn to the waist. He suffered awful pangs, which were the subject of derision, The train during all this was stopped, and the engineer celebrated the event by sounding the vhistle freely. Powers, was, after an interval of nearly three hours, put on the train, in a car full of negroes, and taken toward Charles After he had travelled, he supposes, fifty miles a master-mechanic of Charleston, pitying his sufferings and exhaustion, gave him a cu of coffee and a biscuit; whereupon the mo of coffee and a biscuit; whereupon the mobaround the station threatened that persons, swearing also death to himself. Some came into the cars and seized him by the hair, saying, "Let's look at you." Some desired to give him a fresh coat of tar and feathers, but not being able to find any of those staples, they applied cotton to the far already on him. The mob were likewise of opinion that there were a whole lot of Abolitionists in the cars who ought to be hanged. He arrived at Charleston and was put in prison.

He had been kindly counselled to make no complaints, or he would get 130 lashes more. A physician who attended him, told him he escaped easily; for there were seven men, accused of being Northern pickpockets, arrested at Hay, per to the Agricultural State Fair, and committed to Straw, " jail. One of them had received 500 lashes; and other a less number; that the man who received the 500 was near dying. Powers had not read of any trial of these men so accused and punished. Oil and water were given him to clean himself. Silence was enjoined on him, lest the mob should get hold of him. He paid his own passage money from Columbia to Charleston, the negro taking out $5 from his pocket-book. He heard that it was published that the negroes of Columbia had made a subthat the negroes of Columbia, had made a sub scription to pay his passage. On Saturday last 7 in the morning, he was put on a steamer for New York.

Whon the Christmas festivities were at their height on Monday, this "poor Exile of Erin," with the blood lash marks on his body—inflicted under the ægis of the Constitution and laws, for some maudlin words or childish talk in Columbia, South Carolina-arrived at this great metropolis. He is reduced in the flesh, but is sturdy in spirit. He asks work, not alms. .

The total eclipse of the sun on the 18th of next July will be a very important one to the scientific world. The director of the Dorpot Observatory was the first to remark that at the moment of observation, four of the principal planets
—Venus, Mercury, Jupiter, and Saturn—will appear in the eclipsed sun as a kind of rhomdal figure; a phenomenon of such extraordinary rarity that many centuries will clapse before its repetition.

Horrible Suffering of A Fabily.—On Saturday, December 31st, 1859, during the prevalence of a severe storm, a young man whe had been sent from St. Clair to Hazelton, with The Charleston Mercury of the 19th inst., has the following paragraph under its Columbia (S. C.) correspondence:

"A workman on the new State House named Powers, has been uttering seditious sentiments here without concealment, and on more than had been sent from St. Clair to Hazelton, with a team, for the purpose of removing the family of Mr. Valentine Frantz; to the former place found it necessary to unlitch his horses and leave the wagon which contained the family on a mountain; to go home and have horses here without concealment, and on more than had been sent from St. Clair to Hazelton, with a team, for the purpose of removing the family of Mr. Valentine Frantz; to the formoring place found it necessary to unlitch his horses and leave the wagon which contained the family on a mountain; to go home and have horses here without concealment, and on more than ground, in as sheltered a position as he could find, picked up the remaining child, a boy, in his arms, and with his wife, proceeded home as rapidly as possible.

On reaching home, he informed his frient of the occurrence, and they started in search of the unfortunate sufferers. When discovered, Mrs. Frantz and the children were insense ble. The mother was lying on her back, with her babe pressed tightly to her bosom, which
